John Amos Dail began his work at Caromount in 1943 when he was employed in the Dyehouse. Later he was transferred to the Warping Department and then to the Weaveshed where he is presently employed.

Mr. Dail was born in 1882 in Pitt County. He was reared on the farm and lived there until he was 27 years of age. He then began doing carpentry work and followed that trade for about 35 years until he came to work at Caromount.

In 1914 he was married to Mary E. Taylor of Pitt County.

They have four children, two boys and two girls. One daughter, Marjorie Dail Davis is now employed as a weaver in the Caromount plant.

Mr. Dail has always been an active gardener but for the past year he curtailed his gardening some because of poor health. He still plants a small garden, however.

Mr. Dail is active in the Junior Order, and the Sons and Daughters of Liberty. At one time he represented the Junior Order at the State Council.

Mr. Dail attends the First Christian Church and has been janitor there for the past 30 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Dail own their home at 432 Cokey Road.
