ens of Halifax and the late Mrs. Dickens. The vows were spoken before the Rev. J. M. Duncan, pastor of the bride, assisted by the Rev. C. L. Spence.

The bride entered unattended. She wore an original gown of white silk with a fitted bodice and long sleeves tapering to points over the hands, and the fullness of the skirt formed a sweeping train. Her long veil of bridal illusion with tulle which extended the length of the train was edged with Chantilly lace and caught to the Mary Stuart bonnet which was centered with a cluster of pearlized orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of white California calla lilies tied with satin ribbon. Her only ornament was a string of imported pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Cecil S. Hollomon, sister of the bride, of Powellsville, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of pink taffeta and marquisette. Her shoulder-length veil of blue illusion fell from a coronet of self-ruching. She carried an arm bouquet of pink Briarcliff roses and orchid physostegia tied with blue satin ribbon.

Miss Mabel Bryant of Franklin, Va., was maid of honor. She wore a gown of pink taffeta and marquisette also. Her shoulder-length veil of blue illusion fell from a coronet of self-ruching. She carried an arm bouquet of pink Briarcliff roses and orchid physostegia tied with blue satin ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Cecil J. Liverman, sister-in-law of the bride, of Murfreesboro, Va.; Charles R. Edwards of Christiansburg, Va.; Miss Gwendolyn Vann of Murfreesboro, and Mrs. John P. Garriss of Conway. They wore identical dresses of pastel blue and shoulder-length veils of pink. They carried arm bouquets of mixed summer flowers tied with pink satin ribbon. The attendants wore sterling silver bracelets, the gifts of the bride.

Miss Sandra Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Tucker of Murfreesboro, attended as flower girl. She wore a dress of pink taffeta and net fashioned like those of the other attendants. She carried a silver basket of rose petals showered with blue satin and lilies-of-the-valley.

Master Bert Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Johnson of Emporia, Va., attended as ring bearer. He wore a white satin suit and carried the ring on a white satin pillow on a silver tray surrounded by strange blossoms.

George Willie Dickens of Washington, D. C., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The groomsmen were Hugh White, E. P. Banks and Milton Jenkins of Murfreesboro, and Cecil S. Hollomon of Powellsville.

Mrs. Liverman the bride's mother, wore a dress of black crepe with lace inserts and a corsage of pink Briarcliff roses.

Mrs. Dickens is a graduate of Murfreesboro High School and Chowan Junior College, Murfreesboro. Mr. Dickens is a graduate of Campbell College, Buie's Creek. He is now associated with W. J. M. Holland and Sons of Murfreesboro and Franklin, Va.

For traveling, the bride wore a two-piece sheer crepe suit with black accessories. Her corsage was of pink Briarcliff roses.

LABOR IS CONSERVATIVE

Labor is conservative. When I say that to groups of employers, they look at me with astonishment to put it mildly. They are so sure that Labor is radical and its tactics revolutionary. But Labor men nod in agreement. They understand.

Labor is conservative because it believes in conservation. According to the dictionary, conservation is the act of keeping or protecting from loss or injury, and conservation is tending to preserve. Labor believes in conservation, not in destruction. Labor believes in better relationship between people and nations, in a more closely knit world society.

Labor stands for the conservation of child life. It is against the curse of child labor. It is for greater educational opportunities for all children. Our free schools are a monument to the conservatism of Labor.

Labor stands for the conservation of health. It is for closer regulation of working conditions. It is against sweated labor and dread occupational diseases. It has led the fight against factory hazards. It has striven for better and cheaper medical attention.

Labor stands for the conservation of family life. It has fought for shorter hours of work that the family might have more leisure time together. It has demanded better living conditions that each generation might rise above the one before.

Labor stands for the conservation of the mind. It asks for educational facilities that all may learn. Through its workers' education program it develops latent talents and gives to its own ranks comprehensive knowledge of current problems.

Labor stands for the conservation of the nation. It was the first to fight the subversive doctrines of the past twenty years and it has never wavered in its faith and practical adherence to the ideals of democracy. Labor's pledge never to discriminate against a fellow worker because of class, creed or color has been one of the most potent bulwarks against the divisive propaganda of those who would destroy our nation.

Labor stands for the conservation of the spirit. It acknowledges its allegiance to the one God and submits to His guidance. There is no atheism in the Labor movement.

Labor is conservative. "Live and help live" is its slogan - which conserving is the true conservatism.

State College Hints For Homemakers

BY RUTH CURRENT

It's a good idea to preserve some of your grapes for winter use. You can make them into flavorful grape juice, tart grape jelly, spicy grape butter, or rich grape jam. If you want directions for making any of these good things with grapes, write Mrs. Mary Lee McAllister, State College, Raleigh.

Grape juice and grape jelly are easy to make, but the canning experts say that there's sometimes a problem with the crystals that form in grape products. These crystals are perfectly harmless, but the gritty texture often mars the perfection of your homemade grape juice or jelly.

You can "beat these crystals at their own game" if you strain the grape juice and then let it stand overnight in a cool place. The next day carefully dip out the juice and strain in a second time. In making the juice into jelly, use this same trick.

Since there is a sugar shortage

You may wish to can the juice and make fresh jelly when it is needed and when sugar is more plentiful.

Cottage cheese is an important kind of cheese. It can be made at home. You can work cottage cheese into delicious salads and sauce dressings, into desserts, and even into cooked dishes. The high protein value means that you can use cottage cheese as the main dish of a meal.

If you want to add extra flavor to your cottage cheese, you'll have to add it in the form of onion juice chopped chivias, olives or parsley, celery or cucumbers, pimientos or green peppers.

As a sandwich filling, try cottage cheese with peanut butter, with bits of cooked bacon or ham, or chopped dried fruits. We can send you our cottage cheese recipes if you would like to have them.

Over Twelve Tons of Tobacco Stored in Douglass Packhouse; $25,000 Loss

Scotland Neck--Fire of undetermined origin Monday night destroyed a huge barn and packhouse on the Douglass Hill farm near here, owned by R. B. Douglass of Norfolk and operated by R. C. Batchelor.

The loss was placed at $25,000 but was covered partially by insurance.

The Scotland Neck Fire Department was called to the scene and saved a nearby tobacco packhouse which housed 20,000 pounds of tobacco. Other outbuildings also were saved.

The farm is one of the model farms - Douglass experimental farms.

Housed in the barn, which was valued at about $7,000, were 25,000 pounds of tobacco, valued at $10,000; two carloads of fertilizer large quantities of grain for feed, and several tons of hay, as well as a quantity of farm tools and machinery.

Grow Proteins For Your Hogs

Growers who are producing hog meat for home use can easily supply a large percentage of the required protein in the hog diet from green forage crops like alfalfa, the clovers, lespedeza, soybeans and cowpeas, says F. H. Smith, animal nutrition chemist at State College.

He points out that pigs weighing less than 100 pounds require more protein than hogs weighing over this amount. Feeding records show that corn does not supply sufficient quantity or quality of protein to satisfy the needs of either young or old pigs. Pigs grown in a dry lot should also receive a protein supplement to complete the ration.

Unless proteins are furnished, the grower is handicapped in getting the most meat at the lowest cost, says Smith. Under the existing feed shortage, it has been increasingly hard to get dairy by products, tankage, fish meal and the oil meals, so it is up to the hog grower to produce a much larger percentage of his own proteins and not depend on commercial channels, he points out.

The overall feed picture for the coming year shows that total feed supplies are not sufficient to support the present animal population and that there will probably have to be a reduction in the number of hogs which are being produced. This makes it all the more necessary to produce all of the home grown feeds possible.
