

RECEIVE TOO MUCH WHISKEY

E. A. Todd and Ed Stokely Arrested for Alleged Violation for New "Quart" Shipment Law.

While numerous seizures of whiskey have been made recently by the Wilmington police department, Ed Stokely, white, who is connected with a store at Seventh and Castle streets, has the honor, if honor it can be called, of being the first Wilmington man to be arrested on a charge of violating the recent act of the General Assembly making it unlawful for a person to receive more than one quart of whiskey from outside the State in any one shipment.

It is understood by the police that the store, which was in charge of Stokely, is owned by Elifiah A. Todd, who has several times been implicated in whiskey selling charges, and it was stated at the police station yesterday that Todd returned yesterday morning from Virginia. Several valises or grips suspected of containing whiskey were loaded on a truck under the supervision of Mr. Todd. Police M. C. Huggins, in charge of the beat at the station, reported the matter to police headquarters, and later when it was learned that two trunks were taken to the store Chief of Police Williams and Plainclothesman Leon George followed the delivery wagon.

After one of the trunks had been unloaded and Stokely had taken possession where to place it, Chief Williams said that he walked in and after making an investigation found that the package contained whiskey. Upon Stokely's statement that he owned the store he was placed under arrest and carried to the police station where he gave bond in the sum of $150 for his appearance before the Recorder this morning.

Mack Taylor, colored, was taken also, and Chief of Police Williams said that the negro declared that the two trunks, said to contain about 15 gallons of whiskey, had been brought from Virginia by Todd. Taylor will be a witness in the case.

The trunks are being kept at the police station and will figure as evidence in the case. The booby is said by the police to be a regular passenger and is also said to be a good brand.

A warrant was sworn out against Todd by Plainclothesman D. W. Coleman before Justice George Harris. Todd in one message at his store home on Wrightsville Sound and was arrested there yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Cowan. He gave a justified bond in the sum of $250 before Justice Harris and is expected to answer to a charge of having violated the "quart" law.

Whiskey shipped in drygoods boxes, barrels, trunks and other packages have been seized on several occasions by the police but no one was arrested for the reason that there was no evidence to connect anyone with the shipments. The two trunks received yesterday were checked as regular passengers baggage. The smaller trunks is said to contain 72 half pints of whiskey and the larger trunks is supposed to contain twice that quantity.

HANDSOME INVITATIONS SENT OUT FOR BANKERS' MEETING

Arrangements Completed for Taking Party to New York on Steamer.

Handsome engraved invitations have been sent out by Mr. W. A. Hunt, secretary and treasurer of the North Carolina Bankers' Association, to the nineteenth annual convention, which will be held at the Seashore Hotel, Wrightsville Beach, June 17th, 18th and 19th. Arrangements were completed yesterday through the Wilmington Steamship Company for operating a special steamer from Wilmington to New York, on Saturday, June 19th, for the accommodation of the bankers and their friends who wish to visit the metropolis upon the conclusion of the convention.

Mr. T. E. Cooper, president of the association, was notified yesterday by Mr. C. J. Becker that the steamer Comanche, which runs regularly between New York, Charleston and Jacksonville, will stop at Wilmington for the convenience of the bankers who desire to take the trip.

The steamer Comanche is one of the largest and handsomest of the Clyde Line. Arrangements had already been made for taking the trip, but the steamer Seminole was wrecked and as the Cherokee will be in New York at that time, it was decided by the Clyde Line to have the Comanche call at this port. She has accommodations for several hundred passengers, and as the vessel is being sent here at considerable expense, the regular fare of $12 will be charged. This will include fare, state-room, meals and all expenses for the trip. No arrangements have been made for the return trip, as doubtless most of the bankers will prefer to return by rail.

President Cooper is sending out circular letters throughout the State and upper South Carolina, calling attention to the trip, and asking the bankers who expect to take the trip to notify him at once whether or not they will go to New York.

MEXICAN FACTIONS CALLED UPON TO SETTLE DIFFERENCES

result of a conference late today between President Wilson and Miss Mabel Boardman. Because of interruption to communication between Vera Cruz and Mexico City it is understood efforts will be made to get food to the capital from the northern border.

State Department advises today announced the issuance of a Villa decree establishing courts of justice in the Villa territory effective May 24.

The Carranza agency gave out a cablegram from Vera Cruz stating that General Carranza today signed an order allowing the introduction of all supplies into Mexico City and that food was being furnished on request in every locality controlled by Carranza forces. The message also declared that conditions around Vera Cruz and vicinity are better than at any time since the city was occupied; that Tampico had a sufficient food supply; that the Villa territory is in a state of peace and health conditions are concerned, though a serious food shortage existed among the poorer classes.

Marked Change in Policy.

The statement marks a departure in the United States policy toward Mexico. It was decided on after several meetings of the President and his cabinet and a study of the reports of Duval West, who investigated conditions in Mexico. Foreign nations have been taken into the confidence of the United States and European diplomatists who would express themselves indicated their approval of the plan. In South American circles, it was declared today's statement was a logical development of the mediation conference at Niagara Falls when the United States with Argentina, Brazil and Chile signed a protocol agreeing to recognize the government set up by agreement of the factions.

The statement started a variety of speculations as to what the American government might be lending "its active moral support to some man or group of men, if such may be found, in an effort to ignore, if they cannot unite, the warring factions of the country."

In high official quarters it was explained that the United States hitherto had maintained neutrality as between the factions, but now was preparing to choose between them or to give its support to those elements in the existing factions which gave most promise of success. An embargo on arms and the cutting off of other means of support from the factions would be put into operation to assist the chosen elements as against those which ignored the American government's demand for peace.

While details of the government's policy are not yet available it was said on good authority that it was intended to restore constitutional government in Mexico after the factions had agreed on their plan for provisional president by first recognizing the Carranza government, and then the other members of the cabinet of the late President Madero, entitled to succession under the Mexican laws. The minister recognized would be expected to appoint to the cabinet the man chosen to head the new government in whose favor he would then resign. Ernesto Madero and Manuel Bonilla also were members of the Madero cabinet, but Vasquez Tagle, minister of justice, was the only one who did not present his resignation.

The details of a constitutional succession, however, it is understood, will not be given attention until there is an agreement on the new provisional president and his cabinet. An effort is to be made to get men for the portfolios who represent various branches of Mexican politics, the majority being committed to a government based on liberal principles and pledged to religious freedom and educational reform.

The effect of the President's statement in Mexican quarters was varied. General Villa's representative here, Enrique Lorente, promptly issued a statement saying that the Carranza government had tried to put into effect the very ideas set forth by the President and was ready to co-operate with opposing factions. The Carranza agency was silent, but the Carranza representative here, General Carranza would endeavor to demonstrate by a quick campaign on Mexico City that he could dominate all other factions in a military way and thereby command the recognition of foreign governments.

Representatives here of exiled Mexicans driven from their country by the constitutionalists, expressed their approval of the President's statement, but doubted whether Villa and Carranza and Zapata elements could reach an agreement. The possibility of another revolutionary movement to take under its standard the Carranza ranks was discussed.

PRESIDENT WILSON EMPHASIZES THE POSITION OF U. S. TO GERMANY

no guns, it would not be surprising if this would be accepted by the German government, furnishing the basis for the giving of reparations. The four affidavits presented to the State Department by the German embassy alleging that guns were carried by the Lusitania is believed to be the evidence which the German government referred to in its last note. Should it develop that the foreign office had been misinformed German diplomatists said an acknowledgment of the mistake would not be withheld. These affidavits were not made public by either the embassy or the State Department, but the character of the individuals who made them and their testimony is being made the subject of a quiet inquiry. Those officials who had seen the statement, however, were confident that they could not be accepted as disproving the testimony given by inspectors whose duty it is to search for guns.

GEORGE CONFERS MANY HONORS ON BIRTHDAY.

List Unusually Long as a Result of the Present War.

London, June 2.—The list of honors conferred on the occasion of the king's birthday, issued tonight, as had been expected in view of the war, was an unusually long one.

The list is headed by the names of Field Marshal Earl Kitchener, secretary of state for war, who received the Knighthood of the Garter, and Sir Francis Bertie, ambassador to France, and the Marquis of Macdonald, clerk of the crown. The two last are only servants of the crown who were raised to the peerage, each having been made a baron.

FLOOD WARNINGS ISSUED.

Carolina Rivers May Overflow as Result of Heavy Rains in State.

Washington, June 2.—Heavy rains from Pennsylvania to North Carolina caused the Weather Bureau tonight to issue flood warnings for the rivers of the Carolinas. A storm off Hatteras and the Virginia coast tonight was moving northeastward, the bureau said.

To Improve Expression As Well As Complexion

No face is really beautiful that lacks expression. Do you realize that continual use of powders and creams tends to spoil pliancy of skin and elasticity of pores? Why not use something better, which won't clog the pores or make the skin dry, pasty or oily? Ordinary cosmetics act quite differently from any cosmetic. It wonderfully improves any complexion, makes the skin soft and supple, and usually, harmlessly peeling off the thin, pure, soft, smooth, youthful skin. It is beautiful and youthful. Every day has this wax; it is seldom more than an ounce. It is applied on a dry face, and it is washed off with water. It is a complete transformation in a few days. It is a treatment free from all objection. It is made by dissolving 10% powdered talc in a pint of water; use as a wash lotion. This soon removes even the most obstinate wrinkles.

UNIVERSITY HEARS MITCHELL PALMER

In a thousand ways. The speaker then cited notable instances of the greed and graft that resulted in his own State of Pennsylvania. He told of the contractor who furnished a great public building with chairs and tables measured and paid for by the public foot, and the railroad builder who secured in exchange for political service the franchise to use the public streets within the hour that a complacent governor signed the law authorizing the grab. These conspicuous examples, he said, were not only in evidence in township, county and state but found its way in the greater affairs of the nation. Discriminations spread wealth and poverty in the territory of an officer in the day time and two at night.

In concluding this report, I wish to thank every man in the department for their loyalty and faithful service during the past year, and to express my personal appreciation of the encouragement and support given us by the Mayor and members of Council during the year, with the further assurance that we only may expect the very best service from each man in the department during the year now before us.

The youth of twenty or thirty years ago saw the legislator plead in the cause of his paying before the government of which he was the servant, unashamed because excused by the lax political morals of his time. Now the youth see at the risk of disgrace and punishment the legislator who punishes guardians of the people's interests met in a back room over a saloon and selected for their dummies in constitutional convention, the candidates for city, county and state office. The individual selection bred responsibility to the individual making the selection. Responsibility bred service and the people's interest were ignored. Now, nearly every state makes provision for primary, candidates for every office from ward to state, and the people have only themselves to blame if they choose the servant of individuals to do their work.

Ideals Workable.

The movement for better working conditions for labor, shorter hours for women in the shops and factories and greater restrictions of child labor, is a plain manifestation of the workability of the ideals of the rising generation of men. Employers' liability legislation, which will protect the worker whose master is no longer the individual with whom he can personally deal, but the aggregate of men, is another example of the servant's identity is now entirely lost, and workmen's compensation laws which will distribute throughout society the loss incurred by the individual who makes a personal individual servant has had to bear, are now accepted as orthodox features of the legislation of every state; while a generation ago, before the awakening of the mind of new ideals, their mere proposal was looked upon as evidence of radical, almost socialist tendencies, which would undermine our institutions.

Equal Opportunity for All.

The ideals of the youth who studied political economy in connection with a generation ago contemplated free and equal opportunity for all, in politics, in business, in all the social structure. Men were to have justice without regard for their rank or position. Those from whom they claimed it. The weak and the small were to get a more equitable share of the wealth which they helped to produce, instead of seeing it piled upon a few who were always more strong and the rich more rich. Men were to win success in every line of life's endeavor upon their merits. Favor, privilege, and wealth were not to make the difference against the strength, the energy and intellectual power of the young man's ambition to honestly succeed in his private fortunes or to patriotically serve the public.

allowed to turn around in this locality, except at the intersection of cross streets. I suggest that automobiles be parked on Market street, in the center of street, between the water front and Second street. It would also be advisable to pass an ordinance requiring all vehicles to stand alongside the curb line, when loading and unloading, and swinging out in the street. Our officers should be empowered to force off the streets all public hacks not making a clean and decent appearance.

The department has substituted bicycle mounts for the old horse mounts, which will increase the efficiency as well as save some money, besides making it possible to furnish the new territory with an officer in the day time and two at night.

In concluding this report, I wish to thank every man in the department for their loyalty and faithful service during the past year, and to express my personal appreciation of the encouragement and support given us by the Mayor and members of Council during the year, with the further assurance that we only may expect the very best service from each man in the department during the year now before us.

Approval was given also to a report on the Confederate Memorial Institute, known as the Battle Abbey. The institute, just opened here, embraces a collection of permanent memorials of the Civil War.

First Tragedy of Reunion.

At Camp Stuart today the first tragedy of the reunion occurred when W. A. Hampton, of Appomattox, was dropped dead of apoplexy. Hampton was a Federal veteran, a guest of Appomattox Camp of Confederate Veterans. He was stricken at breakfast and died soon afterward in the camp hospital.
