John T. Whitaker Speaks November 24

Correspondent Will Lecture On World News

By Jill Webb

Queens feels very honored to have as its guest speaker on November 24, the distinguished John T. Whitaker. Whitaker was born in Chattanooga, Tennessee. He was educated at the University of the South at Sewanee. He started out as a reporter for the Chattanooga News. Later he worked on the New York Herald-Tribune. He was foreign correspondent at the League of Nations in Geneva. He was also war correspondent for the Ethiopian and Spanish wars, and foreign correspondent for the Chicago Daily News. In fact, Whitaker has covered many war frontiers, and we are sure he will give us first-hand information about the war and "Who Is Going to Win the War," which is the subject of his speech on Monday evening. People in the South are very interested in him as he is a true Southerner. We know Whitaker will have many interesting stories and past experiences to tell. He was in France when France fell, so perhaps we will be able to hear some of the truth about the inside feelings and actions of the French people. The war and present day affairs are interesting subjects to all peoples, especially Americans, now a days for who knows, it might not be so very long before America will be fighting against Germany, too. While Whitaker was in Italy he was decorated with the Creux de Guerre. After his talk there will be a reception given in his honor, and we know every one of you will be delighted, and privileged to meet him.

Students Model At Floral Convention

The North Carolina Florist Convention was held at the Hotel Charlotte November the 9th, 10th, and 11th.

Several Queens girls featured in the flower show on Monday night. Sue Crenshaw modeled a white slipper satin bride's gown and veil on a stage covered with white satin and arranged with white arches and smilax. Novel bride's bouquets displayed were white chrysanthemums in white net petals, white roses, and white orchids in tulle, with bow-knots of carnation petals on the tulle streamers.

Caught in the bridal veil was a bandeau of baby pom-pom chrysanthemums and orchids.

The bridesmaids, Lucielle Blackburn and Katherine Kittles, walked through the audience modeling identical taffeta gowns of blue and gold. They carried bronze chrysanthemums in bronze and blue net petals.

Virginia Jennings, wearing aqua chiffon, and Jean Petteway, in black taffeta, were among the hostesses. They wore corsages contrasting with their dresses.

Interesting flower arrangements were displayed on various tables. More than fifteen varieties of orchids on a background of black velvet was one of the most outstanding of these.

Music was furnished by Gib Todd and his orchestra.

Juniors Plan Many Projects

At a call meeting of the Junior class last week sample jackets were shown from which one was to be selected as the official class jacket. This action arose from a decision made by the class last year to get the jackets in the course of the junior year thereby eliminating some of the heavy expenses of the senior year. At this meeting, however, members of the class voted to defer action until spring when a wider selection of jackets would be available.

Mary Martha Nixon, class president, appointed Jeanne Love and Jean Petteway to act as assistants on the Christmas card committee in the stead of Dorothy Summerville who is ill in Memorial hospital. Marion Miller, chairman, reported the sale of 34 boxes to date. She announced that subsequent orders must be placed as soon as possible as they will not be taken later than two weeks before Christmas holidays. The cards come 50 to a box and no extra charge is made for name printing though it is optional. They sell for $1.00 per box and proceeds go to the class.

A student directory is being compiled by the Junior Class.

DuPont, near Kennett Square, Pennsylvania, returning for the Farewell Luncheon and Installation of officers at McConnell's Tea Room. Alpha Lambda chapter acted as hostess at the closing luncheon.

Judging Will Be On Stunt And On Gallery

Tuesday, November 18, will climax weeks of preparation, for it is then that the Senior, Junior, Sophomore and Freshman classes will present the skits over which they have frantically and concentratedly worked. It will be the long awaited Stunt Night.

Flora MacDonald, president of the Athletic Association, is in charge of the event and has presented these as some of the rules and regulations:

The maximum expenditure of your stunt shall be $5.00.

The stunt idea need not be original, but the content, production, and adaptation must be original.

Length must not exceed 15 minutes. Overtime will be penalized by judges.

Any type stunt can be represented—either serious or comic.

The order of stunts and gallery entrances will be as follows: Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior.

As a matter of courtesy, no class should sing or yell while another class is doing so. The gallery leader whose stunt is coming up, has preference over the others.

The chairman of the stunt of the winning class will receive the cup for the winning stunt.

The stunts shall be judged on a basis of 100%—50% for the stunt itself and 50% for the gallery. The stunt shall be judged for: originality of content; effectiveness of costume and setting; finish in performance and presentation; and appropriateness of gallery in relation to the stunt. The gallery shall be judged for: entrance of gallery and originality; effectiveness of costume; upon courtesy and sportsmanship and consideration of other classes; quality, not volume will be judged, and words should be understandable.

Junior Class Will Present Fashions

The Junior class will sponsor the annual fashion show Thursday evening December 4, at 8:15 o'clock. Ivey's department store will furnish the clothes to be shown. There will be chosen ten models, some from each of the four classes at Queens. All types of clothes will be shown—sportswear, date dresses, and especially formal gowns.

An interesting idea has been planned for the presentation of the fashions. There will be appropriate scenery and a skit with each style of dress worn.

Sue Crenshaw is the chairman of the fashion show committee. She has appointed two other committees to assist her. The ticket committee is composed of Irene and Kathleen Hardee, Jeanne Love, and Terry Mosteller. Those on the advertising committee are: Hattie Henderson, Jane Grey, and Tommie Scott. Tentative plans have been made for a cold drink and ice cream concession during intermission.

The fashion show is one of the outstanding events of the year on the college calendar and all classes are urged to remember this date.
