FINE PAPER AND FILM GROUP

VOL. XXII, No. 2

SECOND QUARTER, 1976

FILM PLANT WINS BEST IN OLIN

Film Division's cellophane plant at Pisgah Forest was judged to have the best accident prevention program in all of Olin Corporation.

Results of the second annual competition between Olin's four groups were announced June 22 during the Senior Management meeting at Stamford. Congratulations to all plant employees were extended by John D. Link, Film Division's vice president and general manager, following telephone notification of the "Best in Olin" award.

"I would like to extend my personal congratulations to all employees who made the selection of the Pisgah Forest film plant possible," Link said.

"You should all be extremely proud to receive this recognition from our chief executive office. Well done!"

Film Division's Pisgah Forest plant; and Thomas E. Payne, Film's Pisgah Forest safety supervisor. Standing are James H. McIlwain, Film maintenance superintendent; Larry H. Staples, vice president and general manager, Ecusta Paper Division; Frank J. McGibboney, Ecusta's director of production; Dewey Sizemore, James E. Reese, Jr., and Betty Harrison, Local 1971 UPI representatives on the Company-Union safety committee, of which Reese is chairman; and Fletcher Roberts, group director of safety and loss prevention.

EMPLOYEES HAVE MAJOR ROLES IN AREA CELEBRATION OF NATION'S BICENTENNIAL Service Photos Begin This Issue

As others have done throughout the company, employees of the Fine Paper and Film Group looked far ahead to this July 4 weekend, in grateful observance of this country's birthday. This second quarter issue is deliberately of a strong Bicentennial influence, especially as shown through employees' service photos, as a way of augmenting the celebration.

High light of the Pisgah Forest activities is the annual Fourth of July employees' picnic at Camp Harry H. Straus, this year the 35th time for employees to gather at the popular recreation area for races, relays, baby parade, sports tournaments, musical entertainment and the like. A special feature of plans for this year was the drawing
