

PROCONIAN

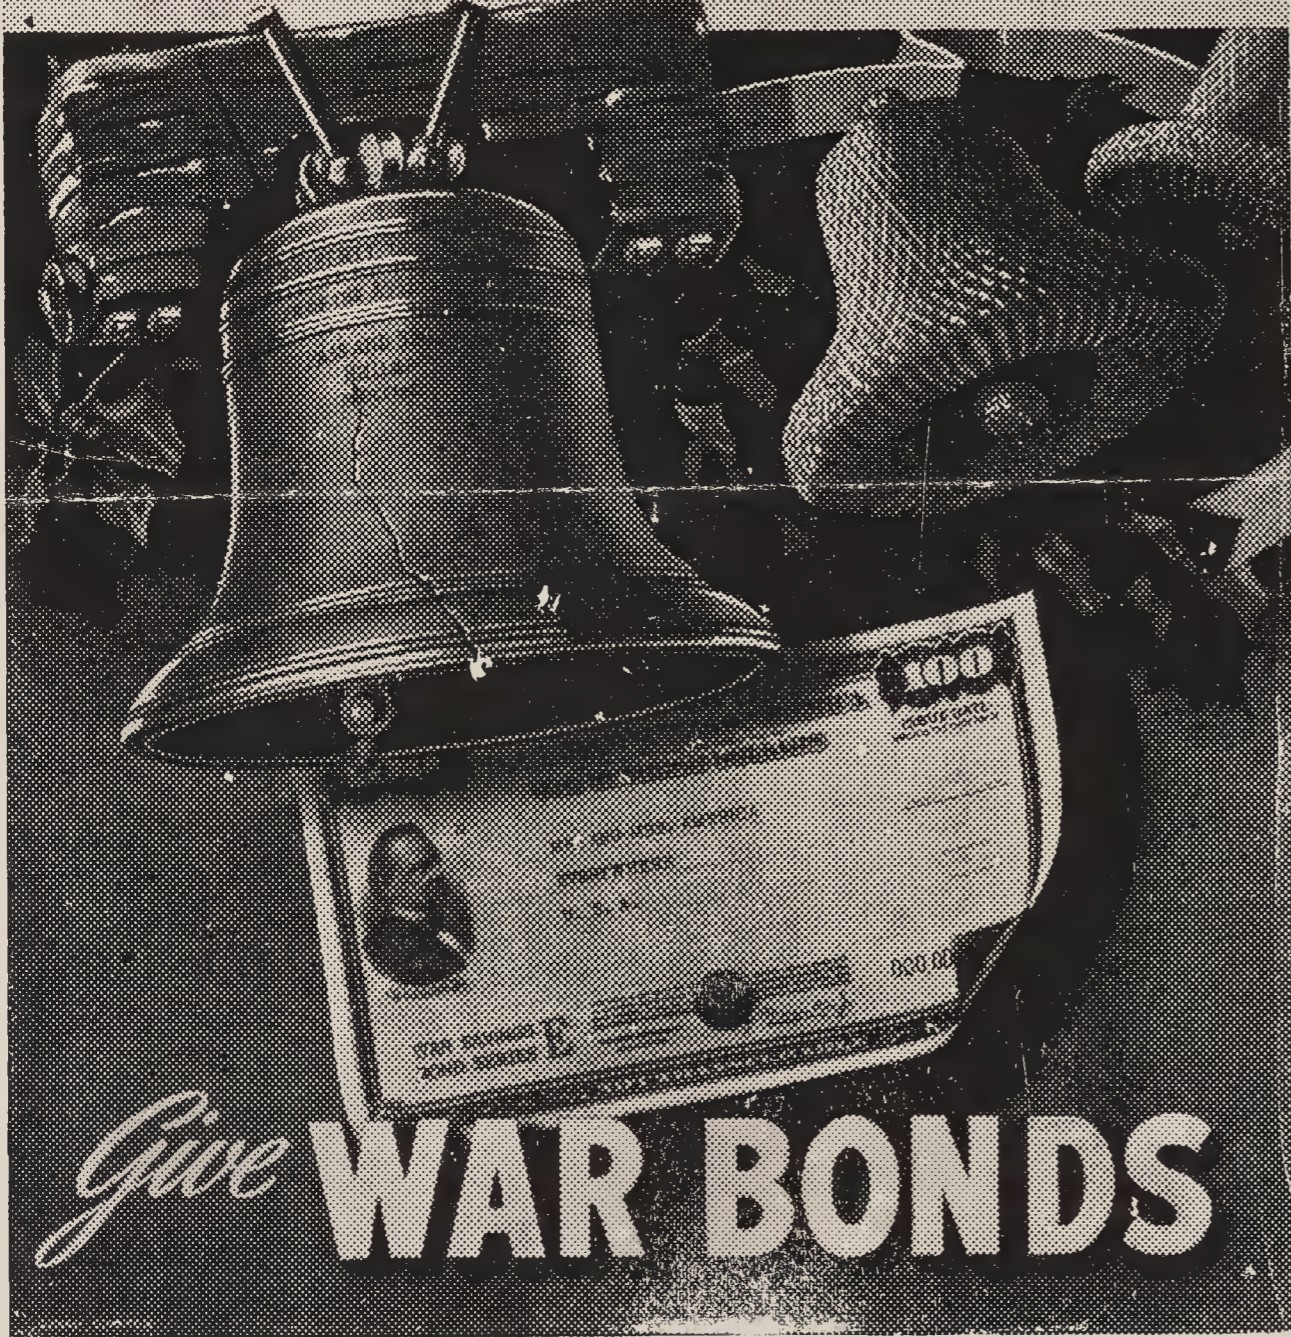

Vol. XV—No. 12

Chapel Hill High School, Chapel Hill, N. C.

Thursday, December 21, 1944

Proposed Plans Of New School Made Public

For Liberty and Peace on Earth

Proconival Is Huge Success As Cashion and Lloyd Win Contest

A crowd of over three hundred people jammed the Tin Can last Saturday night as the long-awaited Proconian carnival finally became a realization.

Those who paid the price of admission were treated to an evening's entertainment consisting of side-shows, raffles, penny pitching, refreshments, picture auctions, and the vocal renditions of a trio of C. H. H. S. girls.

See PROCONIVAL, page eight

University Loans Bleachers To School

Recently the Physical Education Department of the U. N. C., headed by Dr. O. K. Cornwell, provided bleachers for use in the C. H. H. S. Tin Can. The stands were installed at each end of the gymnasium by employees of the University and are now ready for use.

Modern and Colonial Types Being Considered By Planning Boards

By Billy Carmichael

The much disputed question of the design for the new Chapel Hill High School came to something of a head this week when the School Planning Board, through its chairman, Mr. J. Temple Gobel, released to this paper for the first time the two sets of plans that have been proposed.

The question of the new High School is one that has been high in the minds of Chapel Hillians ever since the tragic fire in the summer of 1942. Because of the

See PLANS, page three

Noted Artist Designs Proconian Masthead

The Proconian is deeply indebted to Mr. Jack Manly Rose, noted American artist, for the new masthead which is being used for the first time in this issue. Mr. Rose is best known for the books of sketches of historical places that he does in collaboration with his wife, Mrs. Grace Rose. Some of his better known works are "Colonial Williamsburg" and "Northeast from Boston."

Mr. Rose, who resides in Summit, New Jersey, is now at work on a book of sketches of the University which will be published next year in connection with the 150th Anniversary of the opening of the University.

Mr. Rose has been in Chapel Hill several times in the past year in connection with this work and is extremely interested in the town itself.

Much credit is due to this great American artist for an exceptionally well done piece of work.

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS

The Christmas holidays will begin today (Thursday), December 21, and will end Tuesday, January 2, making a total of twelve days for celebration.

Student Does Fine Poster For Library

Those visiting the library during the past few days may have noticed the beautiful Christmas poster on the bulletin board, which was painted by a C. H. H. S. student, Sylvia le Clair. The poster, reproduced by hand from a much smaller picture, depicts the coming of the wise men. Much credit is due this student

See POSTER, page eight

Annual Editor Appoints Staff

At a meeting of the Senior Class last Friday nominations for annual editors were made by Editor-in-Chief Billy Carmichael and approved by the class. Those appointed were Helen Philips, senior editor, and Johnny Gobel, sports editor.

Mr. William Pugh of the Orange Printshop was also present at the meeting and together with the class discussed plans for this year's annual. Among the questions under discussion were the type of cover to be used, deadlines and publication dates and the number of pictures that would be used.

Election of Pat Hole as roving reporter completed the business of the meeting.