

Knights of Columbus Roundup

Edited By Duane A. Russell
State Public Relations Chairman

It's Catequiz time again, and most Councils throughout the State are now preparing to hold or have already held their local contests to determine who will represent their schools at the Annual State Catequiz Contest sponsored by the State Knights of Columbus Council in Greensboro on Sunday, April 23. Only eighth grade students are participating. To date we have reports from the following Councils:

ST. LAWRENCE, 1965, ASHEVILLE: John Keifer, St. Eugene's School, won first place in the contest held on Palm Sunday in the school auditorium. The team from St. Anthony's School won the team trophy with 27 points. Other individual winners were: Alfred Anderson, St. Anthony's School, second; Jerry Moore, St. Eugene's, third; Michele Evans, Michael Hoke, and Diana Mahaffey, all of St. Anthony's, won 4th, 5th and 6th places; Kathleen Newton, Sacred Heart (Brevard) seventh; Terri Kenna, St. Lawrence Sunday School, eighth; Cathy Hubbard, St. Eugene's, ninth, and Patsy Lingerfelt, St. Genevieve-of-the-Pines, tenth.

SANTA MARIA, 2829, WINSTON SALEM: Jim Crouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wanda M. Crouse, won first place in the fifth annual catequiz held at our Lady of Mercy School auditorium. Second place was won by Laura Schuhmacher, of Our Lady of Mercy School, and Frances Bott, of St. Leo's, won third place honors. Other students participating were Marshall Jeffries, Tramona Davis and Frankie Jenkins, of St. Benedict's School; Michael Heathy and Meleah Hodges, both of Our Lady of Mercy School, and Sharon Booker, of St. Leo's School.

FR. WILLIAM O'BYRNE, 3574, JACKSONVILLE: Maria Vecchio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Vecchio, of Infant of Prague School, won first honors in the annual Catequiz contest held at Holy Spirit School. Second place winner was Bruce S. Babski, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Babski, a student at Holy Spirit. Third place went to Robert R. Foran, 2nd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Foran, a student of Infant of Prague, and John Standquist, of Camp Lejeune, and a student at Holy Spirit, was fourth place winner.

More than 60 persons attended the recent Clergy Night program sponsored by Santa Maria Council 2829, Winston Salem. Brother Donald Daniel served as M.C. and introduced the guests, each of whom spoke for a minute. Msgr. Michael J. Begley, pastor of St. Leo's, mentioned the need for greater effort in dialogue and other communication among our separated brethren in this ecumenical age. He also mentioned his dependence upon the clergy of other faiths in carrying out his own pastoral duties.

Besides Msgr. Begley, the following members of the clergy were present: Rev. Joseph T. Tobin, O.S.B., Asst. pastor of St. Leo's Church; Rev. Francis R. Moeslein, pastor of St. Benedict the Moor Church; Rev. Jesse L. Creel, pastor of Our Lady of Fatima Church; Rev. Thomas O'Brien, pastor of Our Lady of Mercy Church; Dr. Jack Noffsinger, pastor of Knollwood Baptist Church; Rabbi David Rose of Temple Emanuel Synagogue, and Mrs. Rose, and Rev. Benjamin Daniels, Director of the Forsyth Baptist Missionary Fellowship.

CAUTIOUS OF NEW ENCYCLICAL

Washington — (NC) — Communist radio broadcasts monitored here indicate that the world's communist nations have taken a cautiously complimentary view of Pope Paul VI's new encyclical, Development of Peoples.

Albert Reiss, commentator for East Berlin's Deutschlandsender, praised the papal document as a condemnation of capitalism and found in it strong support both of general and specific proposals for peace and prosperity made by communist countries.

On the other hand, Radio Belgrade's Dragoljub Katic found fewer parallels between the encyclical and communist doctrine, and pointed out that the Pope's letter did not condemn capitalism but only certain aspects of it.

The Yugoslav commentator concluded by questioning whether the papal goals outlined in the encyclical can be achieved without Catholic cooperation with the communist and socialist nations.

'Cover Story' Tells Nun's Aid To Dependents

The "cover story" feature of this week's Sunday Visitor Supplement for a national reading public tells the story of Belmont-located Holy Angels Nursery Story with the central personalities of Sister M. Patrice and Maria.

Sister recently was cited by Saint Joseph College, Emmittsburg, Maryland by an award and she and the child were present at the occasion.

The citation address referred to the terrible pressures of war, famine, Socio-medical, population explosion and lack of consideration of human rights to which many infants are subjected today, especially being unwanted.

"At this time of confused thinking it is so wholesome to meet Sister Marie Patrice. Here is a woman dedicated to saving human life and the immortal soul that accompanies that life. Sister Marie Patrice, a Sister of Mercy of North Carolina, has been a nun for twenty-five years. Failing health was God's finger pointing to the work that she does today. Her assignment to light duties at the Sacred Heart Day Nursery was a step toward the founding of Holy Angels Nursery where Sister is Mother to exceptional children. These infants of every race and creed have one need, the love and care showered on them by Sister Marie Patrice and her companions."

"In so many respects her love and zeal remind us of the Saint we honor as Saint Joseph College bestows on Sister the Saint Louise De Marillac Medal."

Encyclical Welcomed

(NC News Service)

Pope Paul's encyclical "On the Development of Peoples" — described by one theologian as "the Church's definitive answer to Marxism" — received nearly unanimous praise from religious leaders in the United States.

"It is going to be a bombshell in the U.S. and in the United Nations," said Father John F. Cronin, S.S., assistant director of the U.S. Catholic Conference's Social Action Department.

Dr. John Regier, director of the Division on Christian Life and Mission of the National Council of Churches, called it "a challenge to our nation. . . . Are we going to help people fulfill themselves as people or are we going to make them over in our image?"

It was Father John Courtney Murray, S.J., of Woodstock College in Maryland, who called the encyclical "the Church's definitive answer to Marxism."

The major question facing the world, he said, is "what sort of humanism will be called upon to organize the world?"
