

TO MANAGE ICE FACTORY.

Mr. H. E. Cartland Will Become Manager of the New Industry—Sells Business in Tennessee.

Concerning Mr. H. E. Cartland, formerly a citizen of this section, who is to manage the new ice factory and cold storage plant to be erected here, the weekly paper of Athens, Tenn., says:

An important event in the business circles of Athens occurred this week when Mr. H. E. Cartland, secretary and treasurer of the Athens Table and Manufacturing Company sold his stock in the plant and resigning his office was succeeded by Mr. John W. Bayless, of the Bayless Hardware Company.

This big concern, now capitalized at $50,000, was established in 1907 with a capital stock of $15,000 and three years ago when Mr. Cartland bought the interest of W. Prather, the plant's pay roll was confined to the modest number of about a half dozen men. It now has on the pay roll more than 100 men aggregating semi-monthly payments of a little less than $2,000. Under Mr. Cartland's careful, energetic and industrious management the goods of this factory go into almost every state of the union, the trade being particularly good in the middle west and south.

The stockholders are fortunate in securing as Mr. Cartland's successor, Mr. Bayless. He was the leading spirit in the original founding of this industry and is one of the best known and most successful business men of McMinn county.

Mr. Cartland's only object in selling his stock and retiring from the Athens Table and Manufacturing Company was an offer from his old home, Lexington, N. C., of a business which will pay better, that of an ice and cold storage plant which he will assist in establishing and of which he will be manager.

Mr. H. E. Cartland and his excellent wife settled in Athens about ten years ago, and the removal of the family will be a loss much regretted by our entire community. They are model citizens and neighbors from every standpoint. They have each been liberal contributors to the moral, educational and social uplift of the community, and it is not too much to say, perhaps that no man in recent years has been of more material help to the laboring people and to land owners than Mr. Cartland. Until he took an interest in the Athens Table and Manufacturing Company he had been engaged in logging and lumbering in which industry he spent among the people of this section not less than three quarters of a million dollars.

Mr. Cartland will remain here until he can dispose of his property, consisting in part of his handsome residence on Madison avenue, and other interests.

Taking Fine Guns from Fort Caswell.

Solicitor N. A. Sinclair told us this morning that he recently made a visit to Fort Caswell, below Wilmington, and while there he noticed that eight splendid, modern steel mortars weighing 150 tons each, were being dismantled and made ready for shipment. On inquiry he learned that they were to be taken to a fort on the Massachusetts coast, and that some old-time, cast iron mortars were to be brought from that fort to replace the modern ones taken from Fort Caswell. This, his informant said, was brought about through the influence of the Massachusetts Congressmen and Senators, and further, that the cost of dismantling and transportation would be almost as much as the fine mortars to be transported.

Would it not be advisable for our North Carolina senators and congressmen to look into this matter, and stop the robbing of our North Carolina fort? Surely Fort Caswell is an important military stronghold, and North Carolina, being a sovereign state, is entitled to the same consideration as Massachusetts.—Fayetteville Observer.

Hamlet's Happy Hooligan Man Begins Sentence.

Mr. J. R. Henderson, of Hamlet, who was convicted of having in his possession whiskey, at the late term of court, and was fined $100, was yesterday in the form of a happy hooligan man, came to town on Monday and informed the sheriff that he had arranged for the $1,000 forfeited bond and $600 cost in the two cases, and was ready to go to jail to serve out his eight months sentence. He is now building two large brick stores in Hamlet and is said to have many thousands in the banks around. We presume the next move on the board will be to have a petition for pardon. Thousands of dollars made violating the law, all the costs paid by this money. The judge said all white-key blind tiger costs looked alike to him, but we think—without any reflection—that if this man had been a poor man or a negro, he would have been spading the dirt on the Columbus county roads for two years. What extenuating circumstances in this case that called for anything less than the extreme penalty, we are unable to see.

Our Law-abiding Citizens Will Tire of Trying to Enforce the Law.

Our law-abiding citizens will tire of trying to enforce the law and with such difficulty convict such big criminals and then have them get off so light.—Rockingham Post.

Death of Mrs. Kitchin.

Mrs. M. A. Kitchin, mother of Gov. Kitchin, died Tuesday of last week at her home near Scotland Neck. Paralysis was the cause of her death. Mrs. Kitchin was 63 years old. She was the daughter of William Walton and Annie Marie Aiston Arrington. She married the late W. H. Kitchin January 4, 1854. He died February 2, 1901. Eleven children, nine sons and two daughters, survive, and all were at her bedside when the final summons came. The oldest sons are the governor, Congressman Claude Kitchin and Mr. A. P. Kitchin, the latter a member of the general assembly.

A Check Flasher Gets in His Work.

A rather handsome, tall, smooth-faced stranger, giving his name as D. A. Thomas, did some clever work in this city Saturday as a check flasher. He first bought a house and lot on Southside from Mr. Fred Shore, giving him a check for $2,000 on a bank in Oklahoma. He then went to Jones Brothers furniture dealers and bought $111 worth of furniture for his home. He said he wanted to pay all but $50 and gave Mr. Jones a check for $100 and Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. in Asheville. It was signed by the Taylor-Norman Lumber Company with J. A. Taylor as president. He claimed that he was traveling for this company and buying lumber. He had a card with the officers of the company and his name was among them. Mr. Jones gave him a check for $50 and $5.50 in cash in change and he bought a hat from Boyles Brothers to get the check cashed.

He bought $152.50 worth of furniture from Crim-Cantrell, gave them a check for $100 on the German Bank in Louisville, received $47.50 in change and made a contract to pay the other in two monthly installments.

He bought $31.15 worth of office furnishings from Chas. E. Pless, gave him a check for $50 and received $18.85 in change. In each case Thomas bought his stuff after the bank closed Saturday afternoon. Monday morning the banks on which the checks were drawn were communicated with and in each instance the reply came back that they had never had such accounts.

Thomas left his furniture at the stores to be delivered later, but he is probably at some distant place enjoying the $104.85 he carried away with him.—Union Republican.

Right to Compete for Winston Freight Allowed.

Washington, dispatch, Permission was given to the Atlantic Coast Line, the Norfolk and Western and the Winston-Salem Southbound railways by the Interstate Commerce Commission to meet the competition of the Southern railway in freight rates from and to points on the Winston-Salem road. The commission granted the applications of the lines to exact a lower charge for a longer than for a shorter haul in the same direction. It affects the rates from points in eastern North Carolina to all other states and territories and the Dominion of Canada.

Commenting on this the Union Republican says: This is the object for which the Southbound railway and its connections have been aiming at and that is to give the south another competing line of railroad through the south, from the north and west with the Southern. Through trains from Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and other points to Charleston, S. C., and thence farther south is now a possibility and a probability. All hail to the Southbound and its far reaching connections.

Buy it now. Now is the time to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the summer is over. This remedy has no superior. For sale by all dealers.

The Georgia legislature adjourned last week after being in session fifty days. The session was marked by nothing of importance. The Georgia solons failed to follow the good example of the North Carolina legislature in passing an anti-beer bill, and a bill to prohibit the sale of the stuff failed of passage by a large majority.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

A fire which threatened to do considerable damage occurred in Davidson county near the junction of the North and South rivers last Friday afternoon. It originated from the traction engine of J. T. Hall and had burned over about fifteen acres of land before it could be checked.—Salisbury Watchman.

Lightning Makes It Lively in Cabarrus.

There was a considerable thunderstorm in No. 7 township Monday afternoon about 5 o'clock, which was accompanied by a heavy wind. Lightning struck in at least four places and considerable damage was done.

A strawstack on the place of Mr. Berry Lippe was ignited and destroyed. A stack in rear of Mr. Tom Hartman's barn was also struck and almost destroyed. Mr. Hartman's barn nearby would have been ignited and burned up.

Mr. Albert Peninger had one or two hogs in a pen killed by lightning. Mr. M. L. Peninger's residence was also struck. A hole was knocked in the roof, the glass in four windows knocked out and also part of the side of the house in the upper floor. One of his daughters was stunned, but not seriously.

Trees were blown down and much damage done to the telephone wires. A large tree at Mr. J. H. Eddy's was blown down.—Concord Tribune.

Alligator Nest on Carolina Beach.

Dismissing at the outset any guesses upon Col. Wade Harris' Mendenhall Medal, the Star chronicles here the particulars of a most interesting find made yesterday at Carolina Beach by Mr. John N. Bennett and Constable W. B. Savage, of this city. While enjoying an outing in what is known as the "Big Pond," in the Sound, above Mr. H. A. Kure's place, they came upon an alligator's nest from which they took 42 alligator eggs in the process of hatching. Mr. Bennett brought some of the eggs to the city and last night in the Star office in the presence of a number of gentlemen, cracked one of the shells and disgorged from this, slimy formation just inside the shell, a young alligator, fully eight inches in length and exhibiting every sign of life. The alligator lays her eggs in the marshes and covers them with a formation of dirt, mud and sticks where the sun is allowed to hatch the youngsters out, according to the alligatorists in this section.—the woods, and the nest unearthed yesterday contained eggs almost ready for hatching. To the untutored, the breaking of the shell and the production of the young alligator last night was a most interesting spectacle.—Wilmington Star.

Good Roads in Southwest.

But ten years ago, the highest percentage of bad roads—roads of a badness almost impassable—was in the southwest. This is no longer true. From being a bad, good roads have become in the southwest a public question on which all men are united, irrespective of party, and on which some of the smaller counties threaten almost to bankrupt themselves. The bicycle was, perhaps, the first evangelist of the new movement. Then came the motor. In a land of no winter and little rain and almost perpetual sunshine and tremendous distances of the line of the railroad, the motor became almost a daily necessity. The railroads necessarily follow the easiest grades; and easiest grades in the southwest mean the desert region. The ranches, the heavy timber open and upland, like German parks, the noble, the scenic grandeur—all lay more or less back of the beaten highway.

For instance, to go to the Cliff Dwellings of the Jemez by team, takes the better part of a hard day's driving and necessitates rising at four and six. By motor, you can leave at nine, be out in time for lunch at the ranch house, and be back by sundown. The same may be said of the wonderful sulphur springs of northern New Mexico, the game resorts of the White Mountains, Arizona, and the best scenery of the Grand Canyon.

Then came the influence of the tourist; and that clinched the evangelism of good roads as far as the southwest was concerned. Californians suddenly realized that the tourist train yearly left her $10,000,000 to the good. San Joaquin county alone in 1910 issued bonds for nearly $2,000,000 for road improvements; and the whole state of California put the stamp of public approval on a plan to issue $18,000,000 of state bonds. Colorado has just voted $10,000,000 of bonds for the improvements of public highways.

The contagion has spread—not gradually but like wildfire—to Arizona and New Mexico and Colorado and Texas and Wyoming. If France and Italy can attract 300,000 American tourists a year by sunny skies and good roads and old ruins, why not New Mexico and Arizona and Colorado, which have just as sunny skies and higher altitude and clearer, cooler air, with ruins older than anything in Europe or Egypt, according to Archaeology, by 8000 years?—American Review of Reviews.

The Hottest Summer in Forty Years. New York, dispatch: Charts just prepared by the United States Weather Bureau show that this has been the hottest summer on record in the United States and that the great heat waves reported in Paris and Rome are pretty close to the highest records in Europe. While in spots, higher temperatures have been recorded, both here and abroad, the best obtainable world's records show that there have never before since the first days of weather investigation been such large areas and protracted periods noted.

Moreover, the new charts show that the heat waves this year have been playing unheard of pranks, and while it has not been unusually hot in most southern districts, the heat waves have gone further north than ever before, extreme conditions being reported from as far north as Alaska and New Foundland.

So far as the United States is concerned, the available records, covering a period of 40 years, show that the year 1901 only approached the season just passed.

One interesting point is that during the end of June, and in the early part of July, the hottest part of the warm wave, Florida had only 59 degrees above, while Maine had 194 degrees above; western Kansas had 108 and eastern Kansas 116 and Wisconsin 190 degrees, or above. An explanation was sought at the local weather bureau today.

"There is absolutely no real scientific reason that can be advanced," said Forecasters Star. "Astronomers might make guesses, but no reason can be advanced that cannot be pronounced."

35.00 RECIPES FREE—FOR WEAK MEN

Send Name and Address To-Day—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, falling memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drinks, or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and vitality, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failed ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures to stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting, restorative, rebuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4559 Lake Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid receipt in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

Job P. Wyatt Attempts Suicide.

Raleigh dispatch, 12th: Job P. Wyatt, head of the big mercantile firm of Job P. Wyatt, Sons & Co., dealers in farm supplies and machinery, one of the biggest mercantile houses here, attempted to take his own life early this morning by cutting his throat with a razor.

He had been unwell for a week, his troubles being nervous prostration, and in a fit of despondency he inflicted on bed about 4 o'clock and inflamed two deep, long gashes in the left side of his throat. Happily the jugular vein was not cut.

His condition is critical, but the physicians attending him say that, barring the possibility of complications, there is a probability of his recovery. He has not yet sufficiently rallied to make any statement concerning his rash act. He has an interesting family of three sons, all associated with him in business, and one daughter, who is married.

Mr. Wyatt was found in the bath room at 4:30 this morning by his son, Mr. Robert Wyatt. He must have entered the room between 4 and 4:30 o'clock and he was not long there before found by his son. Drs. McGehee, Rogers, Royster and Clarence Judd were summoned and they report Mr. Wyatt's condition as satisfactory. Mr. Wyatt has been in feeble health for some time and had been ill for a week. No other motive than ill health could be ascribed to his act. Possessed of a splendid business and a most lovable family, no man seemed more fortunate than he. For thirty-five years, the period of his business activity in Raleigh, his name had been a synonym for steady business integrity. He is a member of the board of deacons of the First Baptist church.

Federal Highways for North Carolina.

If a bill introduced in the senate by Senator Cullom, of Illinois, becomes a law, seven great highways all originating in Washington and radiating to the various sections of the country, will be constructed by the Federal Government. These roads would pass through all but six states.

North Carolina would be favored by securing two of the great highways should the bill pass congress. The Monroe National Interstate Highway would extend from Washington to Austin, Texas, via New Orleans. It is stipulated that this road should go by way of Charlottesville, Va., through North Carolina to Atlanta.

The Lee National Interstate Highway is another of the proposed roads, which would extend from Washington to Jacksonville and Miami, Florida. The bill provides that this road shall extend by the most direct route through Virginia via Richmond, North Carolina via Wilmington, South Carolina via Charleston, thence to Savannah and Jacksonville.

Guilt.

In a southern town of Missouri, years ago, was a farm of questioning nature, slightly different from now, much trouble was experienced in getting a jury in a murder trial.

Finally an old fellow answered every question satisfactorily; he had no prejudices, was not opposed to capital punishment, and was generally considered a valuable find. Then the prosecutor said solemnly: "Juror look upon the prisoner; prisoner look upon the juror."

The old man adjusted his spectacles and peered at the prisoner for full half minute. Then, turning to the court, he said: "Judge, durned if I don't believe he's guilty."—Kansas City Journal.

Oklahoma Father Pleased with Visit to Bingham.

Wynnewood, Okla., April 12, 1909. My Dear Mr. Gray: I consider Bingham School, near Mebane, one of, if not the best educational institution in our sunny southland. Its healthful location, its water, moral and religious influences, the fraternal relations between teachers and pupils, together with the natural surroundings, make Bingham an ideal school.

I am well pleased with the progress George is making, and I shall gladly send him back to Bingham. I was so well pleased with my visit to your school, that wife and I will both visit you next year. Wishing you the largest degree of success possible to attain, I am, Very truly, R. J. WHEELER.

A GREAT QUESTION.

What is the Best School Discipline? After long experience, we consider a properly conducted Military System the best because it causes the boys to walk erect, with active gate and graceful motion, to hold their shoulders back, to expand the chest and to develop the body, to assist in the discipline and to show respect and obedience to authority. Under it, neatness, order, punctuality, and system are the rule and the best, becoming and serviceable uniform gives tone to the cadet.

The Crying Need.

"Southern Good Roads." Varner's most excellent publication, comes out in no uncertain terms against reckless expenditure of public funds on lesser necessities, while the crying need of the nation—better highways—is consistently ignored.

An instance is cited where a Iowa town with 1300 population secured a $75,000 governmental appropriation for a public building. This is not an isolated case. Each year millions of dollars are taken from the treasury—from the general tax fund—to construct public buildings which are not absolutely needed. The reason is not far to find. Representatives in congress naturally desire to "please the folks back home," as Varner says, and if militant citizenship of Devil's Dip request an imposing federal structure it is up to their representative to plead their cause.

After all, then, is not the fault more with the public than with the representative?

The congressman returns and on the hustings points with pride to the building he secured for his district. That is all right. But did you ever hear one recount in glowing terms of his efforts to stimulate and promote good roads in his district? And if not is the reason far to find? When was a representative ever sounded on that issue prior to election? When did voters ever commit their candidates to bend their energies towards the promotion of highway building?

The best way to stir a more general and intense interest that will achieve results—is for the public to take this matter in hand and order its desires.

Good Roads goes on to show how millions are annually wasted in floating fortresses and needless waterway and harbor improvements.—Charlotte News.

Children Marriages.

There is no more striking example of the folly and shame of children marriages, nor of the crime and absolute lack of a moral sense of duty of ministers and others, who are vested with authority to perform the marriage ceremony, than the Combs murder case of Inell county. The husband and murderer is 18 years old, his murdered wife was 16, and they had only been married 6 months. The couple ran away to South Carolina. Some minister or Esquire officiated giving them the legal right to live together legally. The union was not peaceful—there were quarrels. The young wife wanted to visit her parents, the husband objected. There was a conflict, the woman was murdered, choked to death lying across the knees of the man-brute. Was there ever a darker picture—and all because a minister or justice of the peace pronounced the words which made them man and wife?

The state, the law, custom, all conspired to bring about the murder. A clearer sense of responsibility on the part of the ministry and others having the right to marry couples is needed until these have come to understand their full moral duty in the matter children will continue to marry and tragedies will multiply and increase.—Salisbury Post.
