

PERFECT FORM! Dan Leonard, American Red Cross water safety instructor, is telling an Aquatic School student that form is essential to diving. The eyes say she has it!

Red Cross Will Hold Five Aquatic Schools

A Southerner will have the opportunity to attend one of five National Red Cross Aquatic Schools to be held this summer, it was announced by John C. Wilson, manager of the Southeastern Area of the American Red Cross.

Schools scheduled are: Pine Mountain State Park, Chipley, Ga., June 17-27; Northwestern State College of Louisiana, Natchitoches, June 3-13; Camp Carolina, Brevard, N. C., June 3-13 and August 19-29; and the Negro Aquatic School at Tennessee A. & I. College, Nashville, Tenn., June 17-27.

Red Cross courses will be provided in swimming, diving, canoeing, boating, life saving, first aid, and accident prevention. Training is designed to qualify instructors for Red Cross chapters and for schools, camps, and other organizations which have safety or aquatic programs.

"The schools offer a splendid opportunity for training in community leadership and chapter service," Mr. Wilson said. "They provide ten days of well-balanced and purposeful outdoor activity at minimum expense, and you learn by doing in courses where emphasis is placed on practice, mastery of skills, and practice teaching."

Students may enroll either as individuals or as representatives of some organization and must be eighteen or older, in good health, and agree to teach Red Cross courses. The total cost of the school is $35.00 and if their special interest lies in first aid and accident prevention they may enroll for these courses only, or may include swimming courses in their schedule. Local Red Cross chapters can give additional information about the Aquatic Schools.

WHAT'S THE USE OF A FUSE ANYWAY

A fuse is a safety device, a warning to you and a protection to your appliances.
A blown fuse indicates that —the load on the fixture you are using is too heavy.
—or too many appliances are connected on the same circuit.
—or one of your appliances is defective.
A preventive is ADEQUATE WIRING.
Only by planning ahead for adequate wiring can you enjoy at home the full benefits of "electrical tomorrow."

— Life In North Dormitory —

It's eleven-thirty and all through the dorm, not a creature was stirring—next week's joke. A little girl with her lantern in one hand and a bed time story in the other starts in the first room. Shirley and Martha are burning the midnight oil writing letters—those girls never study. When little Lucy opens Peggy's and Ann's door—much to her surprise, the door collapsed. Those girls are up to their pranks again. Oh—well, girls will be girls. Next to the room, Simpson, Bonnie and Nancy were practicing for the dance they are going to next week-end. Up the stairs Lucy travels. Becky and the two Betty's were still exclaiming over Jenny's ring—lucky girl. She doesn't need any bed time story to help her to go to sleep. Peggy and Bobby were enjoying lounging around the whole suite. Marjorie, Carolyn, Judy and Ruth were headed to bed with those blue night shirts alike on. Fig has just whipped up some fudge, invited Fite and Carolyn, Doris and Mary Frances to attend. In the next suite were the girls just over from South. The following suite was completely empty. Lucy thinks, "Have the girls run away or gone home for good. Oh, yes, I remember they (Anice, Terry, Ann, and Margaret Ann) were fighting over the phone with Lillian. Upon opening the next door, Susie was found sitting in the middle of the floor crying in her shoes. Alice and Flo have been making four trips to town a day to keep Susie happy while she is campused. Poor girl but it happens in the best of families.

"Gracious, the next suite is empty. They must be hiding. Yes, a snicker was heard from the window seat, another from the closet behind the closet, another under the bed, another under the tub. The cat's and Alice are playing again. The future Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Cartwright are lecturing tonight on the subject "Two can live as cheaply as one" (if one doesn't eat). Their suite-mate Ruth and Mary Katherine were out getting a moon tan—don't get burned.

Jean Rike was trying to prove to Geneva that a paramecian of the phylum protozoa and class infusoria has a definite number of cilla.

While in the suite, Anna and Sara were discussing the cure of cerebral arteriosclerosis and schizophrenia. More power to you, girls.

Down the stair Lucy went. She's almost through. Barbara has just finished a fifteen page theme on "The Art of Lovemaking." Her suite is going to try out her idea. Jane and Ware are exercising. The others were just standing around laughing. P. K.'s suite, Mary Lib, Jane, and Ellen, was the next room. Lucy cut her way into the room. Some one was smoking—bubble pipes. Ginner, Laura, Becky, and Niva were sitting at their desks with their noses dug in the funny books. "Almost through," Lucy exclaimed. Laura had her suite fascinated by proving to them that 2 and 2 gives you 3.999 instead of 4. "At last, at last," uttered Lucy. Upon opening her own door, the room was dark. Her suite was the only one that was in bed. So, our little house mother, worn and exhausted, fell into bed and dreamed of green beans with cocoanut icing.

There was a young frog name Joey Who came to the lab of Miss Nooe As quick as a dart They cut him apart Alas, they have killed poor Joey!
