

The Lincoln Echo Staff

Editor-in-Chief Barbara Burnette
 Assistant Editor Ida Battle
 Staff Reporter Martha Norwood
 Assistant Staff Reporter Doretha Merritt
 Business Manager Allan Mason
 Assistant Business Manager Wallace Oldham
 Secretary Druscilla Clarke
 Assistant Secretary Deborah Norwood
 Sports Editor Floyd Hogan
 Assistant Sport Editor Herman Burchette
 Alumni Editor Delores Mason
 Society Editor Alicia Jones
 Exchange Editor Hillard Caldwell
 Assistant Exchange Editor Janie Harris
 Circulation Manager Joseph Burnette
 Feature Editor Lillie Lee Perry

Objectives

Objectives of the Lincoln Echo:

1. To supplement reading materials.
2. To encourage free expression.
3. To interpret the life of the school to the community.
4. To promote greater school spirit.

-EDITORIAL-

Why do you suppose you prefer Mr. Right to Mr. Wrong or maybe Miss Right to Miss Wrong? Possibly manners and personality play the important roles.

You may prefer Mr. Right because he opens the car door and helps you enter or when leaving from or returning home he goes ahead to open the door for you. Mr. Wrong just jumps in the car ahead of you and waits until you open the door when leaving home on a date.

When entering a theater, Mr. Right always goes first and finds seats, and after finding the seats, he allows the girl to pass in and seat herself before he takes a seat, but not Mr. Wrong, he let's his date go on ahead to find the seats, while he is trying to make a date with the cute girl in the lobby.

Mr. Right always walks on the outside when escorting a girl on the street. Even if there are two girls, he still walks on the outside. Mr. Right only takes the lady's arm when she needs assistance. Now Mr. Wrong sees the picture in a different light. He feels that he should walk where he wants to and if there are two girls he could not possibly walk anywhere but in the middle, of course he has to make it look balanced. In fact, he has to put his arms around the girls to hold them up.

At parties, Mr. Right asks the girls, "may I have this dance?" Miss Right answers "certainly" or "of course" or "it is a pleasure." If she can't accept his invitation, she says, "excuse me please, I am sitting this dance out."

Mr. Wrong feels as if he is the party himself, so he just snatches a girl from her seat to dance with. Miss Wrong may tell a boy she doesn't want to dance but her knight in shining armour ask her for the dance, she goes swirling with him.

Remember girls, Miss Right doesn't smoke on the streets, she always thanks her escort after each date. She doesn't talk loudly in public places nor does she fail to say "thank you" for a favor, however trivial. No girls, Miss Right isn't a flirt.

Wanted Around L. H. S.

More food on plates in the cafeteria — the hungry.

Longer lunch period — the lovers.

Less noise in the hall and rooms — the faculty.

Cooler weather — the fat.

More vacant boys — the lonely girls.

Transportation to and from school — the lazy.

Longer time between each class — the gossipers.

More eye strength—the starers.

Less competition — all girls with boy friends.

Some seniors privileges — the senior class.

HATS OFF ! ! !

Hats off to the five freshmen who made the honor roll.

Hats off to Bertha Headen and Ida Battle for their fine speeches in the Speaking Contest.

Hats off to Mrs. Turner and the Dramatics Club for their fine performance of "I'm A Family Crisis."

Hats off to the Senior Class for their wonderful performance of "Little Miss Spitfire."

Hats off to Mrs. Robinson's class for beautifying the school lawn.

Hats off to the students who have ceased chewing gum.

Hats off to Miss Pope for getting a new car.

Hats off to the four seniors in the Elks Oratorical Contest.

Hats off to Mr. Bell and the Band for receiving an A-1 rating in the A division at the band festival.

(Please turn to Page Four)

CAN IT BE POSSIBLE?

Chapter IV
 By MARTHA NORWOOD

"Wonder what's up?," Alfred asked Nick, as they were on their way home from school. "Don't know," replied Nick, as he stopped to pick up his Geometry book, "but I have the strangest feeling that something is going to happen." "Oh, don't be so melodramatic, Nick," laughed Alfred. They both laughed together trying to shake off the uneasy feeling that had been creeping over them all day, but they weren't successful.

The very same moment, at the Walkers' home, Delois has regained enough energy and courage to rise on her feet and silently go out into the yard toward the object which has caused so much damage. As she walks out into the yard closer and closer to the strange object, she stops suddenly and thinks — "What am I doing?" "Suppose there is something evil about this object?" "Can it be possible that?" "Oh no! She quickly throws herself down on her stomach and crawls to the nearest tree where she quickly hides herself behind it. When she looks up she finds that she has a very good view from where she is lying. To her amazement it is of the oddest color and style. But her amazement soon leaves for her eyes are focused on a bright light and the size of an electric light bulb which is rapidly growing larger and soon manages to vibrate the outer surface of the object. It then stands on the outside of the ship and stands facing Mr. Walkers' garage. The creature to her astonishment stands practically ten feet in height and resembles the features of an ape. It stands looking at the garage and his eyes seem to turn to red fire in its head and soon the garage has, before Delois' eyes turned to an oozling liquid. Delois feels something rising in her stomach, and tries to scream but nothing comes out. She has realized that a great evil has come to Chapel Hill and may destroy it. "Oh God," she says, "it may even mean the end of the world."

Mr. and Mrs. Harris, Delois' aunt and uncle are now in their car headed home. As they drive within sixty feet of the driveway which leads to their home, Mr. Harris jerks the car to a sudden stop.

Delois is running toward them, unaware that behind her a strange

(To be Continued)

ARE YOU SUPERSTITIOUS?

Man has learned very slowly to understand the world about him. For many thousands of years, strange or mysterious events or circumstances troubled or frightened him. He believed they were caused by good or evil forces, which could be controlled if he had the power to do so. These beliefs now no longer held, are called superstitions. The word means that which stand above, or survivals.

Present-day science believes that everything in nature has a natural cause, and a knowledge of nature's law helps to explain every cause and effect. Scientific men arrive at this conviction through observation and reason. Scientific thinking helps destroy superstition.

All people use the scientific method to some extent. But many superstitions notions and customs persist. Some of these are odd or amusing, and many of them are harmless. Even at best such superstitions show on uncritical attitude of mind and some of them are harmful.

MARY MASON

Simplicity Is The Keynote For Smart Styling

By DELORES EDWARDS

Many students don't do justice to the correct clothing for school. It appears that dress must be just a hit or miss on our campus, therefore, I would like to point out some principles which might help us to become more charming.

Simplicity is the keynote to successful designing. Daily when you start your grooming, remember that your appearance represents the inner you. Keep your dress simple, comfortable and attractive.

Your school clothes should be of materials that are easily cared for and will stand hard wear. Simple clothes are much more appropriate than fussy clothes. One or two piece dresses made of light weight wool, gabardine, corduroy, spun rayon, butcher linen, and salyna are most popular for school.

(Continued on Page Three)