

PROCONIAN

Vol. XXXV, No. 3

Chapel Hill High School, Chapel Hill, N. C.

Wednesday, November 21, 1962

Thanksgiving Dance sponsors make plans for tomorrow night. Clockwise Jane Graham, Jayne Cottingham, Terrell Seawell, Eva Lee Blaine.

Dance To Be Held Thanksgiving Nite

The highlight of the Thanksgiving holiday for the Chapel Hill High School set is the annual Thanksgiving Dance, which will be held tomorrow, from 8:30 until 12 P.M. in the Carolina Inn ballroom.

Plans began weeks ago with the selection of additional sponsors from the three high school classes. Former senior sponsors are Becky Tatum, Peggy Umstead, Jayne Cottingham, Eva Lee Blaine, Terrell Seawell, Ann Cleaveland, and Gale Greene.

Chosen as new senior sponsors are Toni Dorfman, Sally Ivey, Barbara Lalanne, Beverly Leng, Susan Prince, Jane Russell, Nikki Watts, and Winborne Shaffer.

Junior class sponsors are Jane Dyer, Mary Ellen Lane, Nancy Saunders, Dale Sloan, Myrt Trageser, Sue Tyree, and Deedee Whitney.

Representing the sophomore class are Nancy Aycock, Jane Graham, Ann Phillips, and Marianne Thompson.

Invitations have been sent out to all Chapel Hill High School students and other Chapel Hill students who attend private schools.

The sponsors have engaged the Embers combo to provide dancing music. Dr. Howard Thompson, superintendent of schools, has been invited to serve as master of ceremonies during the presentation of the sponsors and their escorts at 9:15 P.M.

Jill Hickey Sparks Drive In Powder Puff Rivalry

Junior Jill Hickey paced her team to a victory over the senior girls in CHHS's second annual powder-puff football game Friday.

Jill tallied all of her team's points as she scored on two long-yardage runs. In the first quarter she intercepted a senior pass and raced down the sidelines to put the juniors ahead 6-0.

In the opening moments of the second quarter, Jill again carried, this time on an around-end run, and scored again. The extra-point attempts failed both times.

Later in the second quarter the seniors broke into the scoring column for the first time with Beverly Leng's scoring run from the junior 20-yard line.

The seniors added two points on a touchback when a junior punter found herself unable to Miss May Marshbanks, principal, has been cited by the Future Teachers Club for her outstanding work in the field of education. This announcement was made by the FTA for the first time today.

"During National Education Week (November 11-17) the club members tried to evaluate why they wanted to become teachers," explained Mrs. Carolyn Horn, FTA adviser.

"Most of them agreed that the decision resulted from the inspiration they had found in some of their teachers. Because of her outstanding work in teaching and administration and the great variety of her teaching interests, the club decided that Miss Marshbanks was an excellent example of high teaching ability."

Miss Marshbanks majored in biology and Latin at Meredith College, where she later earned a certificate in music. She also did graduate work in mathematics and education at the University of North Carolina.

She taught music, Latin, and math in Canton, N.C. She taught math at CHHS before becoming the first woman to be principal of a North Carolina high school.

In addition to teaching, Miss Marshbanks has served as adviser to the Student Council. She was also instrumental in organizing the Honor Council and the local chapter of the National Honor Society.

An accomplished organist, Miss Marshbanks is a member of a national organists' association. She has sung in the UNC Choral Club and is director of the choir of the University Methodist Church.

Miss Marshbanks is also a member of the Delta Kappa Gamma, an honorary teachers' society.

Miss Marshbanks prepares to make announcements over the public address system.

get the ball while she stood in her own end-zone.

There was no scoring in the second half and the game ended with a 12-8 victory for the junior girls.

Outstanding linemen for each team included Sally Ivey, Becky Tatum, and Joan Archer for the seniors, while Jackie Jennings and Wendy Chipman defended the juniors.

Backs Wanda Jones and Gale Greene moved the seniors, and Jill Hickey and Susan Culbreth sparked the victorious juniors.

During the half-time period the class kings were announced and officially crowned by CHHS faculty member Miss Helen Wilkin, who planted a kiss on the cheek of each winner. The senior king was Corky Norwood with junior king Randy Ellington and sophomore king Donnie Clark.

Heading the graceful cheerleaders were David Ripperton from the junior class, and David Clark and George Thompson from the senior class.

Parents and Students Join To Organize New League

Many students who have heard about the Parent-Youth League may have questions about it.

Mrs. Ida Friday, newly elected president, recently answered these questions posed by Proconian reporters.

Q: What exactly is the purpose of the Parents-Youth League?

A: We hope that the league will act as a medium through which parents and children can exchange ideas and suggest standards for cultural, recreational and social activities. Ideally, it is a program through which parents can better meet the needs of their children.

Q: How does the league expect to help parents meet these needs?

A: At the league meetings among parents and students of certain grade levels, general agreements will be made. These agreements will be published in a list of suggestions to the family.

Q: Must these agreements be observed by every family?

A: No. Each family will still set its own standards for children's activities. For instance, if the ninth grade group suggests a curfew of 10 or 11, this curfew does not necessarily have to be observed by each family.

Q: What role will the student play?

A: The student can play as large a role as he wishes. He is a full member of the organization; his suggestions and his vote are respected just as much as his parents'.

Q: Has much interest been shown by the students?

A: Several students attended the first meeting, some without their parents. Study groups are set up on the sixth through twelfth grade levels, and any students in these grades can join the league.

Q: What is the origin of the league?

A: The league was started by a committee set up by the Methodist Church to study the social needs of this area.

3 Parties Scheduled by Rec Council

"The purpose of the Recreation Club is to fill in gaps in the needs of recreation in the community," explains Mrs. Dana Hiller, director of the teenage recreation program.

"The funds allotted us by the Recreation Department enable us to have almost any activities we wish. This year we are broadening the program to include athletics, specific interest groups, and community service projects, as well as social programs."

A Rec Council, headed by co-chairmen Lee Fambrough and Doug Anderson, will plan programs according to interest shown in various activities.

So far three combo parties have been scheduled, the first of which will be a Holiday Dance held on December 28. Other Christmas activities will include a party for a local orphanage which will be given by the club members.

Open houses at the Rec Center after all home basketball games are also a part of the plans.

"Last week we passed out interest questionnaires in the homerooms," explains Lee Fambrough. "These will help us plan more activities, because we will have a better idea of CHHSers' areas of special interest."

Possible programs include organized bridge tournament, bowling leagues and tennis and golf instruction.

'She's Fast On Draw'

Senior Gale Greene has recently released the information that her aunt is a celebrity. Mrs. Gerry Wayne McIntyre, a 25-year-old native of Dayton, Ohio, has received the title of "fastest girl draw in Ohio".

As member of the Mustangers Club, which studies the Old West and practices sharp shooting, Mrs. McIntyre entered and won the local shooting contest in Dayton. She then entered the 1960 state contest and won first place.

"Leaves by the hundreds came . . ."

Conspiracy Ensnares Unwary Instructor

Mrs. June Basile was the victim of one of the happiest conspiracies of her life two weeks ago.

Her fifth period Spanish class, in league with Miss Elizabeth Raney and Mrs. Becky Shepard, tricked Mrs. Basile into celebrating her wedding anniversary at school. (Which anniversary she was observing was not revealed.)

Mrs. Shepard lured Mrs. Basile away from her room so that students could lay out the wedding cookies, but unfortunately the counselor got her signals crossed, for she distracted Mrs. Basile during the wrong period.

Miss Raney came to the rescue by inviting Mrs. Basile into her room to observe her students taking a French test. Somewhat puzzled but nevertheless interested, Mrs. Basile fell into the trap.

When she finally unlocked the door to her room, she found her blackboard decorated with anniversary greetings. Goodies went along with the Spanish lesson that day.

Passing Views

Linda Upchurch paying for her annual with 465 pennies . . . Ann Dye shaking her pocket book frantically trying to get a bee out of it during U. S. History . . . Peter Bream turning the junior class meeting over to Jill Hickey because of his wisdom-tooth extraction . . . Grove Burnett kicking Miss Raney's desk in frustration when a drawer wouldn't open . . . Pat Mann in the school store teaching Mary Beth Coker how to box . . . Mary Lindsay Spearman and Nancy Sasser becoming accomplished thespians in the Playmakers' production of "Guys and Dolls."