SMITHFIELD HIGH TIMES

to be well-rounded persons, we must participate in every extra-curricular activity offered. In other words, the object is not to excel, but to participate. As a result, we are members of various organizations, clubs, and societies. We are not real contributors to any of them.

In our formative years, high school years particularly, we should be our main focus. As we begin to fall as a result of too many outside activities, we should be aware of the cause and know how to avoid it. If "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

In a recent young people's magazine there appeared an article entitled "Are You College Material?" The article was in the form of a test. Some of the questions were very helpful.

1. How many books not required for a course have you read in the last three months?
2. How many good news and literary magazines do you read regularly?
3. Do you do any research or read assignments?
4. Do you consider your studies an adventure?
