LOW GRADE COTTON TO BE USED BY WARDEPT.

Charlotte Men's Protest to Simmons Gets Results.

South Crowded With Low Grades for Which Market Is Narrow—Good as Any Cotton for Army Cloth—Will Use It.

BY S. R. WINTERS.
 Washington, June 21.—Complaints from word H. Wood Charlotta, president of the American Trust Co., and P. C. Whitlock, president of the Charlotte chamber of commerce to Senator F. M. Simmons as to the failure of the government to utilize the low grade of cotton in the manufacture of cloth for building army tents have produced results.

Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia and Senator Simmons have obtained definite assurances from the war industries board that the inferior grade of cotton would be utilized. Observers of the New York cotton exchange and manipulators of cotton futures have noted that the difference between strict middling and low middling has been eight cents a pound. Cloth made of low grade cotton is practically as good as that made from strict middling cotton so far as wearing qualities are concerned, writes President Whitlock of the Charlotte chamber of commerce.

"If the Government permit the use of low grades in the manufacture of cloth the result would be that a market would be created for the low grade cotton now crowding the warehouses of the south and for which there is no market," said Mr. Whitlock.

"The cotton farmers of this section of the state and throughout the south are in distress today because the Government has practically shut out the sale of low grades of cotton and from the best information I can obtain it would seem that this course is not only unnecessary but unjust," said Mr. Wood. The letter of P. C. Whitlock to Senator Simmons follows:

"I am writing to urge upon you what I believe to be a very important matter, to wit, a change in the policy of the Government so as to allow the use of low grades cotton in the manufacture of cotton goods for the government.

"As you doubtless know, there is at this time a very large stock of low grade cotton throughout the south. It is almost impossible to sell this cotton at this time. The New York cotton exchange difference is more than ever before, as I am informed. The spot differences are much greater than the contract differences. I am informed by a cotton merchant that the spot differences at this time are about as follows:

"Middling fair 8.00; on middling, strict good middling, 7.00; on good middling, 6.00; on strict middling, 5.00; on middling, basis, 4.00; on July strict low middling 1.50 off; strict good ordinary 8.00 off; good ordinary, 10.00 off.

"By the above figures you will see that the present differences in the price of strict middling for instance and low middling is eight cents per pound. This is for spot cotton. There is not as you know any such difference as that between the value of the cotton as it is sold by cotton dealers that the chief factor responsible for this is the government requirement that government goods shall be made of high grade cotton. The staple and the fiber of low grade cotton is practically as good as that of the high grade cotton, the difference in grade being attributed largely to the trash and color. Cloth made of low middling cotton is practically as good as that made from strict middling cotton so far as wearing qualities are concerned. Low cotton will last no longer than blue or stained cotton.

"If the government would permit the use of low grades in the manufacture of its cloth, the result would be that a market be created for the low grade cotton now crowding the warehouses of the south and for which there is no market.

"It might be argued that this would lower the price of good cotton. I do not think the result would necessarily follow or, if it did, the average price would be raised and the general result would be beneficial.
