connection with the marriage could not be learned today. It is known, however, that Colonel Astor's bride was insistent upon being married by a clergyman who was in good standing and who had charge of a parish.

The application for the marriage*license was made August 27th last. Before the license could be granted Colonel Astor had to file with the city clerk a copy of the papers in his divorce proceedings.

In the license he set forth that he was 47 years old, the son of the late William Astor, residence New York, and occupation, gentleman.

Miss Force declared she was 20 years of age, the daughter of W. H. Force, of New York, and gave her father's occupation as "forwarding and commission."

A message from Point Judith gave the information that the Noma, after passing down the bay, rounded Point Judith and steamed to the westward. This led to the belief that the bridal couple might be heading for Rhine Cliff, N. Y., where Colonel Astor has a country home.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 9.-Rev. Dr. Joseph Lambert upon his return to his home here today from Newport declined to discuss the Astor-Force wedding. Beyond stating that he had performed the ceremony Dr., Lambert said that he had no comment to make, an did not care to make public his views as to marriage and divorce questions.
