

Senior Gayl Talbert learns how to operate the library's microfilm machine, which constitutes part of the new demonstration library program at RHS.

RHS Given Special Funds For Demonstration Library

Roxboro High is one of sixteen North Carolina schools participating in a demonstration library program this year, with a collection of audio-visual materials valued at $14,000.

Dr. Charles F. Carroll, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, stated in a letter to Superintendent of Person County Schools, Walter Rogers, "You and the Roxboro High School staff are to be congratulated on the development of a center to which administrators, teachers, librarians, school board members, and civic leaders may come to observe an exemplary school library program."

In order to participate in this program, RHS had to submit an application to the Department of Public Instruction which reviewed and approved it in that RHS had met the required standards.

Funds that were allocated to the RHS Demonstration Library Project were used to purchase a number of needed audio-visual materials. They included filmstrips, tapes, art prints, maps, 8mm film and microfilm, and transparencies.

In addition to these items, a great number of books relating to all subject areas have been added to the library shelves.

Comments from RHS students include: "RHS is indeed fortunate to be able to participate in such a program. I believe the student body will profit a great deal if it uses this addition to the fullest capacity."—Ann Clay.

"The audio-visual department should be a great asset once it has been fully developed. I envy the future students who will really benefit from the library because it will constantly grow and get better."—Larry Forrest.

Herd In the Halls

Economics teacher Royce Gillis warning his students not to buy Bunny Bread because all the bunnies have got the louse or something. . . . The sound of music from Mrs. Crumpton's typing classes. . . . Senior Jimi Slaughter spinning a $40 globe in Mrs. Perkins' room to pinpoint the location of his home when he "grows up," only to be told that he wouldn't grow up unless he returned to his seat. . . . Mr. Earl Johnson sitting on a radiator during second period D.E. class croaking like a frog. . . . After a projector explosion in English, senior Bennie Tillet commenting, "It sure did sound mean." . . . Dorsey Gillis serenading his fellow homeroom students with medleys each morning. . . . Bewildered parents at Open House try to go up the down staircases. . . . After a heavily fought round with the Law of Sines, advanced math student Pat Redford confessing to Mrs. Hester that he had just considered becoming a preacher, with Julie Wood adding, "Learn how to fix the books and you can take money out of the offering."

RHS Report

Rotary to Sponsor Four-Way Test

Is it the truth? Is it fair to all concerned? Will it build good will and friendship? Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

These are the questions set forth in the Four-Way Test devised by the Rotary International to give the business world a code of ethics by which to abide.

The questions are also the topic of speeches now being prepared by the RHS public speaking students, who are working in cooperation with the Roxboro Rotary Club in its attempt to present these basic principles to the public.

Dr. John H. Freeman, parapsychologist from Duke University and co-worker with Dr. J. B. Rhine, world renowned researcher in the field of ESP, was the guest speaker at the science club meeting last Thursday afternoon.

Dr. Freeman's topic of discussion centered around the major branches of parapsychology and related experiences of people which were explainable only on the basis of ESP.

Students wishing to participate in the English Literature program offered by the American Institute for Foreign Study may do so by making arrangements with Mrs. Pat Gilliland.

A fee of $775 includes the costs of a round trip ticket to Europe, chaperone service, four weeks at summer school, and ten days of sightseeing in London and Paris.

RHS Seeks Accreditation

RHS is presently seeking accreditation from the State Department of Public Instruction and the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The Southern Association, which is comprised of 11 states, is one of six regional accrediting agencies which sets standards by which its members must adhere.

RHS must first obtain accreditation from the state before she will be considered for membership in the Southern Association.

Importance to RHS

The purpose of belonging to such a program, as disclosed in a publication of the Southern Association, is to provide "a beneficial experience for all participants in helping them to clarify purposes, identify problems, recognize strengths and weaknesses, and coordinate efforts in strengthening the entire school program."

Elements to be evaluated in this self-study include:

- (1) the philosophy of the school staff
- (2) the objectives of the school
- (3) the alertness of the school administration
- (4) the vitality of the curriculum
- (5) the competence of personnel

JR.-SR. TEST SCHEDULE

Dec. 2—SAT & Achievement Tests at RHS

Jan. 13—SAT & Achievement Tests at Durham

Feb. 24—National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test

Attention Seniors! Don't forget to turn in your college applications!!!

To Charlotte Carrousel

. . . And the Beat Goes On and On

Members of the Roxboro High School Band will spend their Thanksgiving holiday tomorrow marching in the five-mile-long Charlotte Carrousel.

The band, directed by Mike Cannon, will be one of thirty other bands from the Carolinas, Virginia, and Pennsylvania participating in the parade, the largest non-commercial Thanksgiving parade in the nation.

The ninety-two-member ensemble will perform before one-half million people under the

(6) the sufficiency of equipment and materials

(7) the adequacy of building and grounds

Committees at Work

The Steering Committee, chaired by Miss Mary Alice Elliott, is in over-all command of the project. Other major branches are the Committee on Philosophy and Objectives and the Committee on School and Community.

Twenty-three subject area committees have been formed, with each RHS teacher being a member of at least two.

Each subject area committee must complete a scope and sequence, a complete outline of subject matter and when it is taught, for each subject in the RHS curriculum which will later be sent to the state department for evaluation.

Classrooms To Be Visited

Committees from the state and the Southern Association will be visiting RHS periodically for the remainder of the year. Members of these committees will be attending classes and asking random questions of students concerning the improvement of the RHS curriculum.

Student Council President Mike Slaughter has commented, "It seems only fitting that along with our beautiful building and wonderful facilities comes accreditation."

"If RHS is accredited it certainly will give future graduates a better opportunity for college selection."

These drummers will march with the rest of the RHS Band tomorrow in the Charlotte Carrousel, the nation's largest non-commercial Thanksgiving parade.

leadership of Drum Major Cal Berryhill. Plans are underway for a national color television hook-up next year.

In order to enter competition in the parade, a band must have a float and a sponsor. The RHS band will not enter competition.

"The band brought back the Honor Band Trophy last year and we hope to do it again this year," states Mr. Cannon.

Two days later, on November 25, the band will play in the annual Roxboro Christmas parade.

Majorettes that have accompanied the band this year are Vickie Denny, Ruth Bryant, Celeste Montague, and Karen Dean. These majorettes, advised by Mrs. Patsy Perkins, have plans for new uniforms in the near future.

This year's band officers are as follows: President, Cal Berryhill; Vice-President, Don Shotwell; Secretary-Treasurer, Claudia Berryhill; Librarians, Janie Nichols, Becky Gentry, Cindy Woody; and Reporter, Vickie Denny.

A women's organization from Ca-Vel has recently donated American, state, and school flags to the band to use in Roxboro High's first color guard. When not in use by the band, these flags will hang in the gym for use at assemblies and ball games.

The color guard will also display two M-1 rifles.

History repeats itself each year about this time as Miss Elliott's U. S. History students turn in their Freedom Foundation projects. Pictured here are Texie Penry and Bobbi Brooks with their project entitled "The Cradle of Freedom."