

of cards to be distributed throughout the mill. These cards gave instructions on "how to lift". Well, to-day our captain went to lunch and decided to practice what he preached, but something went wrong. He is home nursing a sprained back instead of Jr. POOR POPPA LEWIS!!

One thing we want to know: Is Lillian Walker as modest as she tries to make us believe or is she actually running up trees with sailors?

CAROMOUNT SHORTS AND SPORTS

By - Walter Greenman and Perry English, Scoutmaster

Troop Thirteen

Thursday night, February 1, Boy Scout Troop Thirteen, which is sponsored by the Caromount Athletic Association, took in five new members. Four of these boys are from Caromount families. This brings the total number of scouts up to 20, including 4 staff members. We hope that in the next groups to come into the troop there will be even more boys from families of Caromount employees.

It is very gratifying to see the progress that the boys have made in their work. We hope to continue this fine progress and to make our troop one of the leaders in Rocky Mount.

Our troop, even though it is the newest one in town, was chosen to participate in all the activities of Boy Scout Week, February 8 to 14. We have been chosen to be one of the ten troops in town which will decorate an uptown store window for the occasion. Our display will be in the Charles Store window, and we hope that you will drop by and see it.

The bowling teams are starting again. A few of the Weave Shed men have been going down for the past few weeks. The store on the corner can expect a beer boom.

NOTES FROM THE ORCHESTRA

Sour and Otherwise

The orchestra here at the mill is progressing very nicely. Doc Lancaster has completed a rebuilding job on the bass fiddle and is about ready to add the instrument to the ensemble. "Bootigo" Taylor has purchased a slide trombone and we hope will soon be tooting that in the band. At present the band has two major engagements on hand. The Air Corps Safety Party and a program for the benefit of the Williford Town Air Scouts. Bill Williams has an active interest in this troop and is working hard to make this benefit a success.

Graham "Sunshine" Faulkner cut his guitar finger with a meat saw last week. Greenman accused him of doing this so he would not have to play.

V. G. Thomas and Fred Stolzenberg accompanied Mr. Suessmuth to a practice session of the orchestra recently. We hope they really enjoyed the jam session as much as they claimed.

The orchestra at present consists of the following: E. H. Suessmuth, conductor, pianist and piano accordion - Walter Greenman and Bill Rotters, piano accordions - Julius Eppes, saxophone and clarinet - Billy Williams, trumpet - C. G. Williams, drums - Henry "Red" Sessoms, Graham "Sunshine" Faulkner, Jack "Cowboy" Thomas on the guitars.
