Somewhere I heard that some prominent Charlotteans are planning a Book Fair. It would be the first ever held in this part of the South. The plans really sound fascinating to me—well known authors to hear, new books to examine, and everything that goes to give book lovers a good time. Well—here's hoping the plans don't fall through!

This year marks the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the signing of the Constitution. It has been a long time since "We the People of the U. S. of America" declared our independence from the old world. Many things have happened both in America and in the world at large but still we are following the ideals set down for us by our far sighted forefathers. Under the protection of its precepts our nation is marching forward to a new destiny.

Madame Curie: A Biography by Eve Curie of her famous mother will come off the press this month. Vincent Sheean has translated it into English. In the light of the interest in radium recently this book should prove very interesting.

Campus Comment

November's here—but definitely—and believe me it came with a bang! But then that's the way November—that grand month of football, frosty mornings, roast turkey, and pumpkin pie—should come. And with the coming of November, Queen's hums with unusual activity for not so very far away are two special events. Two guesses as to what they are—Easy, eh? Why of course, stunt night and the first big party of the year. Stunt night is going to be unusually good this year judging from the whispering, sly looks, carpentering (if there is such a word), and song practices. More fun! Then on the following night comes the party. Better get your best bib and tucker ready as there's going to be a big time on the campus that night . . . There's one freshman on the campus who, in my humble opinion, is going to be at the top of the list. If you see a stack of books walking around with a head somewhere behind and a pencil somewhere behind the ear—then that's Ermine. Yes, she, of the Waddill sisters. They tell me that she went through high school hidden behind a tower of books and it seems that she's planning to do the same thing at Queens. More power to you, Ermine . . . Step right this way, folks and have the thrill of a lifetime—the only one in captivity—don't push now, there's room for everyone—yes, it's the one and only Louise Craine doing the WALENGA—sorry, folks, I can't spell it but anyway it's well worth whatever it takes to get in the room where the performance is. The dance is a native dance that Louise learned in Africa and if you can get her to do it for you, fine!—But don't tell her that I told you . . . And have you heard about Vivian Bane's sense of humor? If not, ask Jo McDonald about it.

Peasants We

Sister Peasants, there comes a time in every woman's life when she finds it necessary to cover the "can't do anything with" hair with a bright square folded the proverbial 3 cornered way—(it's strange, the uses to which one can put the 3 cornered method). This peasant motif is done, not so much to keep up with the rest of the world, as it is done to preserve one's self-respect. However, in preserving the self-respect, one may injure the eyes of another. The galaxy of colors in some of the peasant scarfs hit the eye rather forcefully, but it is more pleasant to be hit by a half-back with a football trucking around a scarf, than by a Little Orphan Annie hair-do. Besides the football peasants, one may see around the campus — Tyolean - peasants, Czechoslovakian peasants, collegiate pennant peasants, hot spot peasants, radio city peasants, and various others. There has appeared recently a new type of scarf—"the big apple" (what strange, new thing is this?) As yet there are not "apple" peasants on Salem campus, but we have no doubt that our modern peasant sisters will soon be displaying this unique (?) idea.

The strength to do things is not in every person, but courage grows with the will to be brave and self-sacrificing. We must face life with confidence since we are on our own initiative. We must believe, with Socrates, that "to the good and courageous person no evil thing can happen." It will help us to endure whatever we have to face; it will save us from the failures and heart-breaking hard-ships which ruin many. We must take our opportunities with eagerness and courage; we must not turn back when we come to rough places; we must not lose confidence if life is not a bed of roses. Our ancestors fought with courage so that we might have a free land. They have their names written in gold across the pages of history. Shall we, then be lacking in loyalty to the ideals they held and prove ourselves unworthy of the inheritance we have from them? We should be thankful that we do not have to suffer hard-ships as they did. That alone is enough to give us courage and confidence to carry on and do right by human society and by our God.
