POETIC SLOGAN TAKES TOP PRIZE

Bob Green's poem challenging all to a safe '76 was the $100 winner in the Bicentennial safety contest conducted in August by Ecusta's Quality Control Department. Second place prize of $50 was won by Tom Helms.

Green's poem, "Safety '76," follows:

*Let's think safety first in seventy-six
And try to avoid breaks, scratches, and nicks.
The best defense against getting hurt
Is to keep your body healthy and your mind alert.
Olin can be the safest mill around
If common sense and good judgment abound.
So . . . let's all pitch in and do our part,
And towards a safe seventy-six we'll have a great start.*

Helms's poster shows a bewildered Minuteman confronting dark glasses on the enemy as his companion warns, "Remember — don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes."

The poster's slogan:

*If old patriot folk
Of their safety had joked
Our liberty might have been broked.*

Paulette Hooper Gasperson admires posters displayed in Ecusta's Quality Control safety contest.

SPECIALTY SERVICES GROUP IS FORMED

Olin Corporation has established a new Specialty Services Group to consist of certain operations that were formerly part of other Olin operating groups.

Assigned to the new group are Olin's construction fastening systems companies including Ramset Division operations in the U. S., Canada, Mexico, Asia and Australia, and Societe de Prospection et D Inventions Techniques, based in France and operating throughout Europe: Nilo Barge Line, Inc., St. Louis, operating on U. S. inland waterways and the Gulf of Mexico, and Olin Water Services, a nationwide water treatment company based in Kansas City, Kan.

Consolidated worldwide sales of these companies total more than $80-million a year, including sales to other Olin groups.

Separating these essentially service-oriented businesses from the Winchester and Chemicals groups is intended to provide the companies in the new group with more direct management attention and to help them develop their potential in their own fields more effectively.
