

BARTER.

Life has loveliness to sell,
All beautiful and splendid things,
Blue waves whitened on a cliff,
Soaring fire that sways and sings,
And children's faces looking up
Holding wonder like a cup

Life has loveliness to sell,
Music like a curve of gold,
Scent of pine trees in the rain,
Eyes that love you, arms that hold,
And for your spirit's still delight,
Holy thoughts that star the night.

Spend all you have for loveliness,
Buy it and never count the cost;
For one white starry hour of peace
Count many a year of strife well lost.

And for a breath of ecstasy
Give all you have been or could be.
—Sara Teasdale, in Boston Transcript.

THE DAILY FASHION HINT

After all, what is more practical than an all round, round crowned, round brimmed straw hat for spring days and spring sports? Every qualification is answered for by this sulphur colored hat of conservative mien. Novelty chip straw is the foundation, and two-toned double faced ribbon is the trimming. The wide brim rolls up so that it loses much of its wide effect and gives an air of informality suitable to a sport or walking hat.

WILMINGTON HAS CHANGE

Chamber of Commerce Asked to Make Offer for Proposed Merged Presbyterian College for Women.

Wilmington has the opportunity to secure a college for women. The Presbyterians of the state have decided to combine two of the most prominent women's colleges in the state, Peace institute in Raleigh and Queens college in Charlotte, and have asked several of the principal cities of the state to bid upon the proposition. This information was conveyed in a letter to the chamber of commerce from Rev. J. H. Henderlite, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Gastonia, who is chairman of the syndical committee. A committee composed of J. B. Rice, J. F. Roache and E. T. Taylor has been appointed by the chamber to take up the matter locally and lay it before the people of the city.

The announcement will no doubt be of great interest not only to the Presbyterians of the city but to everyone. The synd of North Carolina contemplates the merging of the two well-known institutions into one and placing the new college in the most advantageous location that can be had. Unquestionably Wilmington has claims that will merit most serious consideration. The Presbyterian denomination in the city is strong and influential, the city has material, cultural and an ideal location for the college. Queens college in Charlotte is one of the best known educational institutions for women in the south. For many years it was known as the Presbyterian College for Women, but later was reorganized and the name changed. Peace institute is known throughout the state and the south as one of the colleges of front rank. Neither institution has in recent years received the financial support that was its due. It has been determined to combine the two and place the new institution in a city that will accord it the meed of support which it deserves.

In connection with the contemplated merging of the two schools, the action of the Albemarle Presbytery, now in session in Raleigh, yesterday adopted resolutions declaring for the retention of Peace institute in the capital city will be of interest. These Presbyterians appointed a committee of five to investigate as to the best means of financing the school.

CAPTAIN VICKERS TONIGHT

Former British Army Officer Will Tell of Life in Trenches in Lecture at Academy of Music.

Captain Vickers will arrive in the city this morning from Raleigh, where he lectured last night. The admission sale of reserved seats for his lecture at the Academy of Music tonight at 8 o'clock indicates that he will have a large audience. Many who heard him on his previous visit are eager to have this opportunity of hearing his interesting account of the daily life of modern warfare.

The Hemenway drum and bugle corps and the Boy Scouts in uniform will escort Captain Vickers to the Academy at 7:30 o'clock, his lecture beginning promptly at 8 o'clock. Those having tickets are urged to have their seats reserved immediately at Elvington's, as no extra charge is made for them.

Captain Vickers will wear the picturesque uniform of his regiment, the Seaforth Highlanders, which is one of the most colorful people as is usually done. He has telegraphed "Glad to conform to any arrangements you make." After his lecture at the Academy tonight he will be carried promptly by automobile to St. Stephen's church, Fifth and Red Cross, where he will make a patriotic talk to the colored people, giving them a general resume of war conditions in Europe.

Captain Vickers has been asked to make a talk to the colored people while in Wilmington, as owing to the capacity crowds at the Academy of Music on all these occasions, it has been impossible to reserve the third gallery for the colored people as is usually done. He has telegraphed "Glad to conform to any arrangements you make." After his lecture at the Academy tonight he will be carried promptly by automobile to St. Stephen's church, Fifth and Red Cross, where he will make a patriotic talk to the colored people, giving them a general resume of war conditions in Europe. Vickers in offering to make this later talk to the colored people, it has been thought best to move up the time for his lecture at the Academy of Music to 8 o'clock. The public is asked to take note of this change of time as it has been impossible to correct the hour printed on the tickets. Rev. Dr. Wm. H. Milton will introduce Captain Vickers and it has been decided that no other will occupy seats on the platform except Captain Vickers and Dr. Milton.

LINER OVERTURNS AT PIER AND SINKS

were ignored and no one on a government official was allowed inside the lines.

Masts and Funnel Broken Off.
As the vessel went over on her side her masts and funnels struck the adjoining pier, a steel structure, and were broken off. Flying pieces of wood hit a number of the men and possibly a badly that it was necessary to convey them to hospital. It is understood also that several men were injured by being crushed between the overturned on the opposite side of the slip. Rev. Dr. Wm. H. Milton will introduce Captain Vickers and it has been decided that no other will occupy seats on the platform except Captain Vickers and Dr. Milton.

It also was reported that it was necessary to cut holes with gas torches in the exposed side of the vessel in order to liberate some men who were caught below decks. Men on the deck of the St. Paul claimed they heard tapplings from workers entrapped inside. Before leaving the drydock the navy gun crew, which accompanies the vessel on her trips through the war zone, went aboard the St. Paul. All these men escaped, navy officials said, but they, with the members of the working crew of the ship, had to leave their personal effects on board. The St. Paul had no cargo and aside from the damage to the machinery and to her interior furnishings the loss will be confined to the cost of salvage operations.
