SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1874.

WADDELL & SMITH Editors and Publishers.

Our friends will see that our terms are CASH. We hope they will govern themselves accordingly.

To Correspondents. Communications to us must be accompanied by responsible names, or the same will not be published.

PROSPECTUS

THE EDUCATOR.

A weekly newspaper published every Saturday in Fayetteville N. C.

THE EDUCATOR, a journal of moral and intellectual advancement, will be especially devoted to the interests of the colored youth of North Carolina; and will be the untiring advocate of every measure calculated to benefit that class of our citizens who most feel the need of education and an organ.

While not strictly a party paper, THE EDUCATOR will earnestly defend the Republican principles and policy, believing them to be necessary to the peace, prosperity and happiness of the American people.

Religion, Literature, Agriculture and News will be made special features of THE EDUCATOR.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION: One year in advance, --- $2 00 Six months in advance, --- 1 00 Three months in advance --- .50 WADDELL & SMITH, Editors and Publishers. Fayetteville N. C.

Explanation.

The article in our last issue headed "Colored Printers" was so carelessly written, (in a hurry) as to be capable of misconstruction. By our words "that for several weeks nothing was done in the office (of the Statesman) by a white man," we simply meant to allude to the mechanical work, which was done upon the Statesman. We would not be understood to mean that we "managed" that office in any other respect than in the department of practical work in the way of executing its typographical department which with the exception of proof-reading, we were entirely entitled to the credit of.

Immigrate to North Carolina.

To those persons young or old who are comfortably and well established, we would say, stay where you are; but to the thousands who have not the means to procure themselves homes and own them in the Northern States where land is so high priced, we would say, immigrate to North Carolina. Especially are these remarks addressed to that class of persons who desire to till the soil and to own the acres which they till. Such people have but a meager chance of ever becoming free-holders among the high-priced lands in the Northern and Northeastern States, while there are but few of them but might in a few years time by economy, pluck and industry, provide comfortable homes in this State which they could with pride call their own.

To those who wish to change a damp cold climate for a dry, mild climate, we would say immigrate to the "Sunny South," and let North Carolina be the state you immigrate to.

To all who wish land in a most beautiful and quiet country, with a mild and healthful climate, we say immigrate to our good old North State where you will meet with a warm reception.

Gov. Brogden's Message

The Wilmington Star says:—The Message of the Governor of North Carolina was communicated to the two houses of the General Assembly last Wednesday. It is a candid exposition of affairs in the State and a hopeful look ahead. Conservative, dignified, courteous, in spirit and manner, it is also clever in its statements and full of practical suggestions. The Governor does not outline any plan for the adjustment of the public debt, but after classifying the items of the debt, and ascertaining its total, principal and interest, to be, as nearly as can be made out now, $38,921,848 05, of which amount $14,935, 930 is special tax bonds and interest, he urges warmly its early, honorable and satisfactory settlement.

Suitable reference is made to the sudden death of his predecessor, Gov. Caldwell, and to his own accession to the gubernatorial office.

The Governor explains most lucidly and at length the status of the rail-roads in which the State has an interest, showing that the amount necessary for the present Legislature to raise to pay the past due interest on the construction bonds of the North Carolina Railroad, and thus save the stock of the State from sale under the decree of the United States Circuit Court, will probably be over $200,000. This case is on appeal before the Supreme Court of the United States.

The message is full on the question of education. The Governor speaks of the injurious effects upon the public school system of the pendency of the Civil Rights bill, but says he simply gives expression to the views and feelings of the great body of the people of the State.

Immigration, the public charitable institutions, the penitentiary, the militia and the port and harbor of Wilmington are the other subjects that are treated.

Why was Ruth very rude to Boaz? Because she pulled his ears and trod on his corn.

An old lady, hearing somebody say the mails were irregular, said: "It was just so in my young days—no trusting any of 'em."

An Episcopal Colored Bishop.

Consecration this Evening of a Black Prelate at Grace Church—Something About the Career of a Remarkable Man.

The Rev. James Theodore Holly, D. D., of Port-au-Prince, Hayti, who will be consecrated Bishop this evening in Grace Church, is particularly remarkable as being the first colored man elected to that office by the Protestant Episcopal Church in America. Bishop Holly, as he will henceforth be called, has struggled through many difficulties to his present eminence. He is by birth a Marylander, but took up his residence at the North when quite young. In the early part of his career he turned to literature as a profession, and his friends delight in relating the following incident of this portion of his history. Mr. Holly had been for some time furnishing articles to a periodical in this city, but was personally unknown to the editor. The articles, however, were considered so excellent that the editor wrote to his unknown contributor requesting his carte de visite. Young Holly complied, and in so doing effectually cut himself off from the paper, for his patron was so much shocked at discovering the hue of his correspondent's cuticle that he, then and there, dropped all intercourse with him. Bishop Holly's successful career in Hayti, however, has been such as to obliterate any bitter recollection that he may have had in America. He has accomplished a great deal of good among his own color there, and has rendered invaluable service in many ways to the American minister resident. Not the least of these is his having charged himself with some of the minister's correspondence, which his thorough knowledge of the French language enabled him to conduct very accurately. Bishop Holly is no Octoroon or Quadroon, with a preponderance of Anglo-Saxon blood, but is a genuine colored man. In stature he is five feet ten, with a well developed physique, broad-shouldered and well-knit. His head indicates intellect and force of character, and he wears his hair cut close. His face is broad and strongly marked, with an expansive brow and keen, though honest eyes. The nose is broad and generous looking, and the mouth corresponds, but this latter is almost concealed by a heavy moustache and imperial. His manner is courteous and unobtrusive. He has the patient, self-contained look of a man who has surmounted giant obstacles and well deserves the distinction which is about to be conferred upon him.—Sunday Mercury.

ALABAMA.

Inaugural Address of Gov. Howton—Immense Concourse of People—The Military Display, &c.

MONTGOMERY, Nov. 24.

This has been a day of great rejoicing, an immense concourse of people being in the city. The military display was magnificent. Gov. Howton, in the course of his inaugural address, said:

"With a firm determination to respect and maintain my oath of office, which shall be a seal to my conscience, I unhesitatingly undertake to perform such duties as it imposes, and I will consider it as one of my highest and most sacred obligations to see that the laws are faithfully executed and the rights of all concerned, without regard to race, color or previous condition, are duly guarded and protected. Let these occasions inspire the conviction that we live in a land of liberty regulated by law, with which the citizens would have no security against domestic discord or violence, and that our duty to preserve such laws in their constitutional purity and power should not and cannot be avoided.

A Long Island tax-payer made the following speech in a discussion upon the manner in which the educational affairs were conducted: "Mr. Chairman, I arise to stand up, and I am not backward to come forward to support the grand question of education; for, Mr. Chairman, without education I would be as ignorant as you are yourself, Mr. Chairman."

NORTH CAROLINA LEGISLATURE.

First Day.

[Condensed from the Wilmington Star]

SENATE.

TUESDAY, NOV. 15.

House of Representatives.

Monday, Nov. 16.

In the election for Speaker Hon. James L. Robinson, of Macon, received 75 votes, and Dr. J. H. Wheeler, of Forsyth, 20.

Second Day.

SENATE.

Tuesday, Nov. 17.

Mr. J. Morris, of Craven, was elected almost unanimously Principal Doorkeeper.

House was informed that Senate was ready for business.

Messrs. Morehead, LeGrand and Cantwell appointed to act with House committee and inform the Governor that the Legislature was ready to receive any message from him.

Mr. Anderson Douglass, of Yadkin, was chosen Assistant Doorkeeper.

Col. J. McLeod Turner, of Buncombe, was elected Engrossing Clerk.

Mr. Waring introduced the following resolution:

That a committee of five from the Senate and eight from the House be appointed to consider whether our present Constitution requires any amendment, and if so, then the most safe, certain, practical, speedy and economical mode, and report by bill or otherwise. Placed on calendar.

Mr. Cantwell: A resolution in regard to constitutional Amendments. Provides for appointment of a joint committee to which all Constitutional Amendments shall be referred. On calendar.

At 12 M. the Senate proceeded in a body to the Hall of the House of Representatives, under a joint resolution, in order to canvass the vote for Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Upon the return of the Senate to its chamber, the President submitted the following as the STANDING COMMITTEES.

On motion of Mr. Busbee, the President of the Senate was granted leave of absence for one week.

Col. Morehead, of Guilford, will preside in the absence of President Armfield.

House of Representatives.

Action on the credentials of Mr. Oaksmith, from Carteret, deferred for Mr. Tate to make a statement.—He said that he had been informed that Mr. Oaksmith was not a citizen of the United States, and that there was evidence on file, in the office of Principal Clerk of the House, to show that he acknowledged himself a resident of Germany not more than twelve months ago. He was not actuated by any personal hostility to Mr. Oaksmith, but to perform his duty as a representative of the people.

The Speaker, after quoting law and authority on the subject, decided that the credentials being presented in due form, he had no right to reject Mr. Oaksmith, whereupon he came forward, took the prescribed oath and was seated.

The further organization of the House was then proceeded with, the following result:

Principal Clerk—Col. John D. Cameron, of Orange.

Reading Clerk—Col. Washington M. Hardy, of Buncombe.

Committee to confer with Senate committee respecting Governor's message consisting of Messrs. Blythe, Richardson, Means, Erwin and Barnett.

Senate and House went into joint session to compare vote for Superintendent of Public Instruction. On motion the Counties of Wake, Franklin and Henderson were counted out being defective, and the report was received. Col. S. D. Pool was declared elected by a majority of 1,436.

MUTUAL ADMIRATION.—Some

two miles up the gulch from Radersburg, Montana Territory, is a small mining camp called Keatingville.—Here, not long since, the miners and ranchmen of the vicinity congregated for a dance, and dance they did, with an unctious unknown to your city belles and beaux. One interesting young man, Dave Boerum, having imbibed rather too freely, became "fatigued" in the course of the evening, and wisely concluded to "retire" for a short rest. A door ajar near the dancing hall revealed invitingly a glimpse of a comfortable bed of which he took possession, with a prospect of an undisturbed "snooze."

It so happened that this was the ladies' withdrawing room, and no sooner had he closed his eyes than a pair of blooming Montana damsels came in from the hall and began adjusting their disordered ringlets, the dim light of the tallow candle not disclosing the tenant of the bed. The girls had tongues, like most of their "sock," which ran on in this wise:

"What a nice dance we are having! Have you heard anybody saying anything about me, Jane?"

"La, yes, Sally. George Crowan says he never see you look so handsome as you do to-night. Have you heard anybody say anything about me?"

"About you! Why, sartin. I heard John Hildebran tell Reuben Rader that you were the prettiest dressed girl in the room."

Whereupon the dear things chuckled, "fixed up" a little more, and made off toward the ball-room. They had hardly reached the door when our half-conscious friend raising himself upon his elbow, and quite intelligibly, though slowly, inquired:

"Have you heard anybody say anything about me, gals?"

"Phansy their phelings" at that juncture. They fled, with an explosive scream.

An erring husband, who had exhausted all explanations for late hours, and had no apology ready, recently slipped into the house about one o'clock very softly, denuded himself gently, and began rocking the cradle by the bedside, as if he had been awakened out of a sound sleep by infantile cries. He had rocked away for five minutes, when Mary Jane, who had silently observed the whole manoeuvre, said, "Come to bed, you fool, you! the baby ain't there."
