Bad Fire at Richfield.

A dispatch from Richfield under date of Nov. 14 has the following: Richfield has again witnessed a destructive fire.

On Sunday morning at 2:30 o'clock our people were awakened by the alarm, to find the building occupied by the Ritchie Drug Store and the News Reporter and Norwood Record in a blaze.

The fire started in the printing office, and was making great headway when discovered by Dr. Smith, who lives just across the street from the burned building. Through Dr. Smith's efforts, the alarm was given and a few dollars worth of goods were saved.

The building was a complete loss, as was nearly all the contents. The house belonged to D. D. Ritchie and will cost $1,000 to replace. He had no insurance.

H. L. Ritchie, of the News Reporter and Norwood Record, presses and fixtures valued at $500 to $800, no insurance; Carl Taylor, a chest of carpenter tools, $20, and several other minor losses.

H. L. Ritchie lost all the clothes he had and $40 in money. How the fire originated is unknown, but is supposed to have started from rats and matches.

British Ambassador James Bryce, in an address at New York last week, congratulated the American people on their few troubles.

He referred to the social unrest that worries all the nations of Europe. "You amongst all nations are the least liable to suffer from the shock of the jarring interests of different classes," he went on.

"Least liable because you have between the capitalists and the wage-earners a large class of voters who are able and intelligent enough to hold the balance fairly and to recognize that the interests of all classes are in the last analysis interwoven with one another and that which is an injury to one is an injustice and an injury to all."

The Passing of Resumes.

The South Leads in Good Roads.

Dynamic with significance is the statement of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson that the south leads the nation in the matter of road building.

In a recent interview he cited statistics showing that during the past ten months of the calendar year, the southern states had expended upon this agency alone a sum aggregating $44,000,000.

The summary, as he gave it out for publication, includes states all southern, as follows, with the exception of Delaware, and gives Georgia a good rating, though it is to be doubted if the state is quite done justice, considering the vast amount of road work under way within its borders:

Alabama, $3,484,000; Arkansas, $2,450,000; Delaware, $430,000; Florida, $1,505,000; Georgia, $2,500,000; Kentucky, $2,500,000; Louisiana, $1,132,354; Maryland, $2,250,000; Mississippi, $3,130,000; North Carolina, $4,595,000; Oklahoma, $1,505,000; South Carolina, $1,100,000; Tennessee, $3,900,000; Texas, $7,500,000; Virginia, $4,004,000; West Virginia, $1,625,000.

Viewed from any angle, the south's supremacy in this respect is highly gratifying. Transportation is the first vital factor in the great problems of development and unless it is provided in abundance the farms cannot yield their maximum output nor can the country attract all those needed for its upbuilding.

But it is in the light of a symbol that the south's priority in highway improvements gains its greatest meaning. It would have been impossible for the section to make the showing accorded it by the secretary unless its people, without regard to section or conditions, were thoroughly roused to the realization of their destiny, realizing that the trend of empire has at last turned southward and determined themselves to meet it more than half-way.

For activities with regard to good roads are only a part of activities in each other economic, industrial and agricultural channel. Incidentally the secretary praises the part of the federal good roads bureau in co-operating with southern road development.

The day is coming when the functions of discharges must be broadened and sustained by federal financial aid approximating that expended upon waterways. The two projects deserve to be placed upon an equal footing. Think what the south's, the country's showing would have been for the past ten calendar months had federal aid supplemented state energy in road-building. The Constitution will not relinquish its efforts until the principle is fixed as a part of federal policy.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Fight for Good Roads.

One of the strongest arguments showing the forward progress of North Carolina, is the report of Secretary Wilson putting this state ahead of any of the southern states in expenditures for good roads, the amount reaching over $4,500,000 for ten months. For some years past North Carolina has been engaged in a statewide campaign for better roads and today we believe the best highways in the south are in this state and yet the work is but in the starting.

Aside from the splendid work being inaugurated by this state, no agency is doing more effective, and lasting work than the Southern Good Roads Journal, owned and edited by Mr. H. B. Varner, of Lexington. While Mr. Varner is not in the employ of the state, his great campaigns which he has conducted at his own expense have been the cause of much of this great improvement, and there is still greater work that he is to accomplish.

From the mountains to the seaboard he has addressed the people speaking in behalf of good roads in the various counties, while the great educational work has been still further promoted by his Journal of Southern Good Roads. His energies are tireless in behalf of upbuilding and good roads and his work is appreciated by the people throughout the state.—High Point Enterprise.

Hoke Smith to Help Simmons.

Governor Hoke Smith of Georgia who rode in his Maxwell automobile on the Golden Tour from New York to Jacksonville, has been awarded the $1,000 loving cup by the chamber of Commerce of Anderson, S. C., offered to the owner of the car making the best score on the trip.

Governor Smith took part in this tour to make a study of public road improvement. He is expected to be an active and earnest lieutenant of Senator Simmons when he takes his seat in the senate next month in working for the Simmons bill for national aid to states and counties in their road improvement work.

Senator Simmons' argument that the general government should help to improve and keep up the roads its rural mail carriers use, is unanswerable.

His efforts to complete the canals in the eastern part of North Carolina to provide a competitor to the railroads with a view of forcing cheaper freight rates to and from the state and to bring money from the national treasury to supplement the county road tax, is practical statesmanship.—Newton Enterprise.

Girls Without Bleemish.

Consider the Lamb, my daughter; learn of his ways and grow wise. Behold the fleecy whiteness of the Lamb, which rivaleth the snow, and which hath become the emblem of Purity. So do thou keep thyself unspotted from the world and let not so much as a fleck of the mud of gossip hang to the hem of thy petticoats.

For, verily, man admireth woman for many things—for her wit, for her beauty, for being a good fellow; but the quality in woman that taketh the wedding cake is purity, and she the more he demandeth that the lambkin that goeth with him to the altar shall be without spot or blemish.—Dorothy Dix.

New Commandments.

In Chicago, whences come all kinds of new things, a preacher has formulated these commandments for the guidance of women only:

Thou shalt have no man except thy husband. Thou shalt place no "job, social circle, organization or missionary society before thy home. Thou shalt not waste thy husband's substance on gay raiment. Thou shalt not let the petty vexations of the household disrupt the family.

Thou shalt not regulate thy family with idle gossip. Thou shalt not fret thyself because thy neighbor's house is greater than thine. Thou shalt not serve parents to thy guests or set up guests to thy own parties. Thou shalt not promise that which thou shalt not give.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEY'S

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Lexington Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself.

That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to dropsy or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It is for ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys.

Lexington people testify to permanent cures. Mrs. Frank Miller, Main St., Lexington, N. C., says: "I have been a firm friend of Doan's Kidney Pills for a long time. I was severely troubled by disordered kidneys and did not sleep well. I suffered a great deal from backache and headaches and nothing helped me so to any extent until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Smith's Drug Store. They cured me and my experience convinced me of their merits."

A Lecture to Teachers.

Superintendent Vann writes as follows: The most of the schools of the county have opened and the good reports from different sections of the county are to the effect that good work is being done by our teachers.

No one has reported anything to the contrary. This is very gratifying indeed and it is to be hoped that all of our teachers will be faithful to their trust and put their very best efforts in the work.

I hear reports of improvement in the school work by a large number of commitment and friends of education. It is my purpose to stand firmly by our teachers and help them in every way possible to make their work a success.

All the commitments have been written to and asked to co-operate with the teacher and encourage the teacher in every way possible, in the important work. Some teacher may fall short of his duty, failing to realize the great importance of the work.

See to it that that teacher shall not be you. I would make the following suggestions: That each teacher go to work at once and have the entire school lot cleared of all trash and rubbish. Have the wood piled neatly, not in front of the school house.

Keep the drinking water any where but in the school house. Exercise judgment and taste in the arrangement of the furniture and desks in the school room. Have the school room swept thoroughly at least once a day.

A neat yard and a neat house will help to attract children to the school and increase their interest in their work. Let the teacher have a certain period each day of at least twenty minutes devoted entirely to exercise in writing.

Nothing should be done during this period except write. It is very necessary that each student use a regular copy-book and that he be taught accuracy and neatness in his writing. This will please the child and the parent and add greatly to the work.

Too much care cannot be experienced in this department. All children in the sixth and seventh grades should be supplied with the book on agriculture and should thoroughly master it. Parents, see to it that this is done.

The newly adopted books are in the teachers' register and it is to be hoped that parents will willingly and promptly exchange their old books for the present adoption. The state text book commission will make no more changes now for five years and it is very wise that all students exchange their old books for the new books now while they can do so, thus saving about one-half the purchase price on the new book.

No teacher can do justice to the school when all the members of the class do not have the same kind of books. It is an injustice to the teacher and to the school to undertake it.

Suppose They Sing For It.

Apropos of the stir raised by Governor Wilson's recent criticism of the song "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" as silly and meaningless, the News and Observer suggests that Governor Wilson and Harmon and Speaker Clark sing in competition before a committee of Pender county citizens and the vote of North Carolina be given to the candidate with the most melodious voice.

Waiving the advantage this would give Governor Wilson who used to sing on his college glee club, a Pender county correspondent protests to the Old Reliable that the committee it named are capable of judging nothing but "old deer, possum, fish, oysters, strawberries and pretty girls, productions for which Pender is noted."

Comes a lady from Red Springs, where the Presbyterians flourish like the green bay tree, with a new explanation of Dr. Wilson's dislike for the song—an explanation, by the way, that explains with clearness and force.

"Since the 'Beautiful Isle of Somewhere' seems to have entered the presidential race, you no doubt remember that it was a favorite song of one president—McKinley. Of course, as he was a Methodist, it may be nighly-located, abide after death as Calvinists like Harmon and Willson. Champ Clark, not being Calvinistic in his tenets, may like the song. But whichever way the presidency may swing, we may be sure that both Willson and Harmon will accept the result as one 'fore-ordained from the foundation of the world.'"

An effort will be made in the next session of congress to amend the constitution of the United States so as to fix the last Thursday in April of inauguration day, instead of the 4th of March as at present. There will also be an effort made to eliminate the short session of congress, fixing the second Thursday in January as the date of the official commencement and end of the terms of Senators and Representatives.
