Group to Seek Underpass; Local Traffic Improvement

W. W. Holding III, former Wake County Commissioner, has been appointed chairman of a four-man committee to study the elimination of traffic hazards in and around Wake Forest.

Others named by Wake Forest Mayor S. W. Brewer, Jr. are: I. Beverly Lake and Ellis Nassif, Raleigh attorneys who live in Wake Forest and John Wooten, local insurance agent.

Holding said this week that the committee had not yet had a meeting. However he said the work of the committee would specifically include efforts to obtain a railroad underpass on the south end of town and to improve traffic conditions on US 1, USIA and Hwy. 98 in and around Wake Forest.

Following the fatal accident of Mrs. J. R. Wiggins at the Elm St. railroad crossing in October, a petition was presented to the Town Board asking for improvement or elimination of the crossing. At that time Mayor Brewer said he would appoint a committee to study traffic hazards.

At a meeting with town officials in December, railroad officials had agreed on improvements at the Film St. crossing. They agreed to notify train crews that freight cars parked on the side track should be parked so the view from the crossing is not blocked.

It was reported that Joel Winfree, Seaboard Superintendent in Raleigh, promised to erect signs at the crossing designating a minimum 100 ft. parking distance from the crossing.

Otha Evans owner of Evans Lumber Co. who was also present at the meeting agreed that no cars would be parked between the crossing and loading platform for pulpwood shavings.

However the new signs have not been erected and Horace Macon, who represented the petition signers at the meeting, said this week he had notified the Seaboard officials on two occasions, recently, that the train crews were not observing the parking orders.

School Committees Vote To Merge

Members of the Knightdale, Rolesville, and Wendell district school committees met Monday with the Wake Board of Education to decide on the mechanics of merging into the new Vaiden Whitley High School.

They voted 11 to 4 in favor of reducing the three existing five-member district committees to the status of three-man advisory committees and creating a single district committee to administer the new high school and the existing schools.

The district committees also voted the school board they would like to see each existing school district represented equally on the new committee when the three districts are merged.

Following the meeting with district committee members, the Wake school board, in line with their recommendation, voted to merge the three districts under a single district committee.

General statute limits the size of district committees to five members, but the school board voted to seek local legislation authorizing a six to nine-member district committee so that Knightdale, Rolesville, and Wendell may be equally represented.

Meanwhile, the school board voted to appoint a five-member committee to one member from Wendell to serve a three-year term; two from Rolesville, one for a two-year term and another for a one-year term; and two from Knightdale, one for two years and the other for one year.

MRS. LEE TO HEAD MOTHERS' MARCH

The National Foundation March of Dimes fights Birth Defects with Research, Medical Care and Professional Education Programs.

The Mothers March in Rolesville will also be held January 26.

In Youngsville the March is Thursday, January 21.

The objective of the March of Dimes is to find the causes, better treatment for, and prevention of birth defects. Public health officials estimate that 7,000 birth defect babies will be born in North Carolina, alone, in 1965. You will recall that polo in its peak year only attacked 2,516 of our citizens;

yet the people of this state were so outraged by the pain and waste of human lives that, through the March of Dimes, they helped speed the development of vaccines to prevent polio.

Despite the greater problems presented by hundreds of different types of defects, experienced medical and scientific authorities believe that a concerted effort as persistent as the program that triumphed over polio can achieve similar success in treatment, and eventually, prevention of birth defects.

Tee Topics

John Ezzelle Gets Hole-In-One

The big news on the golf course during the week was a hole-in-one registered Saturday by John Ezzelle. He was playing with a group consisting of C. R. Faircloth, M. P. Bridge, R. C. Dickerson and R. A. Allen of Raleigh. John was using an eight iron on the 120 yard ninth hole when he dropped his ace. This was the first hole-in-one for John.

Pro Otis Briggs along with members S. W. Brewer, Tommy Byrne, Sr., Tommy Byrne, Jr., Leon Walters, Ludwell Barham, Earl Hart and Devey Wiggins participated in the East Carolina Pro-Am held Monday January 4, 1965 at the Goldeboro Country Club. Otis tied for second place in the Pro-Portion of this event. Ludwell Barham was on a team which placed second in the Pro-Am Division and the team which Tommy Byrne, Jr. was tied for third place in the Pro-Am section. This was worth valuable prizes for these two great golfers.

While playing with a man that has a hole in one is something of an honor another of the above group had something to be justly proud of. Ray Faircloth eagled the par five eighth hole. This is quite an accomplishment the way the wind has been blowing on that hill for the past few weeks.

Another group took advantage of the beautiful golf weather during the week as the ladies golf club moved into high gear once again. Six ladies turned out for ladies day Wednesday and although no scores were available it was learned that Marie Briggs and Fate Winkelmann tied for low putts with 14. Marie lost as usual when a flip of the coin decided the winner.

Pictured are Sammy and Dickie Brewer, sons of Mayor S. W. Brewer. These two boys show great enthusiasm on the golf course as is evidenced by their records in junior tournaments held thru-out the area. Sammy is former Wake County Junior champion having taken this honor year before last at the tournament held at the Raleigh Golf Association Course in Raleigh. Dickie has shown up good in all the junior tournaments in which he has played. The golf in this family does not stop here. Their father is quite a golfer in his own right having placed very high in all the club tournaments as well as tournaments at other courses. Mother Jenny is one of our better Lady Golfers and can be spotted on the golf course most any time during the week when the weather is right. Her achievements include women's club champion during the year 1963. There is still another one coming along called Jenky and I'm sure we will be hearing from her before too many years pass.
