CHARGE OF RAPE BY FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL CHANGED TO SAVE MAN FROM GAS CHAMBER

Ahoskie — The Grand Jury of Hertford County followed the usual pattern of North Carolina courts and refused here this week to indict a 45-year-old white man for rape of a 15-year old Negro girl.

The crime, described by many as one of the most wanton ever committed in Hertford County was apparently whitewashed and reduced to "carnal knowledge" of a female under sixteen years of age" to save the white man from having to face trial for rape, the penalty of which is death in this State.

Frank Newsome, formerly of Aulander but now of New York, had been held in jail on the charges filed by the girl, Hattie Hoggard. He did not offer testimony at the preliminary hearing and was bound over without bond.

Newsome is expected to go on trial at the present term of Hertford County Court over which Judge Henry A. Grady is presiding.

At the preliminary hearing the young girl testified that Newsome came to her home in Powellsville on June 30 and asked her to go with him to his home and stay with his three children while he and his wife went to the theatre. He had one of the children with him.

The girl testified that she got in Newsome's car and that he drove to Ahoskie where he asked her to wait while he went after his wife and other children. Instead he came back alone.

He drove her to a lonely road between Murfreesboro and Winton where she testified he raped her after choking her and threatening to kill her if she did not submit. The girl testified that Newsome raped her five times between 2 and 7 p. m.

Investigation at the Clerk of Court's office by a representative of the CAROLINA TIMES disclosed that no white man has ever been convicted in Hertford County for raping a Negro woman.

Several prominent Negro citizens here stated that if Newsome is convicted he will probably be let off with a fine.

PAMLICO CITIZENS SAY SCHOOL CHILDREN ARE VICTIMS OF DISCRIMINATION

ORIENTAL—Attorney General Harry McMullan was informed last week by Attorney M. Hugh Thompson of Durham, that school officials of Pamlico County are discriminating against Negro children.

Thompson told McMullan in his telegram that, "A group of colored citizens of Oriental, Pamlico County, are contending that their children are being denied their rights to equal protection of the law under the 14th amendment of the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of North Carolina as to educational facilities offered children of the white race of that county."

"I am advised you have approved State funds for repairs and buildings. I have written the County Board of Education of Pamlico County, which promises a reply after August 1, 1951. We advise that funds be withheld until such time as an amicable adjustment of these differentials . . . may be made."

It has been reported that Fred Horton, white, of Oriental, a former member of the County Board, has pledged his aid financially and other wise, to assist Negro children in obtaining access to the new Central High School which will be opened in Oriental in September.

Mr. Horton expressed his belief that Negroes of Pamlico County are not being treated fairly, even though the Board of Education awarded $100,000 last Friday in contracts for expansion and improvement at the Pamlico County Training School near Bayboro.

Horton contends that the amount of available State funds for building new schools was not divided fairly or on the basis of Negro and white population.

Separate Units To Be Abolished In Six Months

Washington — In line with the announced plans of the Department of the Army a spokesman for General Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme commander of UN Forces in the Far East announced this week that the lesson learned in the Korean war is that you can't make a first-class soldier out of a second-class citizen.

A release from the Department of Defense in Washington last week stated emphatically that plans for carrying to completion the integration of Negro personnel, which is already in progress, in all combat units of the Far East Command.

This integration will be phased over a period of approximately six months. A similar integration program will be applied to service type units.

In order to achieve more efficient utilization of manpower, the 24th Infantry Regiment, whose enlisted personnel are now entirely Negro, will be inactivated. The 24th Infantry Regiment is part of the 25th Infantry Division. An integrated regiment will be substituted for the 24th Infantry Regiment in the 25th Infantry Division.

It has been demonstrated, the Army said, that in combat in Korea Negro soldiers serve more effectively in integrated units.
