

Laughter.

The old stand-by, "The Night Before Christmas" was beautifully done by Helen Braswell. The other recitations given by Marie Stewart, Carol Padgett, and Evelyn Overby were fabulous in anybody's book.

The Pantomime, "The Choirs of God", given by Sandra Ward, Howard Mallard, C. L. Gurganus, Fred Toole, and Bob Johnson really gives us the true spirit of Christmas.

Nice going, Dramatics Club! Keep up the good work! Your efforts are appreciated by the entire student body!

LETTERS TO SANTA

Dear Santa,

Please bring Ruthie and Julie a bottle of sand from Wrightsville Beach! (Just for old time's sake!)

A friend... Who Knows

Dear Santa,

Please bring me four BEWARE stickers. I want one for each side of my car.

Your friend,
Sally Wood

Dear Santa,

Please bring me a bottle of brown hair dye. (It's urgent.)

Edwin "Red" Hargrove

Dear Santa,

Please bring us a jug supply of red toboggans.

Thanks,
The boys who don't have one.

Dear Santa,

Please bring me a size four (4) shoe. (I can dream, can't I?)

Ann Booker

Dear Santa,

Please bring Coach Bain an air-conditioned coat, so we can close the windows.

The students

Dear Santa,

Instead of visions of sugar plums, bring us visions of ideas for speech class.

Thanks,
Students in Speech class

"Santa Baby"

Ple-e-ase bring me a great big, juicy, hunk of man.

Your dahling,
Beth

Dear Santa,

TOP SECRET

In hushed and excited tones the sophomore home economics girls tiptoe over the department. Everything is very secretive. If one happened by, a low murmur and mumble may be audible. A peek in at the door will reveal the secret. Needles flash and sewing machines hum. Bright scraps of wood are scattered among the table legs and even more of it is on the tables. "All of this is very interesting," one may say, "but what are they making?" Ask them. They are making beautiful winter fashions of soft hues and prints. Soon the top secret will emerge in all its glory.
