

Wilson Employees Busy During Lull

During the lay-offs Arnold Webb engaged himself in painting and carpentry for the Carolina Home Builders. He managed to slip away for a little fishing at the big rock near Black Creek getting 11 perch on one trip. Naturally that 2½ pounder got away—hook, line, and sinker . . . Horace Cotton, Raymond Daniel, and Frank Cockrell have been in Wilson for several days painting the Wilson Plant . . . Marvin Langley began his work at Wilson on July 9 learning to be an examiner. He was formerly employed at Caromount as a weaver learner. Milford Ferrell, formerly an examiner, is now employed at the Service Laundry. Henry Earl Sessions of Caromount has been helping with the examining at Wilson.

George Bradbury is now assisting with the painting of the Wilson Plant. This is the question—"Is George painting himself or the wall?" Bradbury takes it all good naturedly and states that he recently painted Cal Jones' house; and Cal adds "house and shrubbery."

Mrs. Rosa Lee Williamson served temporarily as cashier in Bissett's Drug Store during the recent lay-off.

Joe Godwin entered the service station business recently, however, he finally decided against this business and devoted his time to fishing at Wiggins Mill with a catch so small that they were thrown back in the river.

Charlie Ward did carpentry work for a Wilson construction company recently and spent his leisure time at baseball games. Miss Judy Bell, their niece, has been with Mr. and Mrs. Ward during the summer. On July 6, Charlie Ward enjoyed a fishing trip at Columbia, North Carolina, where he caught 75 croakers. We are taking his word for this report.

James Stansbury, former weaver, has been working as clerk at the Briggs Hotel since the latter part of June. He is being trained for night clerk. Mr. Stansbury was recently hospitalized at Duke Hospital.

Finishing Dept

Instead of having a vacation themselves, Mrs. Eloise Collier and Mrs. Annie Turner entertained guests during the week.

Mrs. Myrtle Price and family spent the vacation week with friends in Charleston, South Carolina.

Mrs. Mattie Barnhill and Mrs. Elsie Sugg spent their week quietly at home.

Mrs. Rachel Carter visited White Lake and came back with quite a sunburn.

Others who went to the beaches during the vacation week were: Mrs. Myrtle Weaver, Mrs. Daisy Edwards and Mrs. Dorothea Barnes.

Ertie Edwards had a nice vacation at Carolina Beach.

Reid Satterfield and his family also made Carolina Beach their headquarters.

It seems the rest of the second shift enjoyed a rest at home. Everybody came back with smiling faces, eager for another year's work.

Mrs. and Mrs. Tom Brown and daughter have returned to Rocky Mount from Davenport, Iowa, where they took their daughter, Janice, to a specialist. Tom says that Janice has improved a good deal, and that she will receive treatment in Rocky Mount for the present. We sincerely hope that Janice will continue improving satisfactorily.

Final Examining Dept

Everybody has returned from enjoyable vacations.

The following people visited beaches during vacation week: Jasper "Red" Weaver, Joseph McCorkle and George Hand.

Mrs. Mary Kermon visited relatives and friends in Massachusetts.

Mrs. Phoebe Trevathan was tired of the city so she vacationed in the country near Hillsboro.

Mrs. Lina Everette Creekmore was another who didn't like the city. She went to visit her mother near Leggett.

Mrs. Lessie Pridgen is wearing a cast on her leg as the result of a sprained knee. Too much vacation, Mrs. Pridgen?

Mr. and Mrs. Reid Satterfield and their four year old son, Anthony Reid Satterfield were photographed while getting a sun tan. They were at Carolina Beach, while Mr. Satterfield of the Finishing Department was on his vacation.

Machine Shop Notes

Joe Braxton—that fancy flinger of fabulous phony fables—slipped off to Raleigh and got himself married. Joe never did like to work on Monday—now its worse.

Horace Hudson is back from a visit to New York—talking like a Yankee (that ain't the baseball team, son).

Ever notice Remus Oliver "Juniper" Perkinson take off on that motorbike for Castalia? He claims the title of long distance commuter. Any competition? To and from Castalia daily—36 miles.

Somebody told this reporter that H. A. Taylor hit a softball 150 yards and was thrown out at second. Note: teammates please check.

'Tis rumored that C. G. Williams moved back in town (Clark Street) which makes seven (7) times in the last two years.

W. V. Denton spent most of his vacation week in the Speight-Stone-Bell Clinic—don't know what the ailment was but sure it wasn't what the clinic specializes in. Our scouts are trying to find out.

Weaveshed Activities

"Bootigo" Taylor has found his sport. Booty said that after years of taking part in every kind of sport, that he has finally decided on golf. He has been playing golf for three weeks and likes it fine. He said that he was shooting down in the lower seventies. All of the pro golf players should take warning from Booty and play a better game.

Robert Trevathan of the engineering department spent his vacation in New York City. After arriving there, Robert decided to park his car and ride the sight-seeing bus. Some of the buses are two deckers. After riding for several blocks Robert told his wife that he was going on the upper deck. Before they had gone one block Robert was back down stairs. "What is the matter?" asked his wife. "Can't you see up there?" "Yes," said Robert, "I could see, but there isn't any driver up there."

Mose Ezzelle is now raising Collie dogs. The first litter of puppies had eight. Mose said that eight times twenty was one hundred and sixty dollars.

tonsilectomy performed recently.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Brantley spent three days in the mountains during their vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Davis took a nice trip to the beach and through part of the Skyline Drive.

Leon Pittman has helped the housing shortage by building himself a nice home on the old Raleigh Road.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hartley have bought a farm near New Bern; and they plan to make their home there soon.

Bears were seen and fed by many Caromount and Wilson employees who toured western North Carolina, Virginia, and Tennessee on vacation. This bear was photographed by Mrs. Blanche Brantley in the Smoky Mountains of Tennessee near Clingman's Dome. Mrs. Brantley is employed in the Caromount Mending Department.
