

We hear that Kitty Collins and Rachel Hunter are very anxious to know when we play Oxford. What is the big attraction, girls?

Frances Foushee, we have been hearing tales about you, and a certain Semora boy. Have you stolen Jack Pointer's heart?

Bill Clay has been heard making dates with Mildred Russell. Watch out, Vic.

Instead of the well known triangle we have a four-sided figure. Louise Dickens was seen at the Yanceyville game with Lewis Adams; Charles Gates was seen taking Margaret Markham to a dance. Boy, do we have fun?

Charles Reade's lanky legs were seen going in the direction of a certain house on the Semora road. Slacky, would it have been Sarah Winstead's? Just one more thing before we let you go: Charles Reade, can you spell "smooch"?

We hear that our little freshman girls are starting young. But it seems that Margaret Mills and Betty Kane have got their eyes on the same boy. Watch out, Elmo Mitchell, they're on your trail.

Flash: Four girls boycotted or supposedly boycotted several boys during the holidays because certain parties left town and the poor boys had nowhere to go. The unfortunate boys were "Donnie, the Snail," "Red Bar" Hair, "Cow," and "Chackey."

Overheard in the library: Bitty: "I have a swell technique when it comes to girls." Evelyn: "You're telling me!"

Also Christmas holiday flash: Rachel Hunter took a liking to "Boots" that aren't made of leather.

When A Man Is Really Educated

He will cultivate his manners as well as his brains.

He will not think that his diploma is his passport to success.

He will appreciate the higher, finer things.

He will not be a snob: he will be kind to and considerate of others, rich or poor.

He will know the value of spare time for self-improvement.

He will be willing to take advice of the more experienced.

He will control himself under provocation.

He will not always be thinking of self.

He will know that it is more important to make a life than to make a living.

JOKES

A tragedy in three acts:
Act I—Algy met a bear.
Act II—The bear was Bulgy.
Act III—The bulge was Algy.

The difference between "tomah-toes" and "tomatoes" is the difference between higher culture and agriculture.

1st tramp—"I haven't had a crust to gnaw for two weeks."
2nd tramp—"Well, what you don't gnaw won't hurt you."

A certain gentleman from the city went to visit a friend in the country, and during the night he woke up, and being hot, he drank a glass of water which was on a table by his bed.

Next morning, he complimented his host for being considerate enough to put a glass of water on the table. But, said his host, that was Sonny's glass of tadpoles.

"Isaac! Isaac! There's a burglar under the bed, I can hear him snoring."

Isaac: "Let him alone, honey, and in the morning we'll charge him for a night's lodging."

Mrs. A. F. Nichols and Mr. J. W. Gaddy, Jr., attended the funeral of Mrs. Trotter, the mother of Mrs. Mary Long, in Reidsville, Monday.

Mr. Gaddy Speaks To Student Body

self-pity is the most dangerous. Don't have self-pity or you will be a complete failure. When a man begins to feel sorry for himself, he loses the sympathy of the whole world. You are never really defeated until you admit that you are. We should strive for what we achieve, and spend less hours trying to get something for nothing.

It is the right kind of self-pride to feel that you can be as clean, as honest, as polite, as much of a gentleman, or as much of a lady as anyone. Always feel that you have the ability to do worthwhile things. There is nothing as cheap as being polite. No investment that can pay such enormous dividends as being polite to everyone. Let it be said that the pupils of our school are polite.

We should all remember that there is no satisfaction quite so great as knowing you have done what you started out to do.

Mr. Gaddy closed his talk by giving us one of Edwin Markham's poems.

"Defeat may serve as well as victory To shake the soul and let the glory out.

When the great oak is straining in the wind,
The boughs drink in the new beauty, and the trunk

Sends down a deeper root on the windward side.

Only the soul that knows the mighty grief

Can know the mighty rapture.
Sorrows come

To stretch out spaces in the heart for joy."

Advice To Girls

Don't go out with—

Track men—they're too fast.

Football men—they tackle anything.

Swimmers—they're all wet.

Tennis players—they're like all good rackets, and play too many love games.

Baseball players—they hit and run.

Basketball players—they're always taking time outs and getting "out of bounds."
