HIS DEATH SCENE.

A Stage Performance That Took Place Under Difficulties.

In an article on barnstorming in the Wide World Magazine P. R. Eaten describes a performance which took place under certain difficulties.

There had been an ice cream sociable just prior to our arrival in the hall, and no one had cleaned the stage. Mac had a new pair of breadcloth trousers and my scarlet tunic, also new. When a shot was fired he was to fall and before dying confess that be had killed old Fitzgerald.

The juvenile down front was not to speak till Mac had fallen and confessed. There he stood while Mac staggered about the stage looking for a clean place on which to fall. Mixed ic with his lines he was making remarks to us in the wings sotto voce. while we were convulsed with laughter at his antics.

"I eannot die-oh, why didn't you have a grass mat?-I must not die-I shall ruin my breeches-I can't dleoh, this stage is affoat with ice cream -I-must-not-die."

Here the juvenile put in some side remarks of his own. "Oh, hurry un and die or I'll walk off!" "Go ahead." retorted Mac, "and bring me a sack. I must-not-die. Well, if must here goes-it's ruin to your tunic. Perce, and my breeches-oh, oh." (He went down on one knee, then on one elbow and finally lay full length.) "The deed is done-I confess. -I-murdered-Old Fitzger"- A realistic shiver and all was over, including the ruining of our clothes, as prophesied. The natives said it was the "best and most likelike death scene that had ever been given in that

THE MUSKRAT.

More People Trap This Little Animal Than Any Other.

in America nearly 10,000 people trep the musquash, or muskrat, every year. More people trap this little animal than any other. It is claimed that the greatest number of skins are taken in Minnesota and the Red river district. Most of the pelts are exported.

The skins are very uniform in color, usnally a dark brown. However, those of Alaska and the Mackenzie district are very light in color. The black pelts or those which are nearly so come from the southern sections, although occasionally a few are found in other localities.

The muskrat is very prolific. In American.

The muskrats that inhabit the ponds, marshes and shallow lakes build their houses of grass, weeds, etc., and plaster them together with mud. The house is built in the shape of a dome and is usually several feet above the water. The musquash that lives along the streams usually has its home in the banks of them. The entrance to this den is almost always beneath the water, but as the burrows range upward the dens are pever filled with water except in times of freshets.

Color Blindness.

One thing is definitely shown by the tests that have been made for color blindness in various races-no race, however primitive, has been discovered in which red-green blindness was the universal or general condition, and this is a fact of some interest in connection with the physiology of color vision, for it seems probable that redgreen blindness since it is not by any means a diseased condition represents a reversion to a more primitive state of the color sense. If this is so no race of men remains in the primitive stages of the evolution of the color sense. The development of a color sense substanthilly to the condition in which we have it was probably a preliminan achievement. - Professor R. S. V. ood

A Grabler's Philosophy. "There's up use in trying to buck against had mck." stid the successfut gentle et as to put down bis glass. of viety and milk, "if you see hek is goldg against you, drop out. If the fickle condess of fortune is with you. woo her for a byou are worth. That's, the whole secret on the game. Two been cambling all my life, and I rarely lose. Why? Because I never take a chance against bad luck. Luck is bound to be either with you or against you. You win or you lose. The chances of breaking even are mighty slim. So I never buck bad luck,"-New York Times.

How Inspiration Works. "This sea poem of yours fairly smacks of the salt gale. It is palpably the result of genuine inspiration. You evidently planned it while upon the bounding deep."

"Well, to rell you the truth." said the poet. "I got the idea one day while sitting in a shop having my shoes cobbled."-New York Journal.

Could Have Got It More Easily. Mrs. Newlywed-People are saying that you married me for my gold. Mr. Newlywed-What nonsense! If I'd simply wanted gold I could have got it with far less hardship and suffering in South Africa or Alaska. - Scraps.

There is nothing so powerful as example. We put others straight by walking straight ourselves. - Mme Swetchine.
