nition-making industries are war nurtured enterprises, and by their very nature suffer when cannons cease firothers will be attuned to suit the needs of preparedness program. The dispensation of war industries vitally concerns North Carolina, counting them as institutions to insure world peace. A tank corps, a tubercular hospital, the world's largest radio station, a field artillery camp, a regular cantonment and shipbuilding plants suggest the diversity of war time enterprises situated in the Tar Heel state.

The question uppermost in the minds of Tar Heels today was, will these enterprises assume permanency or will they pass in the refashioned national program? Only a partial answer can be made. The deliberations of the international peace council, the dimensions of the preparedness plans and the nature of the enterprises seeking permanency are determining factors. Or, to employ the words of Senator F. M. Simmons, the doctrine of the survival of the fittest will ultimately determine the status of the war time industries in North Carolina.

The doctrine will have a nationwide application as regards war-time

The tank school at Raleigh will likely be abandoned; however, its status; has not been officially determined. Desspite rumors, the construction division of the war department stated tosued to immediately abandon construction work on the camp. The department suggested that such a step was a possibility of the future. A delegation from Raleigh, composed of M. R. Beaman, John Hinsdale, Jr., W. Jones and Fred Mahler, hastened to Washington today to intercede in behalf of the retention of the school.

Senator Simmons told the delegation that nothing definite could be achieved relative to the maintenance of the tank ments with the war department setting forth the merits of Raleigh for such a school. He was of the opinion that expert testimony from the war department would ultimately determine the status of Camp Polk. Senators Simmons thinks it unwise to institute a "scramble" for camps at this time. He issued the following interview to The Star representative this

The senior senator thinks the above enunciation applies to Camp Bragg, at Fayetteville, and other war nurtured industries in North Carolina. larger cities, and all workers reported great progress. At the Charlotte meeting upward of 20 men pledged themselves : give $1,000 each. In Durham the noon report indicated that more than $12,000 had been raised. Many counties have gone over the top, and are sending in reports indicating that their quotas will be more than doubled.

Director Dunlap is exceptionally well pleased with the reports from the colored workers , who are enthusiastically pressing the work among people of their own race. They are securing large donations and say that the colored people of the state will be one hundred per cent. loyal.

A message from Dr. John R. Mott. general director of the campaign, says that the big corporations of the country are responding generously to the call for funds, and that they fully realize the extent of the needs of the boys. He emphasizes the importance of the work being done by the seven organizations, and says that the great corporations knowthat their large contributions will b used for the best interest of the men who have saved the world from Prussian rule. Dr. Mott gives out the following figures representing contributions by the corporations:

Proctor and Gamble $200,000; T. J. Emery Co., $100,000; Cincinnati Milling Machine Co., $50,000; R. K. Leblon Co., $60,000 Luke Heimer Co. $50,000; Peters Cartridge Co., $50,000; Perkins, Campbell Co., $50,000; J. G. Schmidlap Co.

It is remembered that the United States Steel corporation has given five

No greater test could have been brought about, and the people have responded most magnificently."

Tomorrow's reports are expected to show North Carolina near the pinnacle of the quota, but the people will not stop until they are assured that the boys will have every comfort possible during the period of demobilization, which will last for a period of not less than eighteen months.
