Delightful Dewey Daffodils: To the best college president in the country, Dr. Blakely. To the excellent science department and Jean Neu, its shining exponent. To all the profs who so willingly leave their bottles of ink at the disposal of all. Mighty generous. To Miss Squires and her staff of cooks for the excellent meals. Um! Yum! To the new Freshman Class President, Gladys Hartzell. To the indispensable Mr. Stephens. To those privileged few on the Dean's List. How do they do it!

What We Saw And Liked: Margaret Hawkins' dimpled grin. Lucille "Deanna" Blackburn's pastel wardrobe. Miss Harrell's light purple dress. The concert grand in Burwell. Alice Clark's dark purple outfit. Mildred Taylor. Helen Hendley's "heart" ring. Ann Bracken's hair. Springer's brown buggy. Miss Nooe's halo effect.

Have You Heard About: Miss Lebbly's fatal charm which caused the bus driver to do nothing less than deposit her safely at the front door of Burwell, just because it was raining? (Ask Peggy T. for details.) Any girl at Queens who has not seen "GWTW"? Another addition to that select group of Pi Kappa Phi pin holders? (She lives in Morrison.) Leon signs? He lights up when he sees Maggie Holland. Anne Fuller's radiant beam upon receiving her Valentine box from Davidson? "Roses for the lovely" from Ralph to Jean Ferg? (and red ones, too!)

True Or False? Catherine Greene does "care-less" for Taylor. Aren't there two beating his time now? . . . A certain AK goes for our little gem, Ruby Hunt. (Phone calls, candy, and dates. He's tall, dark and handsome, too!) . . . Julia Miller's hair dryer is broken. M. Pons is still undecided over Davidson and Carolina inclinations. . . . Dave and Mary Elva didn't even know it was raining Sunday. Slop! its wonderful!!! . . . A certain

This Week's Sweetheart

"She's a Heartbreaker!" But she won ours! When Eleanor Gladys Hartzell made her debut on this fair earth, the lucky place was Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and the date was February 6, 1923. They kept her up there until she was in the third grade, but she broke so many hearts they finally sent her to the Sunny South, slice of which happens to be Anderson, South Carolina. There she literally broke the monotony of living.

From the time Gladys set her foot on Southern sod till she replaced it on Queen's Sand-bar, she has been giving and getting—giving her dimply smile, her gracious personality, and her winning ways, and getting friends, honors and other things too numerous to mention. Anyway, she's got what it takes to take watcha got!

Gladys is the President of our class, a representative to council. She is a member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority, and only last week she was sent to the Presbyterian Conference in Salisbury. Clear the way—she's still going strong!

As for her hobbies, she's a professional snapshot collector. Watch out! She's looking for yours.

Well, of all things! Gladys is one of those insects, those detestable bugs that are taking the country by storm—yes, chilluns, Gladys is a jitterbug. But wait a minute—let me gather my senses—she's a lover of the semi-classics! Who made the bright remark that she wanted to buy an opera house?

Now Gladys may be a fast jitterbug and she may be able to loosen her joints at tennis, golf, and swimming (her favorite sports), but when it comes to dressing for Jimmy, the man who comes around from Erskine, she's as slow as spring holidays.

As for her dislikes, she despises ('n' don't we all?) conceited people, study hours, and burnt cocoa, and, most of all, lack of sleep.

What We Think . . .

Chapel services shouldn't have to be compulsory; they should be attended by the students on their own initiative. With the improved chapel programs and the redecorated chapel, those who don't come will miss something they can't get elsewhere.

—GLADYS HARTZELL.

Chapel programs are a problem for everyone concerned. Most likely they are the biggest problem for those planning them to suit so many different personalities—and then the students, problem, whether or not to go and "will I get caught if I don't?"

I think chapel should be a matter of choice, but since so few have been often enough to appreciate the value of chapel and to choose it rather than some trivial pleasure, it seems that compulsory chapel is the only alternative. There may be criticism and outward opposition, but inwardly I don't believe anyone really objects to chapel. I would go so far as to say I believe everyone actually enjoys chapel—it's just getting there.

—ANN WILEY.

I don't believe chapel services can be improved upon by any one person. The success depends upon the whole student body's interest, which can be stimulated just by attending. Most of us who cut are not aware of what we are missing. Why don't we go and find out? I believe that once we get started it will be hard to stop. The enthusiastic and cooperative attendance of a large group does more for a program than the interesting speaker (and by the way, we do have some mighty fine speakers).

—SUE CRENSHAW.

We Deliver

Mrs. Frank Brandon Smith, field secretary of our college, announces that she has recently sent approximately 3,000 leaflets to high school students all over the United States. If you have not given the names of friends you would like to see come to Queens, please see Dr. Blakely immediately so that one of these leaflets may be sent to your friend soon.

MISS MORTON SPEAKS

Friday afternoons she will hold informal discussions in the Hut at 4:30.

Friday night will be held in the chapel, a special service to which students from Davidson College will be invited. This will be followed by an informal reception in the parlors of Burwell Hall. Sunday she will teach the college class of Myers Park Presbyterian Church, and at 5:45 P. M. she will speak at vespers in the chapel. This week of worship will be closed by the Communion Service, which will be conducted by Dr. Redhead, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, and Dr. Blakely.

It has been suggested that she meet students wishing to talk with her on any personal problem for an hour or so in the President's office.

Suggestions from the students on any topic of interest which they wish to hear discussed will be welcomed. The S. C. A. wishes to emphasize the value of a democratic spirit on the campus in regard to student government elections especially. However, various other topics will be discussed; one of these will be leadership.

"MISS BLACK GOES TO COLLEGE"

In the next few weeks, Miss Shirley Black will, under the direction of Dr. Blakely, visit two of the colleges in the state of Georgia that have had a long and splendid record—Agnes Scott, in Decatur, and Wesleyan, in Macon. She will be asked to study the student government of these colleges and to bring back anything fine that she finds there that may be helpful to us. At the same time, as assistant to the dean of students, she will be requested to study the dean's office and bring back the best suggestions about how to make our dean's office more useful on the campus.
