The Editor Speaks

The spirit exhibited by the members of the faculty and students in the recent bus drive proved the famous saying, "Together we stand; Divided we fall."

The Need for a Bus

In recent years all school activities which required travel such as trips by the band, football team, basketball teams and other school organizations, had no means of transportation except Mrs. Weaver's bus or the Carolina Trailways. These means of transportation proved very expensive to all organizations concerned.

The success of the bus drive revealed how all the school worked for one common cause.

The efforts put forth to purchase the bus shows the great pride which is taken in our school. "Where there is unity there is strength and from this combination of unity and strength comes success."

My School Activities

AUDREY LLOYD
10-B

When the school doors have opened,
And the bell has rung,
I go to my classroom
For school has begun.
When the devotion has ended,
And the roll has been called;
My first class is History
Right across the hall.
When History is over
And I've done my best,
It's time for Home Ec.
There to finish my dress.
My third class is Biology
Room 103,
Then straight to lunch
Where I'm longing to be.
My fourth class is English,
And there I will go,
To diagram some sentences
And so and so.
After English is over
My last class is Band
There to play our music
As well as we can.
When our school day is over,
And work is all done,
Then we are ready to go
To our very own home.

New Lincoln

I am a new pupil from Northside Elementary School, I have worked hard for the day to come for me to come to Lincoln High School. I am glad that I am here in the new school, and I want to help keep it new. In order to do this we must all work together. For example, we must not write on walls and seats, or stick chewing gum on seats or trays, or throw paper on the grounds. If we do this Lincoln High School will always be new.

Halloween

On my way home, I saw a large bat,
A screeching owl, and an old black cat.
Then I met a witch on a broom,
Who was all dressed in a funny costume.
The witch came riding over my head.
Then bump! bump!
What a bump! I fell out of bed.
Betsy Ann Cordal—10-B

The story was told of an Indian who was given a watch for some honor. His watch stopped ticking. He took the watch apart to find the trouble, not knowing anything at all about watches, he found a dead bug. He exclaimed, "Uh! No wonder watch not run, engine dead."

Our Science Class

In our Science class we have been studying about plants and animals. We decided that we would like to make homes for them. First we made an aquarium. We learned that it takes a gallon of water to one inch of fish. We also learned that plants in an aquarium help to supply oxygen for the fish. The two kinds of plants we have planted were Sagittaria and Elodea. There are also rocks and shells in our aquarium. Snails help to keep it clean.

We also studied about amphibians. So we decided to make a vivarium. We began to collect materials for it. We got five pieces of glass, tape, plaster of paris, a board and made our vivarium. When we finished it we didn't have anything to put in it. So we decided to take a field trip. Some of the things we caught were frogs, fish and salamanders. We also collected some plants because we learned that plants and animals could live in a vivarium.

On the way back from our trip we collected some of the various rocks found in our community because rocks was to be our next unit. Some of the rocks that we found were granite, quartz, slate, flint, sandstone and limestone.

The quartz were so pretty that we thought it would be a good idea to make sets for rings out of it.

We did not know if the rock we called limestone was really limestone or not. So we made a test to prove it. We poured hydrochloric acid on it. And it bubbled. Therefore we knew it was limestone. We learned the names of the rocks that we did not know from a collection of rocks we saw at the North Carolina State Fair.

We also have a pickle jar terrarium. We used a large pickle jar and plaster of paris to make it. Then we placed some rich soil, plants and shells in it. It was very interesting making home for these plants and animals. All of us enjoyed our science class very much.
