

VIRGINIA G. O. P. CONVENTION OPENS

Question of a "Bone Dry" Platform is Uppermost in Minds of the Delegates

SENATOR WATSON SPEAKS

Charges Democrats with "Treachery" in Saying Wilson Kept Us Out of War—Tells Why the War is "Unpopular."

Roanoke, Va., Aug. 30.—Virginia Republicans in State convention here late tonight placed in the field a full State ticket headed by Thomas J. Munsey, of Bland county, to oppose Westmoreland Davis, Democratic nominee for governor in the November elections.

Roanoke, Va., Aug. 30.—The State Republican convention convened here this morning with an attendance in excess of 500 delegates and prominent Republicans. In the absence of Congressman Bascom Slemm, the meeting was called to order by Vice Chairman R. O. Crockett and the machinery of organization set in motion.

Uppermost in the minds of the delegates is the question of a "bone dry" platform, and heated discussion of the subject is anticipated before the convention closes. Many Republicans claim that in electing Westmoreland Davis, nominee for governor in the primary of August 7, the Democratic party in the State repudiated the cause of prohibition.

Senator Watson declared the war unpopular because thousands of men and women had voted for Woodrow Wilson, believing he would keep the country out of war. He said Democratic committees throughout the country discarded bill-boards with the doctrine that the election of Wilson meant peace, the election of Hughes meant war.

PICKETING IS CONDEMNED.

New York State Suffrage Conference Adopts Resolutions. Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Resolutions condemning the picketing of the White House by members of the Woman's Congressional Union and urging press and public to discriminate between the pickets and the "great body of loyal patriotic women" who are working for suffrage, were adopted late this afternoon by the woman suffrage party at the State conference here.

NEGROES ORGANIZE A NEW NATIONAL POLITICAL PARTY

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 30.—More than 400 prominent negro clergy and professional men from all sections of the country, meeting in a race convention here tonight, organized a new political party to be known as the National Independent Civil and Political Party of America. Resolutions were adopted condemning the "spirit of murder and disregard for law that has led to the killing of more than 28,000 negroes during the past 30 years," and petitioning President Wilson to throw his influence against the disfranchisement of the negro in the South.

MOTHER'S FRIEND FOR Expectant Mothers RELIEVES TENSION

WELL KNOWN SHIPPING CLERK GAINS SIX POUNDS

M. J. Schulken of the American Baking Co., Enthusiastic Over His Physical Improvement.

Says He Sleeps Nine Hours Each Night, Has Good Appetite

While many people of this city have reason to be appreciative for the health and happiness gained through Peplac, none of this number, perhaps, is more enthusiastic about Peplac than Mr. M. J. Schulken.

To Wilmingtonians Mr. Schulken needs no form of introduction. He resides at 1202 North Fourth street, and serves in the capacity of Shipping Clerk for the well known American Baking Company.

"Why shouldn't I be enthusiastic about Peplac?" says Mr. Schulken. "I have actually gained six (6) pounds in weight from my first bottle of it, and I haven't the slightest trace of indigestion or bloating now. And, best of all, I can get in a good night's sleep now and, believe me, nine hours of it every night is to be appreciated. When I arise in the morning I feel fresh and am ready to start my day's work with a feeling of pleasure."

"But before I took Peplac, mine was a different story. I suffered from indigestion, and, of course, was bloated with gas on my stomach and boistering. My appetite was poor and my sleep was greatly affected. "Now I'm feeling fine, thanks to Peplac, and I recommend it because it did the work for me and I feel it will do the same for others who, unfortunately might be in the condition I was in."

"Commenting on Mr. Schulken's story, the Peplac Expert said: "Mr. Schulken lives right here in this city and his story may be substantiated by any doubtful persons if they will merely call on him. Stories like this coming from a man right here and published here is the best proof that Peplac does the work. At the Bellamy Drug store, where it is my pleasure to meet many local men and women each day, I hear many stories similar to the one of Mr. Schulken. People who have suffered from stomach, liver and kidney ailments, nervousness and the like tell me how, after having taken Peplac, they have been greatly relieved and that they are able to eat big meals now without fear of terrible after effects, how they sleep good all night long, how their weight and energy has increased and, generally speaking, how Peplac has reconstructed them."

U-BOATS GROW STRONGER.

Those Lost by Germany Are Replaced by Greater Ones.

At the outbreak of the war Germany had 40 submarines. Since that time it is estimated that she has probably built more than 200 new boats, possibly 250, certainly not 300.

Count von Buelow recently claimed that Germany had 220 submarine units in service. This is undoubtedly the counsel of high hope rather than fact. The submarine has not a long life, and in the beginning at least merely in their maneuvering the submarines met with many disasters. It was not probable that since the war at least 100 and possibly 150 German U-boats have been accounted for—a few captured, a considerable number sunk by mine, net or accident, or scrapped.

So, a conservative estimate, it is probable that Germany has not many more than 150 submarines in service, and the number may be actually less. But, on the other hand, these boats are larger, stronger and more effective than those which have been put out of business. No one perhaps outside of Germany has any reliable knowledge as to just how fast new boats are being built. It is almost certain that it is not less than one fine new submarine per week, and it might easily be two per week, or from 50 to 100 per year.

Many fantastic stories have been afloat as to the enormous size of these new vessels—5,000 tons or more—all most certainly myths. No U-boat has been captured or seen near enough to be measured, but it has more than about 1,200 tons submerged displacement. These boats are triumphs of mechanical engineering. It is known that one of them has done a 4,000 mile journey without outside aid, and it has been stated that some of them have cruised as high as 40 days on the seas without reporting at any base.

Of the submarines counted as in service only about one-third that number are kept on the fighting line. Another third is going and coming—a trip that requires five days or more each way—and another third is laid up for repairs. So that probably there are never more than from 50 to 70 submarines in action at any one time.

While in many cases they hunt alone, it is increasingly evident that their main fighting strategy is now in fours, cruising in a diamond formation, the forward boat being almost wholly a scout boat, the two fighting boats at either side of the diamond, the mother boat, or supply boat, in the rear.

EUROPE WONDERS AT THEM.

American Soldiers Puzzle British and French. (Des Moines Capital.) The American soldiers promise to be a constant source of wonderment to the French and English.

At every strange thing the Americans do the Britishers will exclaim, "My word!" and the French will cheer or hiss at them in a comical way. The Canadians upset most military precedents when they went to Europe. The Americans will go them several better.

The British have already commented on the practice of American sailors traveling first class on the railroads and the aptness with which the American soldiers coin slang phrases.

Further surprises are due when the Yankees get into the firing line. Just how well the American soldier will adapt himself to the trench style of fighting is not known. The chances are he will invent more ways than one to steal across No Man's Land and get up a little action. He has the advantage of freshness. He is free from the depression that is upon the men who have been fighting for three years. And he has the great American reputation to uphold.

It is to be hoped that the receptions by kings and presidents, the unprecedented popular celebrations and the native-born conceit will not turn the American soldier's head.

Wife of Senator Walsh Dead. Washington, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Thomas J. Walsh, wife of the Senator from Montana, died in a hospital in Baltimore, early today. The body will be taken to her home in Helena, Mont., where the funeral will be held. Mrs. Walsh during the last election was head of a women's organization working for President Wilson's re-election.
