

English Girl

VOICES OPINIONS

of America

Queens is lucky this year to have two English girls in its student body. They are Pat Stoyale and Jill Webb. This week we're interviewing Pat with a few questions, and next week we will feature Jill's answers to these same questions.

Pat is a freshman day student at Queens. She has lived in Charlotte approximately a year with cousins of family friends. East Africa is her real home, and she attended school in London before coming to the United States.

In answer to the following questions, Pat gives us her outlook on America and the current of former world events.

Q. What do you think of American schools as compared to English schools?

A. English schools are much harder and stricter, but you can have more fun in an American school. In the English schools there are only girls; and if you are a boarder, they are very strict about dating.

Q. All in all, do you prefer American or English boys?

A. It would not be fair to generalize the boys. There are some American boys I like better than English boys and vice versa.

Q. What do you think will be the outcome of World War II?

A. I think, without a doubt, that England will be victorious and Germany will be suppressed, but there will be much suffering first.

Q. Were you in England during the war?

A. For a year and two months, but there were only four months of bombing. Yet I was very close to the fall of the European countries.

Q. Is the United States what you expected from movies and other people?

A. Not what I expected from movies, but it is very much as my American friends pictured it.

Q. Do you consider the United States a friendly country?

A. Yes, I think it is very friendly, especially at first; but it is different from England in that it is very, very friendly at first, and then it dies down a little; but in England it is the other way round.

Q. What in American life or habits has proved most interesting to you?

A. The continual chewing of gum—a habit which, incidentally, I have picked up.

Q. What is your opinion of the Duke of Windsor-Simpson affair?

A. I thought the Duke of Windsor was a grand person with leadership qualities, but Mrs. Simpson would not have been a suitable queen of England. A young American spinster would have been approved of, but a woman who has been married four times is not a very good figure-head.

English people used to say that if they had the privilege of shooting two people they would shoot Hitler first and Wally Simpson second.

Q. What is your opinion of American "jitterbugging"?

A. I just love it, and the sooner it is established in England the better I'll like it.

Q. What do you think is the greatest fault among our American young people?

A. I don't believe you have any more faults than we do in England, and I don't think I ought to start writing a list as long as that would be.

Q. Who is your favorite American movie hero?

A. Gary Cooper.

Q. What is your favorite American dish?

A. Fried chicken.

Q. Do you have slang in England too?

A. Yes, we have quite a bit, though probably not as much as there is over here; but you have lots less slang than I expected. Slang up north is ten times worse than down here.

Q. Have you ever lived in another section of the United States?

A. No, but I stayed in New York a couple of days.

Editorialist Impersonates F. D. Roosevelt

In chapel Friday morning, October 31, Stuart Rabb, editorial writer for the Charlotte News and a recent graduate from the University of North Carolina, was sponsored by Iota Xi sorority in a very unusual talk. Ann Mauldin, president of the organization, introduced Mr. Rabb.

After the introduction, Mr. Rabb said that he realized now why he had been asked to talk on that particular day—it was Hallowe'en. He carried his talk on in a mountain dialect which is not the young man's natural accent, but he talked with such a convincing manner that many of the students were fooled.

In his talk Mr. Rabb gave an impersonation of President Roosevelt's recent speech. The impersonation was excellent and was loudly applauded. He also told us to get down to brass tacks in newspaper work.

Iota Xi, the sorority which sponsored Mr. Rabb, is the journalistic organization on Queens campus. The members are: President, Ann Mauldin; secretary, Elizabeth Summer-ville; Miss Laura Tillett, Elizabeth Isaacs and Ann Golden.

Phi Mu Group Has Initiation And Party

Phi Mu sorority held a special initiation service Saturday afternoon, November 1, at 3:00, to initiate Sue Crenshaw and Mary Webster. That night in celebration of the occasion a party was given at the home of Nancy Claire Allen. It was an informal party for the pledges and actives. They were allowed to bring dates if they wished. Dancing, music, and other social entertainment was enjoyed during the evening. Delightful refreshments were served. After the party several of the girls had a spend-the-night party at Marjorie Imbody's. They were Inez Fulbright, Ruth Wilkes, Polly Foglesong, and Jean Hester. It was a grand weekend for all Phi Mu's.

Every Tuesday night the sorority has open house for the girls to come down and get to know each other better and have some real fun together.

Olympian Circle Sends Three Delegates to Regional Meeting

Group Elects Queens Student To Post of Recording Secretary

The Olympian Circle of Alpha Kappa Gamma, regional honorary leadership fraternity, sent three delegates to the regional convention held at Columbia College, Columbia, S. C., Oct. 24-26. Louise Blue, Jane Montgomery, and Harriette Scoggin represented the Queens chapter.

Registration of the students took place on Friday afternoon, after which the Florence Nightingale Circle, the hostess chapter, entertained with a supper in the College cabin. At the conclusion of this picnic, an informal business meeting was called and chapter reports were read.

The business session formally opened Saturday morning, when various problems were brought up. Three topics were introduced. The Florence Nightingale Circle of the University of South Carolina lead the first discussion which was on Orientation. Their method of orienting the freshmen was given, and then other schools contributed their plans.

The Olympian Circle of Queens led the second question. This was Over-Organization. Plans and ideas to help eliminate the less important and less active organizations were discussed.

The third topic was training leaders, led by the Joan Circle of Farmville State Teachers College, Virginia.

At the conclusion of these discussions, Miss Florence Stubbs, a founder of Alpha Kappa Gamma, summarized the important points.

Following lunch the Regional Council was elected. Jane Montgomery was elected recording secretary.

The highlight of the convention was the banquet, held at the Columbia Hotel. Mrs. R. M. Ould of Roanoke, Va., the principal speaker, spoke on Charm.

The meeting ended Sunday morning with installation of new officers.

The members of Alpha Kappa Gamma of the Olympian Circle include: Harriette Scoggin, Jane Montgomery, Ann Mauldin, Anne Golden, Annette McIver, Louise Blue, Mary Martha Nixon, Mary Jean McFayden, Mary Marshall Jones, Inez Fulbright, Flora MacDonald, Margaret Harden, Ruth Edmiston, Julia Miller, Dr. Lucile Delano, Miss Mary Denny, and Miss Thelma Albright.

Queens Blues Will Offer Prizes For Creative Work

Contest Only Open To Freshmen and Sophomores

Freshmen and Sophomores, here is your chance to get paid for having a good time! Newspaper work is noted for being one of the most interesting and exciting of vocations, and your school paper is a wonderful place to get experience. Our school paper has greatly improved in the last few years, and we are all proud to have our names on its staff. We have fun writing our assignments and trying to get them in before the dead-line. It is interesting work, but it is only a shadow of the really exciting work you would do on a real daily newspaper.

Besides, all the fun you have, the "Blues" offers a prize each year. Five dollars is given to the Freshman who contributes the most consistently good material to the paper, and ten dollars is given to the Sophomore who does the best work. These prizes are given at the graduation exercises. We need more members on our staff—so come on, Freshmen and Sophomores, and do your part. There is a prize for you to work for, and you will really enjoy doing a job like this. It's great to see a story you have written in print, and who knows? You might be the lucky one!
