THE TIGER MANAGER AND HIS GREAT PLAYER.

Ty Cobb

Hugh Jennings

This picture shows two typical photographs of two very great baseball players—Ty Cobb, in the act of batting, and his manager, Hugh Jennings, wearing his fine broad grin after his great outfielder has succeeded in the hunt. Cobb has a peculiar way of drawing up his lips at the moment he bunts, but not so the pitcher or the fielders of the opposing club see the action in time to offset his play. There is little doubt that Cobb is the greatest of baseball players. He may even be the greatest players the game has known.

THEATRICAL

The Grand offers today a three-reel masterpiece by the Selig company entitled "How Callahan Cleaned Up Little Hell." It is a story of corrupt municipal politics; a tale that in the past has been applicable to political conditions in many large cities; a drama of plot and counterplot, and of how John Callahan, captain of police, kept in the straight and narrow way, and finally won his deserved reward. Thomas Sanchi, who plays the leading role, performs a great task in a thoroughly workmanlike manner. Other capable members of the cast are Lafayette McKee, Harold Howard and Richard Le Strange. The Grand management is making every effort to show the best in moving pictures and as the old saying goes, seeing is believing. Drop in today and see for yourself. In addition to the Selig three-reeler the Hearst Selig News Pictorial will make you familiar with all the current events. Searching German steamships in New York harbor; transferring gold coin to the new sub-treasury; Army and Navy athletes meet at San Diego; Troops leaving Montreal, Can., and the burial of the Lusitania victims at Queens-town. All this for the tiny admission of 5 cents.

Tomorrow will be Paramount day. Max Figman, the noted stage star, will be seen in a five-part feature by Lasky company, entitled "What's His Name." Geo. Barr McCutcheon's Intimate Romance of Stage Life.

Black Box Adds New Thrills. Thrilling and more thrilling grows the Black Box with each succeeding installment. The 12th episode at the Bijou today beginning at 11 A. M. contains some of the very greatest thrillers ever injected into a photoplay—thrills that will draw you to the very edge of your seat as you contemplate the almost miraculous stunts pulled off by Sanford Quest, Anna Little and their followers.

You want to see the latest visitation of the mysterious hands, as they carefully and methodically saw away the timbers from under the bridge. You want to see the crash of the train, and the burning timbers after the great wreck, in which many are supposed to have perished. You want to see Anna Little's great plunge to safety in the surging waters of the river below. You want to see these and a hundred and one other incidents just as thrilling, in this, the 12th great episode in two solid reels of thrills.

Another great picture today is "The Circus Girl's Romance," a real ring romance, in two reels, featuring daring Marie Walcamp with Wellington Player in the leading roles. A happy combination of a most romantic love story, real circus life filmed from a story, and those wonderful scenes you always get when during Marie Walcamp and a few of the Universal's wild animals appear together. A raging, roaring lion is the principal character. Gene Gauntier and Jack Clark also present a great single reel drama, "The Woman Hater's Baby," unique play in which "baby" plays the leading role with this popular pair supporting.

SHORTSTOP BARRY ON MARKET MACK WEDDING OUT OLD MEN.

Philadelphia, June 29.—On the heels of the announcement that Pitcher Bob Shaw had been sold by the Philadelphia Athletics to the New York Americans came a report today that Shortstop Jack Barry, of the former world's champions, is on the market. Barry has not played since June 19 because of an injury. Manager Connie Mack is in Washington and other club officials would not discuss the report that he intends to sell Barry.

It also was reported Mack intends to get rid of all his high salaried men except possibly "Stuzy" Melms, first baseman, Amos Strunk, outfielder, and one or two others. The Athletics' manager is building up a new team of young players and within the last few weeks has added several young pitchers and two or three infielders.
