

SMITHFIELD HIGH TIMES

The best dressed senior girl, Jeanne Moore Honeycutt, leaves her sewing ability to Bonnie Coats, Trudy Flowers, Kay Jones, and Jenny Olive.

Director of the YMCA Weightlifting Club, David "Brawn" Lee, leaves his barbells to Thomas Adams, Charles Ellis, and Ricky Bridges, Now you can have brawn and brains, boys.

Gretchen Brown and Elaine Crumpler leave their warm seats on the bench for Patsy Edwards and Linda Byrd for they know you girls are tired of running up and down the court.

Cassanova, Skip Sykes, leaves an undecided mind for Larry Stephenson and Joe Dan Underwood.

Former hunters, Lola Mae Moye and Linda Alford, leave their boy traps for Eleanor Ruth Woodall and Brenda Walden.

Civil War enthusiast, Donald Wallace, leaves his storehouse of knowledge to Spike Yarborough.

Nelson McLamb leaves his roadmap of the Pittsboro area to Bill Talton, including the deserted house.

Hassling Linda Higgins leaves her punctuality to Sara Nell Hill.

Vick Ogburn and Charles Wilkins leave their key to Shangri-La on the river to Bill Harris so that he may keep it up in their absence; but they're not giving it to him.

Earl Johnson and Sammy Johnson Daughtry, who have done considerable research in "How to be Married and Stay in School", leave their findings to Imogene Creech and Gail Strickland.

Idol of the freshman and sophomore fan club, J. A. Stephenson, leaves all of his ardent admirers to John McFadyen, Glenn Jones, Randy Johnson, Donald Bailey, Earl Barnes, and Ray Capps. J. A. hopes that with combined efforts, they can handle his duties.

Authors of the book, "I Was A Healthy High School Student", Emma Lou Gardner and Johnny Beasley, leave autographed copies to Lynwood Byrd and William Sellers.

Pat Buchanan leaves her book list to Gail Tyner - saying "Read on".

Donald Stephenson leaves his ability to drive to Mike Warren and Gary Winstead.

Danny Barbour leaves his mechanical talents to Billie Mintz, being fully aware of her deficiency in this field.

Johnny Gray and Dwight Hill leave their privilege of courting in the halls to Bobby Penny, Leon Tucker, and Shelia Kennerson.

President of the Hound Club, Billy Poteat, leaves membership cards to Walker Wells and Tyler Edmonson on the condition that they remain true to the theme song "The Wanderer".

Wayne Capps bequeaths his pleasing personality and goodness to Franklin Grimes.

Jesse Parrish leaves his long flexible legs to Douglas Jones.

Alice Stanley leaves her talent for capturing the heart of a Selma boy to Jenette Byrd. She says the higher you climb the broader the view.

David Putnam, expert astronomer, leaves his laboratory at the Go-Cart race track to Jack Daughtry. This is to take effect only after David's graduation.

Geniuses Sheila Crumpler and Dewey Lawson leave their "All 1's" to Don Flowers, and Linda Lewis

Bill Taylor leaves his book, "Bachelor Around Town" to Sandy Massey, Telfair Ogburn, and Jimmy Ferrell. He guarantees success if they follow instructions.

Patsy Strickland, your problems are solved. Bet Booker leaves her ability to get a classring in six easy lessons to you.

Billy Wayne Carroll departs without his beautiful girl so Durwood Stephenson may have her.

Kathie Lassiter leaves her most enjoyable job, playing for Boys' Glee Club, to Jane Boyette.

"Shark" Charles Barbour leaves his lease on the Billards Hall to Larry Bryant.

To Danny Evans and Craig Overby, Tan Barefoot and Watts Ward gladly leave their ability to get speeding tickets. 'Taint hard.