United States and Great Britain Celebrate Ghent Treaty

DOCTRINE OF BROTHERHOOD

William Jennings Bryan Delivers Wonderful Address on "Peace Toward Peace"—Toasts Drunk to King and President

New York, May 9.—William Jennings Bryan speaking at a dinner given tonight in honor of the foreign members of the International Conference that is arranging the celebration of 100 years of peace among English-speaking people, declared that "new peace plans offered by President Wilson to all nations is the latest and longest step toward peace."

"It contemplates time for investigation and deliberation," he said, "and this makes the possibility of war remote." Mr. Bryan's subject was "Press Toward Peace."

He said that the part of the United States in the cause of necessity would be large because "more than any other nation it had a population which is the average of nearly all other nations. Peace for all states were the United States and Great Britain was the keynote of other addresses at the evening delivered by Lord Weardale, chairman of the English delegation; Sir Edmund Walker of Canada; Sir George Houston Reid of Australia, and Judge George Gray, chairman of the American delegation; the last of which was the last of many that have engaged the delegates here during the last week, for tomorrow they start for Boston.

More than 500 men and women, most of them of country-wide distinction were in attendance and unstinted applause greeted all remarks that emphasized the cordial relations between the two nations and the cause of universal peace in general.

The enthusiastic singing of "America and 'God Save the King'" was one of the features of the evening.

Flags of Great Britain, the United States, Canada, Australia and Belgium, where the treaty of Ghent was signed in 1814, decorated the banquet hall.

RE. DR. FRIEDMANN'S CURE

Government Investigator Declares German Physician Falsely Furnishes Complete Information Regarding Vaccine.

Washington, May 9.—The first authentic and political report of the Federal government's investigation of the Friedmann tuberculosis vaccine made public here today, declares the results of the public health service observations so far "do not justify that confidence in the remedy which has been inspired by widespread publicity."

The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis before the report was presented, immediately and unanimously adopted resolutions declaring its belief that "no specific cure for tuberculosis has been discovered that deserves the confidence of the medical profession and the public," and declaring it to be the duty of the public to continue "all the present well tried agencies."

Although couched in the diplomatic terms of a governmental scientific document, the report on the Friedmann "cure" expresses the disappointment of the public health service at the conditions imposed by Friedmann; and says his declaration to furnish complete information concerning his vaccine was not "satisfactory from a scientific standpoint."

The public health service, however, the report says, accepted his conditions because of the great importance to thousands of sufferers, and the hope that a cure might be found.
