MISS BONNER DEAD.

Hattie A. Bonner, a former student of Livingstone College, departed this life at her home in New York City on the 9th inst. She was compelled to leave school last term on account of ill health but expressed a desire to return in the fall of 1895 to finish her normal course. But God took her to be at rest with him in a mansion prepared for the faithful. She was a Christian, loved by all who knew her. We, who are sorry of her death can only hope to meet her in heaven.

MARRIAGE FREE.

A daily newspaper in Washington has gone into the matrimonial business of encouraging people to get married by supplying them with a clergyman and all the other necessary things for properly doubling up. Those who have been living together without getting married are especially invited to step up and have their unions legalized. We are gratified to note that a large per cent. of those who are taking advantage of the offer are Afro-Americans.

Everybody who can afford to get married ought to do it. It is cheaper and safer in the long run to get married than to live single. And then the single existence is pronouncedly unnatural. Most of those who undertake to maintain such an existence slip up in the long run. They find the spirit willing but the flesh weak. It stands to reason. Any agency, therefore, which promotes the legal unions of the sexes is to be encouraged and commended. -The Age

A CALL FROM BISHOP C. C. PETTEY.

To the Ministers and Sunday-school Superintendents.

At the recent session of the Board of Bishops it was thought best to have all our literature published in the Variok Memorial building, Charlotte, N. C. In this way one department can greatly help the other and the cost of each would be much less as one good printer can superintend all of our work and one general office manage the publishing department which would be a great saving for the connection. But in order to do this THE STAR must be moved from Salisbury to Charlotte at considerable expense and some new material is needed to complete the outfit. Hence I call upon all the ministers and Sunday-school superintendents of my district to send one dollar to Rev. G. W. Clinton, Charlotte, N. C., and take THE STAR for one year. Let no minister or superintendent say I am too poor. I believe every one can find one dollar for this worthy cause if they try. Do this and help both yourself and your connection. I would further advise that every man write plainly his own address and send his own money direct to the editor in a registered letter and not by postoffice order. And brethren you that owe THE STAR please be manly and settle up at once. THE STAR is in need of the money and it is your duty to help us out by subscribing at once and paying of back dues.

ALL FREE.

Those who have used Dr. King's New Discovery know its value, and those who have not, have now the opportunity to try it free. Call on the advertiser Druggist and get a Trial Bottle, Free. Send your name and address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a sample box of Dr. King's New Life Pills, Free, as well as a copy of Guide to Health and Household Instructor, Free. All of which is guaranteed to do you good and cost you nothing. Theo. F. Klutz, Drug Store.

A CALL TO MINISTERS.

Every minister and superintendent of Sunday-schools in my district is called upon to raise one dollar or more and send to Rev. G. W. Clinton, A. M., editor of the connectional paper. The bishops have ordered the paper removed from Salisbury to Charlotte and the whole church should help. Rev. G. W. Clinton has no right to do more than any other as regards the moving of THE STAR and let us see to it. Address Rev. Clinton at 410 N. Myers street, Charlotte, N. C. E. G. O'CONNOR.

BISHOP JONES' GREAT BOOK

The Sermons and Addresses of the late Bishop Singleton T. Jones, D. D., are published and ready for sale. Price, One Dollar. No such book of its size and character can be bought anywhere at that price. It is cheap, but money is scarce, and we desire to accommodate the price to all classes. The book is cloth bound, containing 332 pages, having a picture and biography of the Bishop, 17 full sermons, 54 skeleton sermons, 6 ringing speeches and "Golden Tributes" from leading churches, ministers and editors concerning the bishop. It speaks with jewels of wisdom and transcendent argumentative blows which come thick and fast as cartridges from a Gatling gun. To read it is to catch the fire humor and sarcasm of this brilliant thinker, ready debater and fiery writer, and be caught up in the chariot of his eloquence. Books for sale by REV. J. W. SMITH, Carlele, Pa.

WHO WILL CARE?

Who will care if I slight the overland-ovary seam of the work? I begin so long ago! There is other work of which I dream. Thus setting the needle so and so. Where is the harm? If for once I forget to do and say I find way and find word words with me? I see a fair stranger passing my way. And my own can wait, and keep back the tears. Who need care? If now and then I am good to me! My tongue never shrinks the daily strain. To wring with self and trying to gain. All things to all, when I have nothing to gain. One will care. And grieving, will count each stitch I make. So I never can have an earned "well done!" There I can forgive, I follow and will. I had done my best with the one-by-one. One sees him. Many once forgetting to say and to do. For he feels the ache that began that hour, in the heart I loved: I wish I knew! What other devotion had healing power. One does care. And I shall care for me, as you by I said. Whether they say it, or whether I. That by selfishness I ever wanted. This I can pardon. I wonder why? Miss A. - Comment on "Chosen Interior." THE VIRTUE OF KINDNESS.

THE VIRTUE OF KINDNESS.

Many Reasons Why We Should Cultivate This Important Christian Virtue. More souls are won to Christ through words and acts of kindness than in any other way. It is strange that Christians seem and women are so slow in learning this fact. Any man acquainted with himself knows that kind words and kind acts will have ten times more influence over him than such words and such acts. The Bible is full of the doctrine of kindness: If it had not been for the kindness of our Father in Heaven not one of us would be saved; and if that kindness is not continued to the end, we shall perish. How can a man with the spirit of Christ dwelling in him be other than kind, especially when he knows that his eternal destiny in large measure depends upon the kindness of God? Men are not driven from wrong to right, but they may be led. As a rule, those who are the hardest to drive themselves, are most inclined to drive others mad. Mark that when they get down on a man they never get up. No matter how hard the man that is down may struggle to get up, they will hold him down if they can, and pursue him to the bitter end. How can such a man, with such a spirit, offer the Lord's prayer? "Forgive us as we forgive others." Have they ever read the words of Jesus: "If ye forgive not men their trespasses neither will your Father which is in Heaven forgive you your trespasses?" The spirit of forgiveness was breathed into the Gospel when Jesus hung on the cross bleeding and dying. "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." Such matchless kindness at such a time ought to break our hearts. "If a brother be provoked in a flesh, ye which are spiritual restore such an one in the spirit of meekness." Oh, that cruel and unchristlike spirit that, because a brother has stumbled, and may be fallen, will prompt a man to hold him down if he can. A lawyer visited a hospital, and sat down by a cot and talked kindly to a poor maimed veteran. The man drew the bedclothes over his face and wept as if his heart would break. When he could speak he said: "You are the first man that has spoken a kind word to me, and I can't stand it." Men may talk and talk as they please, but observation and experience will teach any man of common sense that the nearest and most direct road to the human heart is kindness. Blessed is the man that has learned to be firm and kind - firm for the right, and kind to the erring. Turning to the Scriptures we read words like these: "Be kind one toward another." "God is slow to anger, and of great kindness." "Thy loving-kindness is better than life." "Add to your faith brotherly kindness." "Be ye as brothers, be pitiful, be courteous." "Be kindly affectioned one to another." The Scriptures abound with lessons on the doctrine of kindness, and we do well to study these lessons and practice them in our lives. - Bishop J. Weaver, D. D., in Religious Telescope.

GOD'S CALL.

By May be secured by the Rev. South. Bible Soc. It will come to God's servants at some time with Close Disturbance. There is a band of music moving about the streets of the city, and it is impossible to notice in what direction the melody and falls it comes to you. Now you hear it, and now you hear it not. A waft of wind has caught it. A line of buildings intervenes. Or, possibly, the musicians themselves have ceased from their strong blasts, and are moving through their gutter and falling in the way. It is in with the ether and more heavenly music; the music of God's voice inviting us. The great authentic voice comes to us through this and that medium, even as the air at large is made to deliver itself melodiously through the several instruments of the band; but, for various reasons, some innocent and some not, that one direct message of our life finds its way very rarely and unconsciously. Various opportunities, however, we have here, and from which we can not wholly escape, interrupt their continuity. Possibly an occasional miserable gust from the swirling billows of the universe pains this way, to hinder our hearing. And possibly, God himself, in his mercy, has sent us a sign, the sign of the cross, to remind us of the great voice. All this is incidental to a life on earth. But by and by, the old melody will come back. In some way, and in some manner, in some moment of prayer and meditation, in some stillness of heart, in some praying assembly of our people, or in some other way, we shall have the voice of the Father, and we shall be invited to the great voice. All this is incidental to a life on earth. But by and by, the old melody will come back. In some way, and in some manner, in some moment of prayer and meditation, in some stillness of heart, in some praying assembly of our people, or in some other way, we shall have the voice of the Father, and we shall be invited to the great voice.
