New . York, July 5 .- More than 100 representatives of peace organizations gathered at the American Line pier topresident of the Women's Peace party, St. Louis. Since attending the women's peace conference at The Hague, Miss Addams has visited the capitals of several of the belligerent countries in the interest of peace. Miss Addams declared the people of the warring nations were in a mood to consider peace terms, but that negotiations must come from neutrals and to the American government was the longer they were delayed the harder would be the task.

The nations at war, she said, have no choice but to go on. No negotianow without giving the appearance of weakness, and none of the nations as yet feels in the slightest but that its cause can and must succeed.

Two Parties in Each "In every country at war there are wo parties, civil and military. Members of the civil party are patriotic, and the military party naturally is in control. There is some feeling in Germany that Belgium might be given up n the Congo. In France there is the desire for the restoration of Alsace and Lorraine, but with a feeling that concessions be granted in other ways All this, however, is unofficial and so far as I could see, peace terms and conditions are as yet but a matter of spec-

Right to Sell Arms. In Germany, however, she found among officials, she said, an acknowledgement that the United States was arms and ammunition to whom it chose. In Rome Miss Addams was granted a half hour's audience with the Pope. The Pope said he realized that women had a great part to play in the restoration of peace," she said, "and he added that the Vatican stood ready to cooperate and unite with any move looking toward that end."

Miss Addams said that while in London she investigated the question of "war babies" and found that reports had been greatly exaggerated
