"BY THE LIGHT OF THE MOON."
City Editor of the Dispatch Rejoices in Handsome New Machine.
At the garage of the Wilmington Auto Repair Co., No. 7 North Third street, Mr. Leonard Bruce Douglas, the caddy Scot in charge, was showing to the automobiles public a very handsome 40-horse power Moon car, one of the latest and most up-to-date machines that now grace the fine macadam roads of New Hanover. It is entirely unnecessary to say that the car is for Mr. Louis T. Moore, city editor of the "Dispatch" and that in future when the "Moon" looms upon the horizon, all other vehicles, motor driven, mud propelled, or common, ordinary pedestrians who propel themselves, had as well take to the woods.

But in all seriousness, the new Moon car is one of the handsomest that has come to Wilmington's way in a long time, the Wilmington Auto Repair Co. having only recently secured the agency for all lines of this machine. The car is easily the aristocrat of its class and attracted much admiration on the streets yesterday. It has the famous T. head motor, 4 1/2 by 5 inch stroke, and the body is of the torpedo type, four-passenger capacity, handsomely finished in battleship gray and brown leather upholstery.

At the risk of his life, limb and future happiness, a representative of the Star was permitted to enjoy the luxury of the new car for a brief drive yesterday afternoon. It clipped, showing the bugs over into the ditch and dumping the occupants, but fortunately neither Mr. Pugh nor Mr. Williams was injured. Damage to the extent of $8 or $10 was done to the buggy. Despite the appeals of Messrs. Pugh and Williams the persons in the car did not stop to offer and receive their share of blame. They were dangerously injured it apparently would have been all the same to the occupants of the automobile. The car did not have any lights, it is said. Messrs. Pugh and Williams were coming toward the city while the automobile, probably containing "joyriders" of unknown bouge. After a time Messrs. Pugh and Williams succeeded in getting themselves together and the vehicle in running order and came on to the city.

A TRADE DEVELOPER.

October was banner month for Trade Extension Association.
October proved the banner month for the Wilmington Trade Extension Association. The marked increase and general improvement in the retail feature of the organization assures the continued success of the movement.

The increase in sales of retail merchants has been fully 40 per cent over the previous months during the existence of the association. Members continue to send hundreds of advertising folders to their out-of-town customers and these with the assistance of newspaper articles, which have been gladly published and broadcasted over a large section, the movement has been greatly encouraged.

People in small towns and the country are beginning to realize the many advantages of the organization and are buying a share of their goods in Wilmington, where they get their fare paid, rather than sending their orders to Northern houses. There is every reason to believe that large numbers of purchasers will come to Wilmington to buy from members of the association during November and December.

IS STRANGER THAN FICTION

Fred McKenzie, Colored, Claims He Owns Property Upon Which Most of City of Wilmington is Located.

If by any chance or whim of fate the claims of Fred McKenzie, colored, better known to the Wilmington public as Fred Davis, are true, and if he can prove them in a court of law, he will probably be the wealthiest negro in the United States, for he would literally own the city of Wilmington—at least that part of it upon which the most valuable real estate lies.

Stranger far than fiction, even than the wildest dreams of Edgar Allan Poe, would the situation be if this dusky Afro-American can prove that his claims are just and that he is really the owner of the valuable property which he alleges was willed to his ancestors back in the Colonial days.

In another column of The Star this morning will be found a dispatch from the Raleigh correspondent to the effect that McKenzie has appealed to the State officials for aid in recovering this property.

McKenzie, a tall, slender negro of perhaps a shade more than the average intelligence of his race, discussed the matter very fully to a Star representative last night. The property which he alleges belongs to him and his relatives begins at a point on the Cape Fear river at the foot of Market street, runs north up the river to a point some distance north of the Seaboard tracks, thence east a short distance, thence south to Market street and west down Market street 150 poles to the point of beginning.

His story goes back to the Colonial days and according to his statement the property as far back as he has been able to trace it, was first owned by Mr. Marsden Campbell, of New Hanover county. On the death of Mr. Campbell it went to his heirs, Jas. G. Campbell, Marsden Campbell, Jr., Hugh Y. Waddell and wife, John Marsden Waddell and William Campbell. It was finally acquired by the last named, William Campbell, who before his death left this State for Louisiana; he desired to leave his property to Moses Davis, a slave, but as the laws of North Carolina prohibited a slave from holding property, he was forced to leave it in the hands of a number of trustees to hold for Moses Davis. These trustees were Messrs. T. C. Miller, Fred D. Lord, Thos. D. Meares, William A. Wright, Joshua Wright and the town of Wilmington in the county of New Hanover. At that time the town of Wilmington did not cover any of the property owned by Mr. Campbell.

On the death of Moses Davis, McKenzie claims, the property went to his daughter, Lucy Davis, who married a negro named McKenzie. She soon left McKenzie, however, but not until after she had borne him children. Her first child was Fred McKenzie, or Fred Davis. He was the father of a second Fred Davis, who in turn had a son named Fred Davis, or Fred McKenzie, the present claimant to the land.

McKenzie claims to have the original deed of trust, in which the land is left to the trustees to hold for Moses Davis. This he says, is in Washington, D. C., just at present, but he says there is a certified copy in the city. He also has several other legal papers bearing on the matter.

He expects that the Governor will look into the matter for him and is waiting to hear from the State officials. He says that there are several points that he must yet trace out and establish before he can claim his property, but he is confident that the land upon which a great part of the city of Wilmington is located rightfully belongs to him.

Governor Kitchin Here
Governor William Walton Kitchin is a guest at The Orion today. He arrived in the city last night from Bolton, where he spoke yesterday, and will spend Sunday in Wilmington, leaving Monday morning for Raleigh. His many friends here will be delighted to greet him again.

DARING ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY.

Negroes Entered Southside Drug Store—Did Not Get Anything.
A daring attempt at robbery occurred at the Southside Drug Company, corner Front and Castle streets, last evening about 6:30 o'clock when two negroes tried to steal a bottle of cocaine, but were foiled by Mr. Carl Miller, the manager, and a bystander who helped him put them to rout.

One of the negroes entered through the side door which opens into the building behind the prescription stand, but Mr. Miller saw him just as he snatched the bottle of cocaine. Mr. Miller grabbed the negro who dropped the cocaine and struggled to escape. A Mr. Sellers, who was in the store at the time, ran to his assistance and as he did so another negro, who was standing on the outside, picked up a brick and hurled it at him. Mr. Sellers dodged and the brick struck the woodwork just above his head, making a deep indentation. In the meantime Miller, who had secured the store, succeeded in breaking away from Mr. Miller and made his escape. They had not been apprehended at a late hour last night.

Mr. Miller remembered that the negro who entered, the store had been in a few days before to get a slight injury on one of his hands dressed. He had been behind the prescription stand and that fact accounted for his familiarity with the place and his ability to pick up the bottle of cocaine at once.

"GIRL FROM RECTOR'S."

Presented Here to Two Fairly Large Audiences Yesterday.
Yesterday afternoon and last night the theatre-goers of the city again had the opportunity of seeing "The Girl From Rector's", which was presented before two fairly large and well pleased audiences. Each member of the cast played his or her part well, winning frequent applause and repeated curtain calls.

"The Girl From Rector's" was here last season, following talk that it was libidinous and immoral—it was presented under censorship, while in some other cities it was debarred entirely by the authorities. The play did not give offense to any of the large number of ladies in the audience when it was presented here before, nor did they see anything especially objectionable as it was presented yesterday. In the afternoon the ladies predominated and if one is to judge by the enthusiastic applause they accorded at frequent intervals and the repeated curtain calls, especially at the close of the second act, the attraction pleased immensely.

There were a large number of ladies present again last night. The worst thing about "The Girl From Rector's" is its reputation and that is not as bad as it was a year ago.

BIG PYTHIAN RALLY.

Arrangements Complete for Celebration Here Thursday Night.
One of the biggest events in local Pythian circles in some months will be the celebration Thursday evening of this week of "Orphans' Home Day," postponed from last Friday. The feature of the occasion will be an address by Rev. Frank A. Mallett, of Salisbury, an enthusiastic Pythian as well as able minister and brilliant speaker. He will have as his subject, "Romances of Pythianism."

The meeting will be held in Castle Hall in the Merchants National Bank building and in addition to the Pythians from all the local lodges there will be a number of visiting Knights from other lodges in the district. Mr. Mallett will be introduced by a prominent local Pythian and among those in attendance will be Mr. G. Herbert Smith, of Cronly, a member of the board of trustees of the orphanage at Clayton, which is now caring for a large number of children.

NORTH CAROLINA SOROSIS

The Literature Department of the North Carolina Sorosis held their first meeting of the season at the home of the chairman, on Thursday afternoon, November 9th. In answering to name called, each member gave the name of a Greek god or goddess.

The attendance was very large and enthusiastic, the subject of study for the afternoon being Mythology. The meeting was opened by the chairman with a discussion of myths, legends and fables, and several illustrations of our own myths of the Indian tribes as to the creation of the earth, and also a talk on the subject of the use of the Greek and Roman names for the gods and goddesses.

First on the programme was a mythical story of the creation and origin of man, which was given by Mrs. M. H. P. Clark in a lucid and comprehensive manner. Her talk embraced creation time, religion, rotation, earth, heaven, man, animals, love center, hatred, earth beautiful, formation of races and sovereignty of Jupiter or Zeus.

Many myths were told by different members, among which were the Twelve Tasks of Hercules, Story of Endymion, short sketch of Nemesis, showing how Nemesis wrought vengeance on all evil doers; Story of Daphne, how she was turned into a laurel tree to keep Apollo, the sun god, from moving her. Apollo, then made the laurel, the emblem of honor and triumph. Miss Elizabeth Price recited "The King Admetus" by Lowell.

An essay on the Debt of Our Poets to Mythology was a paper showing much thought and research and was greatly enjoyed by all present, proving that the Greek Myths have been used by our bards and poets from all time. Milton's Paradise Lost would be meaningless to any one not familiar with the Greek myths. Homer, Longfellow and Tennyson all sang of the story of the gods and goddesses.

Owing to sickness of members part of the programme was omitted, so the meeting adjourned. Every one having enjoyed a delightful evening, being enthusiastic over the work covered by the chairman.

The Art Department of Sorosis met at the home of the chairman, Miss Ruth Falson Shaw, Friday, 10th inst. This department was re-organized and the work planned for the Winter. Mrs. W. T. Bannerman was elected secretary. The meetings are to be held on the second Friday of each month at the home of the chairman, the subject of study being Greek art.

The Health Committee of Sorosis desires to express its gratification at the good beginning which has been made in the campaign towards thorough and regular medical inspection of the public schools. The committee has, within the past month, held several interesting conferences with Dr. Nesbitt, superintendent of health, and it is hoped that his recent clear and comprehensive recommendation to the City Council on this important subject may lead to great results.

Sorosis hopes that all parents and friends will encourage and aid this revival of interest in the children. The stupid boy is usually the boy with adenoids or whose head aches constantly from poor eyes; but he doesn't know it. So when his report shows that he has failed to pass, he has no excuse to offer.

The inattentive girl probably does not hear the teacher well; but she does not know it. So she takes the demerits silently, and feels down in the depths of her honest heart that something is wrong somewhere.

Of course the parents ought to know these things and attend to them; but when all the "ought to's" have been successfully attended to, the millennium will be here. Meanwhile—

Let us give the children a square deal. They can not give it to themselves.

Spacious Offices in Small Areas
Like the well-furnished home, the modern office should so utilize its available space that it never creates the impression of being overcrowded. Congestion always suggests disorder.

Interruptions to important business deals, aggravating delays and clerical mistakes are frequently caused by poorly planned offices, using unstandardized and different makes of filing cabinets that neither match up or harmonize on the outside, nor afford a uniform efficient service on the inside.
