Students See Shakespeare

On November 29 a group of students from Mrs. Turner's English Classes and Othello Club accompanied Mrs. Turner to the Playmakers Theater on the University's campus to see William Shakespeare's famous play, "Romeo and Juliet."

very much. They were thrilled at the fine performance.

Class Learns About Cows

In our class we have been talking about cows. We have learned that some cows have plenty of sense.

When cows come out of the pasture they go straight to their stalls, although one of them may play a trick by licking out of another's food.

A cow stomach holds from fifty to seventy gallons. We learned that a cow has four stomachs. A cow has no upper teeth.

Butter fat in milk gives us energy to walk, run and play.

Senior-A Class Elects Officers

The following persons have been elected officers of the Senior A class for the school year: President, William Hargraves; Vice-President, Mary L. Stroud; Secretary, Johnnie M. Jones; Treasurer, Doretha Bynum; Reporter, Delores Hogan; Student Council Representatives, Samuel Atwater and William Hargraves. Our class has cooperated wholeheartedly in all the activities of the school.

Class Studies Far Away Places

We, grade 4-B, have been talking about children of far away lands.

We have traveled by boat, plane, and train to South America and Africa. We are still making our imaginary trip and we are going to see many things.

We wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Class Gives to Needy

We are going to give some of our old clothes that we can't wear anymore to some people who need them very much. We are planning to wrap them in pretty Christmas paper. That will be nice for Christmas.

Going Out For Sports In A Great Big Way

By McArthur Alston, '51

The boys are really going out for sports at Lincoln Hi. The freshman class even had the nerve to challenge the seniors to a gridiron combat. I call that nothing but nerve! That's what I call going out for sports at Lincoln Hi.

Although the freshman class played a good game, the seniors rolled on to victory over them to a score of thirty-three to six. This is a game long to be remembered, especially by the freshmen.

One thing the Lincoln Hi boys do is to play the game by the rules. They play clean! There were about a hundred spectators watching the game, so the boys showed 'em how they regard the rules of sports.

News Items From 8-A And 7-B

The 8A and 7B classes are making great progress in art. For "Open House" we made paper mache bowls, earrings, lapel pins, saving banks, vases, and pot holders. We are making gifts for parents now.

Our class is studying a unit on Christmas music and Christmas customs. We are learning about the origin of some of our Christmas customs. We are also learning some Christmas songs that we did not know.

We are planning to have a big Christmas party. The class is well organized, and everyone is going to participate.

We regret to say we are losing one of the members of our 8A class, Beatrice Britton. She is moving to Washington, D. C.

The 8A and 7B classes extend to the faculty and students a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

History of Cows

At first no one thought of milking a cow. The only time the cow had milk was when it had a baby calf to feed; sooner or later, though, someone tried to milk a cow. Perhaps a baby lost its mother and the father thought he would try the same food which made the baby calf grow strong and sturdy. At any rate, in ancient times, long before history was written down, somebody tried the milk of a cow and found it good. It must have been a great event.

If a man had many cows, he was wealthy, if he had only a few, he was poor. There was no such thing as money in those days of long ago. Men counted their cattle and sheep to find out how much wealth they owned. The Romans changed the word they used for "herd" just a little and used it to mean "money." When the very first letter "A" was made, the people made a picture of a cow's head.

So you see the cow really came first.

Harry's Red Ribbon

One of our classmates, Harry Eubanks, asked our teacher, Mrs. Cobb, if he could bring his rooster for Achievement Day. Harry brought his rooster to school in a cage. He put his name and grade on the cage. When one of the judges put a red ribbon on his rooster, Harry felt so good that he laughed all day.

5-A Has Hobby Show; Projects Are Featured

We enjoyed working on our hobbies. It was interesting to watch our work and each others work turn into pretty things. We took bricks and painted them with red, black, and white paint, making up our own designs and they were door stops. Their designs were original.

Some of the girls made hand puppets from old socks and faces painted in, and hair of woolen thread. Shirley Merritt is holding a puppet. We made doll toys out of pipe cleaners and scrap crepe paper. Betty Edwards has the paper clown. Mats were made from crepe paper and paper plates. Frank Hariston is holding one of the hot mats.

Cork lapel, pins, and pine burr pins are nice gifts for our friends. We enjoyed making these. Some of our work is on display in the library. We're sure you'll enjoy making some of these.

We hope you enjoyed our Hobby Show.

Flute Band Reorganizes

The Flute Band has been reorganized this year. We have twenty-two new members and five majorettes. Our majorettes are Jeanette Wikson, Edith Mason, Emma Minor, Dorothy Davis, and Peggy Sanford.

We experienced marching in a parade for the first time in the Homecoming Parade. We really enjoyed it. Since then we marched for the Achievement Day Program, played for the Grammar Grade Assembly twice, and we are now looking forward to playing for the Christmas Operetta.

Merry Christmas to all and a Happy New Year.

2-B News

We are looking forward to a joyful Christmas. We want others to have a pleasant holiday also.

To help others enjoy the holiday season, we are contributing to the Empty Stocking Fund. We are enjoying dropping pennies and nickels into this stocking each day. We are also buying Christmas seals. We will bring food to help fill baskets for the needy people in our community.

Some of us are painting jars for flower vases which we plan to give our mothers for Christmas presents.

Breeds Of Cows Are Discussed

Large black and white cows are Holsteins or cream colored cows with large spots are Jerseys. These cows come from small islands in the English Channel called Holstein and Jersey.

The Guernsey is larger than the Jersey. Her color is yellow fawn with some white on her body. Brown Swiss cows are dark brown. The first breed came from the Netherlands and Germany.
