During the discussion of the report on Education Bishop Pettey covered himself with glory by his broad and masterly treatment of it, discussing it in its different aspects and phases, showing that we have need of industrial as well as higher education, but that either ought not to be advocated to the exclusion of the other.

The two events on Saturday that ttracted the most interest were the making of the third presiding elder district, the election of Rev. S. S. Wales to preside over it, and the election of Rev. Mrs. Mary J. Small to elders' orders. After a spirited contest she won.
