FRENCH DEPARTMENT

French Department Evaluates Language Laboratory

Recently the department received a new language laboratory. This language laboratory, sometimes called an electronic class room is a teaching tool for attaining the goals of language learning. Its function is to give students the opportunity to practice what they have learned through drills and to give them an opportunity to hear the language spoken by native Frenchmen from various regions thereby, improving the students' ability for mastery of the language.

Some advantages of the laboratory are as follows: All students in a class may participate in learning speaking activities at the same time, which is beneficial to the individual as well as the groups. They may receive instruction privately through the use of headphones and not have mistakes heard by other students. Pupils may receive the benefit of pattern drills for learning the language, and may become acquainted with the culture of the people whose language they are learning through songs, poems, dialogues, and stories. With these new additions the department hope to have a very successful year.

The students of the French Department and Faculty are happy to welcome Mrs. Walker to the department.

With these new additions the department hopes to have une annee avantageuse.

Student Council Workshop

Two students represented Person County High School at the Eighth Annual Leadership Training Workshop of the North Carolina Association of Student Councils this summer. They were: Vickie Lawson, vice-president of the Student Council, and William Mials, a homeroom representative. Mrs. S. J. Mials, adviser of the Person County High School Student Council accompanied them.

The Workshop was held August 15-18, at Shaw University, Raleigh.

At the first session the state officers and junior counselors were introduced.

It was at this session also that the group was divided into four smaller groups or councils. Each council was asked to compose song, choose a name, a mascot, a color, and present a skit.

After the group activities some typical problems of student councils were discussed. The one major problem discussed was how to make the student council stand out above the other organizations in the school.

Although it has the name "Workshop," it is not all work. There were two recreational periods each day, consisting of games, dances, and trips.

At the closing session awards and certificates were given to all students for satisfactory participation in the various activities of the workshop.

Next year, the local council plans to send more than two representatives, because it realized that the Workshop can do much in helping to solve council problems at the local level.

On Friday, October 5, 1965, the Person County High School Student Council held its annual Installation Service in the gymnasium. The program featured the installation of Student Council officers and members for the 1965-66 school term.

Mr. W. C. Blackwell, Guidance Counselor here at Person County High School, administered the oath of office. Ray Brown, president, gave "a state of the School message" to the student body soliciting your cooperation. In his address, president Brown emphasized the fact that the student council belongs to the student body. "The Student Council is your organization," he said, "because it includes all of you." "Its purpose" he continued, "is to serve you in a manner that will be beneficial to each of you." Finally, the president said, "the student council is your voice to the administration. It is your voice to the faculty and finally it is a channel through which you may begin discovering and developing those hidden qualities which all prepare you for future years. "He concluded by urging the student body to use the student council and he assured the student body that the officers and members will strive to serve in a manner that would be a great value to all.

Mrs. H. F. Satterfield, founder of the council at Person County High gave the main address. Mrs. Satterfield, who retired from a teaching position here last year, spoke to the student body about her experiences as advisor to the Student Council. "I can not take all the credit for founding the student council," she began, "because the late Mr. G. L. Harper, our former principal brought the idea to me. I did however, organize it, under his instructions in 1947." Mrs. Satterfield listed the purpose of the student council. She also emphasized the fact that the student council is a resource for preparing one for future years. She concluded, "I challenge you, the student body to improve your scholarship." She said this would be one quality along with many others that will be necessary for students to take their place in the great society.

Mr. Knight gave remarks to climax the installation services.

This year, the Student Council is composed of 21 students who have volunteered to represent their homerooms along with the officers: Ray Brown, president; Vickie Lawson, Vice president; Iris Dean Villines, Secretary; Marcella Paylor, Assistant secretary; Yvonne Graves, treasurer; Mary Allen, parliamentarian; Larry Bass, sargeant-at-arms; Arnold Woody, judge of student court; Timothy Warren, clerk of student court.
