

Merry
Christmas

QUEENS BLUES

"For A True Blue Queens"

Happy
New Year

Vol. 19, No. 9

QUEENS-CHICORA COLLEGE, CHARLOTTE, N. C.

December 14, 1939

Choral Club Sings Carols

The Queens college choral club will present its annual Christmas carol service next Sunday afternoon in the college auditorium at 5:30 o'clock. Miss Grace Robinson, head of the voice department of the college, is the director of the club.

The program to be presented consists of the following: "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee" from "Sleepers, Wake," by Johann Sebastian Bach, the choral club; "Rejoice Greatly" from the "Messiah" by Handel, Miss Virginia Smith of Charlotte, soprano solo; "Sanctus" by Gounod, choral club and Miss Louise Springer of Charlotte;

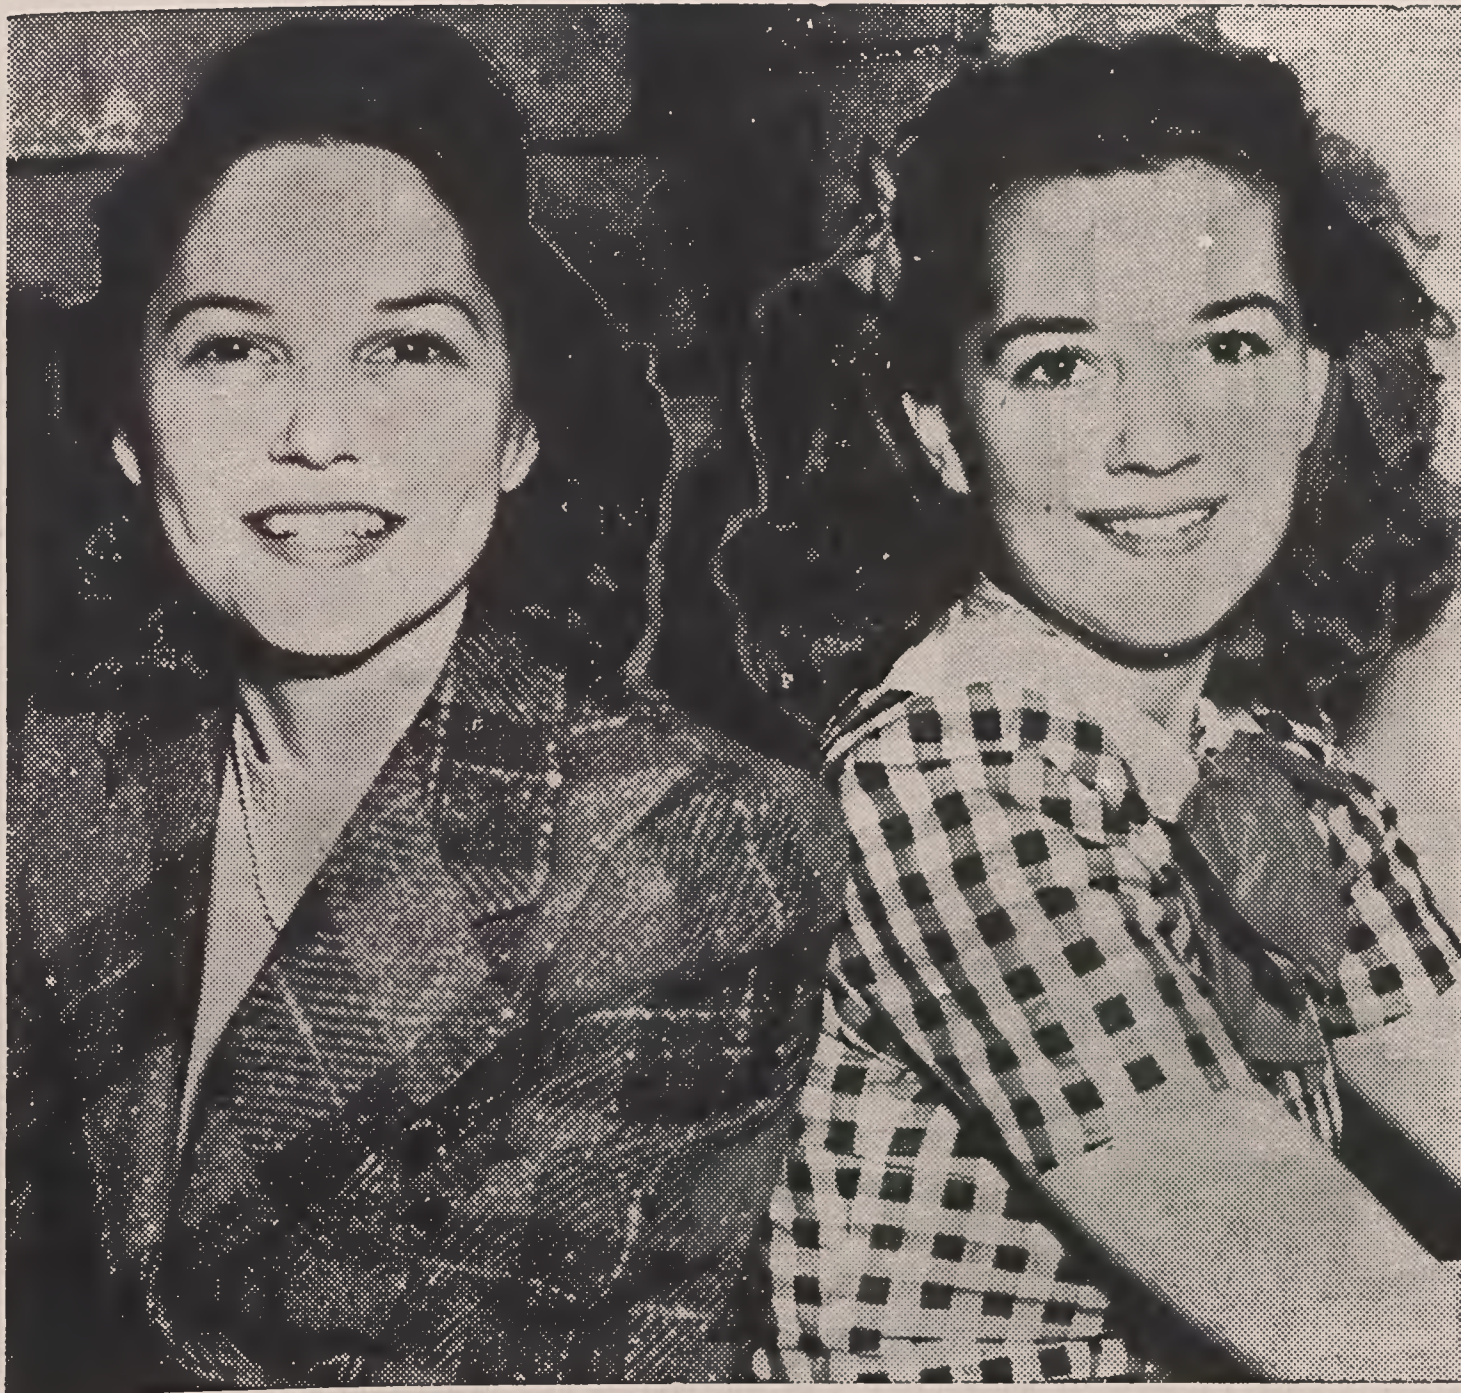

"He Shall Feed His Flock" from the "Messiah" by Handel, Miss Esther Love Hillhouse of Calhoun, Ga.; "Silent Night," a German Carol, the congregation; organ solo, "March of the Magi Kings" by Dubois, Mrs. Elsie Stokes Moseley; "The First Noel," an old English carol, choral club.

"Calm On the Listening Ear of Night" by F. Flaxington Harker, Miss Frances Riddle of Columbia, soloist, Miss Ruth Kilgo of Charlotte, cello, and Miss Marie Roseman of Charlotte, violin; "We Three Kings of Orient Are," an old English carol, choral club, and Miss Claire Wishart of Charlotte.

"Angels O'er the Fields Were Flying," an old French carol, choral club; "Sleep Baby Sleep," a Russian carol, choral club; and "Christmas Snows of Sweden," a Swedish carol, choral club and violin obligato, Miss Marie Roseman of Charlotte. The Benediction will be pronounced by Dr. Hunter Bryson Blakely, president of Queens College.

Mrs. Elsie Stokes Moseley, head of the organ department of the college, will be the accompanist.

Members of Queens choral club are Misses June Escott of Charlotte, Betty Gardner of Charlotte, Ann Golden of Carthage, Christina Grainger of Charlotte, Sarah Holleman of Seneca, S. C., Josephine Johnson of Goldston, Mary Payne of Charlotte, Virginia Smith of Charlotte, Louise Springer of Charlotte, Frances Stough of Cornelius, Elizabeth Taylor of Mount Holly, Claire Wishart of Charlotte, Jennie Linn Wright of Landis, Keller Young of Whitmire, S. C., Nancy Arrowood of Lincolnton, Alice Barron of Columbia, S. C., Elizabeth Erwin of Laurinburg, Mary Gillis of Fayetteville, Lucille Gwaltney of Charlotte, Marget Harden of Winnsboro, S. C., Frances Hunter of Newport News, Va., Jane Montgomery of Reidsville, Elsie Moseley of Charlotte, Alice Payne of Charlotte, Ann Peyton of Davidson, Margaret Porter of Charlotte, Mary Gilmer Richmond of Concord, Frances Riddle of Columbia, Marie Roseman of Charlotte, Sue Crenshaw of Charlotte, Caroline Edwards of Charlotte, Esther Love Hillhouse of Calhoun, Ga., Betty Love of Charlotte, Annette McIver of Charlotte, Flora MacDonald of Dillon, S. C., Ann Mauldin of Charlotte, Marion Miller of Charlotte, Maurjer Moseley of Charlotte, Elsie Setzer of Charlotte, Ermine Waddill of Charlotte, and Elizabeth Williams of Charleston, S. C.

LEFT TO RIGHT, MARJORIE POOLE AND BROOKSIE FOLGER

—Courtesy of Charlotte Observer.

Miss Inglis Attends S. B. E. A. Convention

On her return from the seventeenth annual convention of the Southern Business Education Association held at Jacksonville, November 3, to December 2, Miss Inglis reports a most interesting and instructive meeting. The theme of the convention was "Improvement of Business Education in the South."

At the opening session on Thursday, which was a fellowship dinner, J. Dewberry Copeland of the University of Florida, reviewed the growth of business education in the South, pointing out that we have reached the stage where we are now training about all the business teachers we need, making it no longer necessary for prospective teachers to go to northern schools for graduate or undergraduate work.

Due to illness Dr. F. G. Nichols, head of the Department of Business Education of the Graduate School of Education of Harvard University, was unable to be present. Dr. Hamden L. Forkner, head of the Department of Business Education of Teachers College, Columbia University, took his place and very ably discussed "Improvement of Secondary Business Education in the South." The next morning Dr. Forkner made one of the four principle addresses of the convention, taking as his topic "Youth Problems in Business Education."

Other speakers at the convention were Dr. Paul L. Lomax, head of the Department of Business Education of New York University, and Carl A. Carlson, of Northwestern University, Chicago. Dr. Lomax spoke on "New Emphasis in Business Education" at the general session on Friday morning and at the afternoon meeting spoke to a group of college and university professors on "In-Service Business Teacher Education Problems." Dr. Carlson, at the Friday morning session, used as his topic "Streamlining Business Education" in which he discussed the factors making an impact on the business education of today.

At the banquet Friday evening, another outstanding speaker, Dr. William S. Taylor, Dean of the College of Education, University of Kentucky, talked on the "European Scene from a Year of Close Observation."

The local entertainment committee provided sight-seeing trips to St. Augustine, Jacksonville Beach, and other points of interest, including a tour of the Du Pont estate on the St. John's River.

At an early morning breakfast on Saturday, Miss Inglis met members of the Delta Epsilon chapter of the Alpha Iota honorary business sorority, who sent greetings to the Delta Psi chapter at Queens College.

The convention will be held at Nashville, Tenn., next year and Miss Inglis is already talking about going there.

RADIO PROGRAM

The weekly Queens-Chicora radio program over WSOC last Thursday at 7:15, featured Marie Roseman and her violin.

Marie played "Regrets" by Vieuxtemps. A group of students in the cast of Miss Ethyl King's play "Peg O' My Heart" also presented a sketch from the play. This performance will be given under Miss King's direction in the college auditorium, Tuesday, Dec. 12.

The regular WBT radio programs will begin with the choral club's Christmas program and will continue after Christmas.

Mary Brooks Folger of Charlotte was elected May Queen last Wednesday. She will be crowned queen at May Day exercises to be held about the first of May. Brooksie won over Marjorie Poole of Mullins, S. C.

Campaign speeches were made in the student body meeting held Wednesday morning. Frances Stough of Cornelius was campaign manager for Brooksie. Campaigning for Margie was Lib Porter of Mebane.

Both girls have been maids of the May Queen's court for the last three years. They have also been selected to appear in the beauty section of the school annual for three years.

Brooksie will choose her own maid of honor. A committee from the student body will meet with the athletic association to nominate girls for the queen's court. The nominations will be announced the first of the week. The court members will be elected Wednesday.

The theme of May day has not yet been selected. The annual festivities are sponsored each year by the Athletic Association of which Martha Stoner of Elberton, Ga., is president. Miss Cordelia Henderson, head of the physical education department, is faculty advisor.

The committee to select May Court is composed of the presidents from each class and Dot Duckett, senior representative; Jean Ferguson, junior representative; Jane Montgomery sophomore representative; and Ann Wiley, freshman representative.

Christmas

Christmas—the essence of things
Dead and forgotten
The welcome of hope—
New and enticing
Renewal of life—
Warm and abundant
Courage of faith
To face the new year.
Christmas—the joy of the world.
—P. M.

Board Meets At Queens

Name New Queens
New Asst. Dean

Pfohl Heads Music

Trustees of Queens College in their fall meeting changed the name of the institution to Queens College, elected James Christian Pfohl of Davidson College director of music for 1940-41, and elected an assistant dean of women to begin her duties the first of February.

Professor Pfohl will continue to give the major part of his time to Davidson College but will direct a co-operative program between music departments of the two colleges in an effort to bring about expansion of the music department at Queens. Details of the arrangement whereby he will serve both institutions will be worked out by executives of the college.

Action Recommended

The changing of the college's name followed recent action of the South Carolina synod at its meeting in Charleston, when it recommended that the college be given the name of Queens. Trustees voted unanimously to make the change and instructed the executive committee to complete legal details necessary. The standing of alumnae of the former Chicora College and Queens-Chicora College will not be changed as they will remain on the same status as alumnae of Queens College.

The meeting was presided over by McAlister Carson, chairman of the board. A full report on the college was presented by Dr. Hunter Bryson Blakely, president. Others who made reports were Miss Clara Barnett Slaton, dean of women, James M. Goddard, dean of instruction, Howard MacGregor, treasurer and bursar, and Dr. S. C. Byrd, registrar.

Miss Black Will Come

Trustees elected Miss Shirley Marvel Black of Spartanburg, S. C., a graduate of the class of 1939 of Mary Baldwin College, to serve as assistant dean of women. She has been studying college administration at Columbia University for the last few months and will remain there until the end of the present semester. She was outstanding among the students in her four years at Mary Baldwin and held a number of high offices in the student body.

In discussing the change in the college's name, officials pointed out that the motion for this action was made and seconded by trustees from South Carolina. Chicora College of Columbia was merged with Queens in 1930. An item of the basis for consolidation read: "That, for the time being, the name of Queens-Chicora College shall be adopted and the new board of trustees, as provided for in this agreement, shall be vested with authority, if in their discretion they deem it advisable, to change the name of the institution, taking into consideration the good will and heritage of the affiliated colleges."

It was also decided by trustees that Dr. Blakely, who began his duties as president in the summer, shall be inaugurated at the next commencement exercises.