When you come to downtown Statesville for your morning cup of coffee, take a moment to glance up at the town clock. Not every day, but on days when the humidity and the temperature is just right, the birds gather atop the clock, perch awhile, then fly off in large numbers, making room for another bunch, which starts the cycle over again.

BOB PLYLER / IREDELL CITIZEN

Back before baseball turned into big business with big salaries and million-dollar stadiums. Back before television, when only the big games had radio coverage, there was the Statesville Owls. This picture was made in 1963. Can you recognize any of the players?
