FIFTEEN GIRLS COMPETE FOR QUEEN

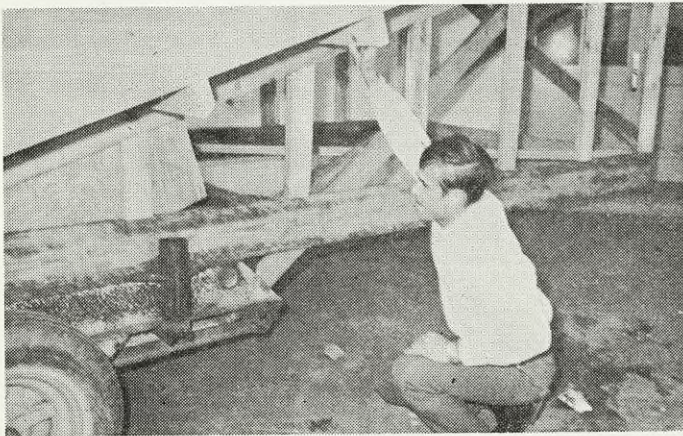

Fifteen Forsyth Tech girls were nominated to compete for the main seat on the Christmas float. The Christmas Queen Contest is a student government project held to raise money to build a float to be presented in the Winston-Salem Christmas parade.

Votes were made with dimes. The girl who raised the most money was selected queen. The girls who raised the next two largest amounts will also ride on the float.

Curriculum Representatives were: Executive Secretarial — Jessie McMillan, Willie Kam Mumford, and Pat Brewer; Practical Nursing — Ginger Miller, Cindy McGlammery, Judie Cook, and Marie Reynolds. Belinda Craver represented Auto Mechanics; Brenda Flynn — T.V. and Electronics, and Gwen James — Printing Management. Doris Adams represented Graphic Arts; Shelby Hutchens, Horticulture; and Linda Settlemyre, Building Trades and Drafting. Representing Business Administration were Angela Venable and Mary Pegram.

Forsyth Tech students volunteer spare time to construct the Christmas Float to be presented in the Winston-Salem parade Saturday, November 30.

Students Produce Second Float

Approximately four weeks ago the Student Council of Forsyth Technical Institute decided to build a float for this year's Winston-Salem Christmas parade. Mike Crews was placed in charge of the Christmas project. The float is being built by students of FTI in their spare time.

The float will measure 30 feet by 10 feet with a huge Moravian star in the middle. The star will revolve on a pivot run by a small motor.

The Christmas Queen of FTI will be seated in the center of the Moravian star. First and second runners-up will be seated on the front of the float.

The float will have a red background of aluminum covered with hundreds of white Poinsettias. On two sides of the float, letters in white with green border will proclaim "Christmas Greetings." The letters FTI will be on the back of the float in green. The float will be pulled instead of self-propelled.

Graduation Nears For Practical Nurses
