

Sophs Celebrate Freshman Week

The Sophomores have again exercised a traditional right; to put the Freshmen in their places. "Baby Week," which extended from October 4th to 8th, proved great fun for all concerned, even the Freshmen, despite the fact that the carrying of a baby's milk bottle does rather limit one's social standing.

Many rules were posted on the bulletin board and announced in class meeting, which pertained to Freshman conduct. Chief among them was the decree that "infants" must appear at all times wearing a white baby bonnet with green ribbons. A bright green bow at the neck and green sox completed this childish attire. Of course, it was understood that finger-nail polish and make-up did not belong on a girl of such a tender age and that it was still necessary for her to pull her books around in a little box.

All talking to Sophomores had to be carried on in baby talk as did the conversation in the dining-room. There were other regulations, also, which governed dining-room etiquette; such as the rule that all food must be eaten either with a spoon or the fingers, that napkins, if supplied, be tied under the chin, (if not supplied, a big or large handkerchief was pressed into use). At lunch and dinner, Freshmen were to form lines on either side of the door and sing nursery rhymes until every one else had entered the dining-room.

But these rules and regulations were but a part of the fun. On Monday evening, a Baby Show provided entertainment for the haughty but well-pleased Sophs, and on Wednesday morning during chapel period the same type of entertainment was enjoyed by the whole school. The climax to Baby Week came Wednesday night when all the Freshmen were ushered into the Juvenile Court. After this ordeal, all that remained to do, was to restore good feeling between the two classes. This was very successfully done Friday afternoon, when the Sophomore class entertained the Freshmen at an Open House in the "Y" Hut.

STUDENTS HEAR TALK BY MRS. E. K. McLARTY, JR.

Mrs. E. K. McLarty, Jr., addressed students and faculty of Queens-Chicora college at the chapel program yesterday morning.

Mrs. McLarty spoke on "Campus Courtesy." She expressed the qualities of a queenly and noble woman as simplicity, sympathy, sincerity, serenity, and service.

Rev. E. K. McLarty, Jr., pastor of the Big Springs Methodist church, sang on the same program.

MISS WRIGHT TO ATTEND HOME ECONOMICS MEET

Miss John Wright, a senior in the department of Home Economics at Queens-Chicora college will attend an executive meeting of the North Carolina Home Economics association which will be held at the Woman's college of the University of North Carolina in Greensboro tomorrow.

Miss Wright is president of the State Student Home Economics clubs, and is also president of the Home Economics Club at Queens-Chicora college. At the meeting in Greensboro tomorrow the year's work will be outlined and an advisory chairman for the student clubs will be elected.

Around Washington

Washington, D. C.—Notes at the end of a Washington Summer . . .

During the hottest periods the young folks went in for tall, cool drinks during the week, and fled the city on week-ends. Usually they fled to Virginia Beach, Atlantic City, beaches along the Potomac in Tidewater Virginia or on Chesapeake Bay. They came back hotter than ever, exhausted, and in no mood for the daily Government grind. A small group, including the writer, went in for very tall drinks during the week, and on the week-ends fled to the chill interiors of local movie houses, only emerging when the temperature dropped to 90 degrees and the asphalt returned to a solid state. We knew better than to leave the city. Scouts had told us that in hot weather the brass doorknobs of Atlantic City became just as mushy as they did in Washington. (Prevarication by courtesy of Mark Twain).

Despite the drought, there was a very good crop of straw votes which had to be threshed over by the sages of the Republican National Committee and the Democratic National Committee. The sages proved to their own satisfaction that any given straw vote figure could be interpreted as a presage of defeat or a promise of victory. The writer, after interviewing three citizens in a local hotel, a street car conductor, and a stranger on Pennsylvania Avenue, has come to the conclusion that the election is in the bag for Thomas Jefferson. Both Democrats and Republicans were for him.

WHY Humming Bird

REFUSES TO OFFER YOU "SKIMPY" HOSIERY

THERE'S no trick to making "bargain hosiery" by knitting less than the standard number of courses in the legs and feet. There's no trick to stretching those too-short legs and feet on the drying boards so that they measure standard when you first see them. But no one can knit sub-standard hosiery so that it will STAY standard after you wash it. You are doomed to disappointment when you risk "skimpy" hosiery. To avoid disappointing you, Humming Bird knits every style STANDARD PLUS. There are always extra courses, extra silk and extra satisfaction for you. Another reason why . . .
