

By the way, another actress in the class is that lovely strawberry blond, Brenda Stephenson. She is conducting an "Advice to the Lovelorn" on TV. Kathy McGee is her associate. I hear they live quite a gay life in the big city!

Many of our seniors went to New York to seek their fortunes. I wonder if you ever run into any of them? David Lee won the title of Mr. Universe at Madison Square Garden last week. The contest was so strenuous that he's in the hospital now. Kay Boyette, the director of nurses there, says he will recover but that it will take a long time.

I realize that you're a busy man but do take time to go down on Fifth Avenue and take a look at Tan Barefoot. He's really got it made. He is working with the Beauty Rest Mattress Company. All he has to do is lie in bed in a show window and sleep peacefully eight hours a day. Embarrassing? I should say not! Tan's been used to people watching him sleep. The only trouble is that he hates for the time to come to quit work each day!

Best dressed Billy Wellons almost never made up his mind what he wanted to do; but, after having experienced the embarrassment of torn pants so many times in high school, he has opened a factory in New Jersey called The Wellon's Trousers, guaranteed not to rip, snip, or tear!

Elsewhere in the world -- Jeffrey Williams has moved to a Mormon colony in Asia. He never could make up his mind between Eve Sugg and that other girl he went with so now he has two wives -- Old Jeff thinks of everything!

Have you seen the May issue of Vogue Magazine? That Sue Hooks is really a lovely cover girl. Jeanne Moore Honeycutt designed the dress she is wearing. Carol Ann Wickham, the society editor of the Smithfield Herald, has an article about them last week in the paper.

Dean Ennis, world famous trick shot artist, is now touring pool rooms throughout the country putting on exhibitions. In spite of his fame and fortune -- and his natural charm, Dean is still single and I guess you know why -- no girl could ever believe him!

Doctors Charles Wilkins and Dan Barefoot left a string of broken hearts here in the states. They have gone to Indonesia to work with the natives. They decided that their work was more important than marriage could ever be. All the girls are weeping. Such a pity, too, that Judy Forbes will probably be an old maid school teacher after all.

Joyce Wiggs is an artist now. Her best known painting is "The Lady With A Smile". Her model was Gretchen Brown. The smile? Oh yes, she married that well-known pediatrician, Joey Overby, you know!

It's nice to know, too, that Wayne Capps has become a world famous evangelist. We are real proud of him.

Have you seen the new TV show "Keep Talking"? I just couldn't believe my eyes when I saw who was on the panel -- Donald Byrd, Johnny Beasley, and Richard Creech! It's a pretty good show but Donald Wallace, president of NBC, says they're going to have to cancel their contracts -- viewers think something is wrong with the audio in their sets. They just sit --- no talk!

Getting closer home -- that debonaire Jamie Johnson is head of the history department at the University of North Carolina. His associate is none other than
