Broadcasts Of College Begin Soon

Programs Over WSOC To Begin Directed By Dr.
Godard At Early Date

Queens-Chicora College will resume radio broadcasts over local station WSOC on October 17 and will continue to broadcast on every Wednesday thereafter during the year at about 3:30 o'clock, it was announced this week by Dr. James M. Godard, who is in charge of the arrangements.

The broadcasts will be made from the stage in the auditorium and will consist of plays, skits, campus calendars, piano, organ, violin, and voice solos. In connection with the preparation, a Radio Club is being organized as a subsidiary of the Spectator Club, with which it will work, in putting on skits written by the Creative Writing group, broadcasting plays worked out by the Dramatic group, and so forth.

The broadcast will open and close with the Queens-Chicora College radio hymn, with words by Henrietta McIver.

It is expected that a series of programs will be presented later over station WBT, such as the sorority programs of last year. It has not been fully decided whether or not the prize will be offered.

NUTS—Pardon Us, We Mean "RATS"

What you saw strolling across the campus yesterday wasn't a parade of the Painted Dolls or the remnants of a tacky party, but my bewildered friends—Freshmen. Kinda cute, huh? But what will Mama say?

Frosh Show Good Spirit On Rat Day

Unique Costumes Create Color
As Sophomores Dictate
For One Day

This year ridding for the freshman class was held for only one day. It began with the 7:30 bell yesterday and closed with the annual session of rat court held in the day student building.

Each girl was a picture as she went about the campus wearing the old clothes arranged for her by the sophomore class. Each one wore a stocking on her head, very dark lipstick, ghost white powder, a dog collar around her neck, an apron of any sort, a sign on her back bearing the word RAT, and black cotton stockings. Every sophomore was ready to have one of the new girls obey some outrageous order all day.

The freshman class gave an entertainment in the auditorium for the sophomores and also other members of the student body. There was an unusual amount of talent displayed in this brief but amusing program.

The final test will come when each freshman has to report to rat court at 7:30 in the day student building, Monday. A penalty will be placed on each girl who has in any way resented any of the punishment which came to them on rat day.

Mildred Sneed of Wilmington, president of the sophomore class, was in charge of the arrangements.
