

SMITHFIELD HIGH TIMES

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

We, the Senior Class of 1967, being sound in body, mind, and soul, solemnly bequeath the following items to certain underclassmen.

Inasmuch as the recipients should treasure these as much as their predecessors;

Whereas they should regard these as sacred priorities bestowed upon them by the generous and idolized upper classmen;

Whereas we expect them to use these blessings to the very fullest of their abilities:

Item I. Lawrence Banks Coor leaves his precious long locks to Peter Hulth, III, who is certain to appreciate them.

Item II. Justine Leigh Blow leaves her "impressive abilities" to Elva Susan Jones in hopes that she will cherish them.

Item III. Frank Edward Barnes leaves his "omnipotent traits" to Stephen Clarence Woodard, II, who is almost perfect.

Item IV. James Ransom Creech just leaves.

Item V. William Thaddeus Boone leaves his loquacity to John Stevenson Bryant who manages well enough without it.

Item VI. Sylvia Jo Hamilton leaves her sense of humor to enlighten Carol Richardson Grantham.

Item VII. Mickey Lee Black leaves her sophistication to Jean Leigh Woodruff.

Item VIII. Hunter Eli Clive leaves his virility to Ronnie Earl Stancil.

Item IX. Brenda Suzanne Stancil leaves her naivete to Shirlee M. Woodson.

Item X. Jane Gaston Holt leaves her poise to Julia Tatum Gilbert.

Item XI. Timothy Carr Daughtry leaves his position as drum major and his beloved baton to William Edward Jackson, who will probably give them away.

Item XII. Robert Joel Beland leaves his appreciation of geometry to Willie A. Smith.

Item XIII. Nancy Beth Johnson leaves her modesty to Watson Carl Wharton, who can use it.

Item XIV. David Michael Prevette leaves his impishness to Edwin Henry Patterson, who doesn't need it at all.

Item XV. Gilbert DeWitt Stephenson, Jr., leaves his excellent taste in fashion to Galen Bolin.

Item XVI. Carlton W. Cverby leaves his willingness to fight to Durwood Rose.

Item XVII. Glenda Carol Sullivan leaves her spirit of felicity to Sandra Elizabeth Clayton.

Item XVIII. Elaine Allen leaves to Cathy Lewis her coquettish abilities and feels sure she will carry on as well.
