"Twilight Reveries"

I think it no new observation, but in a world distraught, we are prone to easily cast aside the gift of prayer. When you feel that your words are worn threadbare, don't stop praying. Or if you should think your language is inadequate, don't give up prayer.

"IT IS ENOUGH"

When church bells peal their call to worship God
Or moves an ecstasy within my heart;
When eyelids droop and baby starts to nod;
When poignant memories tear my soul apart
And starry moments are obscured from view—
It is enough that I know what to do.

When shadows lengthen and twilight appears
Or comes the scent of early April rain;
When untold sorrow dims my eyes with tears
Or breathes a wordless rapture over pain;
I do not grieve for pretty words to say—
It is enough with God that I can pray!

Traffic Rules

... by RUTH TAYLOR

In one of his prophetic tales of the future ipling envisioned a world ruled by the Aerial Board of Control, whose law was that there were no laws "except what interferes with the traffic and all that it implies."

That is what this war is--an attempt by an organized gang of road hogs to interrupt the traffic of the world. And this is one thing we cannot and will not endure.

In some respects it is immaterial that the Japs waged war upon us. The end would have been inevitable. We must be able to send our ships to Malay and Singapore. We could not and cannot let the Japanese or any one else bar our ships from the seas. We could not and cannot permit an infringement of our rights to free passage to any part of the world.

Unless we keep the sea lanes open, we will have to change our manner of living. We will have to set the clock back and halt the progress of civilization. It will cost us a lot of money to win this war - but it will cost us a lot more money to lose it.

What is the answer? There is only one. We must put out every effort to win this war. That is the first task and one to which every man, woman and child must devote himself if the way of life we call American is to endure. Then will be the time to win the peace and to set up a workable way of life for the world.

We must never compromise with evil. That would be both weak and wrong. But we must strive in every way to reach a state of mutual cooperation and a willingness to work together. We must do this not only between our nations and those other nations who place the rights of man above the rights of the state - who, in short, subscribe to the four freedoms - but among ourselves. We must see to it that our minorities are so assured that their rights are not to be overrun, that they do not need to give a thought or anything except the main purpose for the moment - Victory.

It isn't as difficult as it sounds. We have already worked it out in our handling of the steady stream of cars pulsing along our highways. Traffic rules are designed not to take away rights from anyone but to adjust these rights so that all may have them.

When we set up and enforce similar rules for world problems, then we can keep the peoples of earth free to go about their business, the law-abiding protected and the reckless drivers barred forever from the roads.

State College Hints Farm Homemakers

This isn't just hearsay — In comparison with white flour, whole wheat flour contains: Six times as much Vitamin B1 (thiamin), five times as much iron four times as much phosphorus; two times as much calcium! several times as much riboflavin and Vitamin E.

Enriched flour has Vitamin B1, nicotinic acid and iron added, and it is greatly preferred to other white flour.

Soybeans are rich in Vitamins A, B, and G. They are one and one half times richer in protein than other beans. They are good to eat as a green vegetable, or they can be cooked and eaten as any ordinary dried bean. Soybean flour mixed with whole wheat flour makes delicious cookies and muffins.

Recommended varieties of edible soybeans include the "Rokusun" and "Easycook" which are sold by large seed companies, and will be found listed in most seed catalogues. The "Seminole" variety, grown in South Carolina, is also suggested for the home garden. Information about the source of seed of this variety of edible soybean may be obtained from home agents of the Extension Service.

Every Victory Garden can be made more valuable by the inclusion of edible soybeans in the plantings. The best time to plant these beans is about May 1.
