

THE MORNING STAR
 Published by the
WILMINGTON STAR COMPANY, INC.
 Wilmington, N. C.

MEMBER THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
 The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for publication of all news credited to it or not other wise credited in this paper and also the local news published herein. All rights of re-publication of special dispatches herein are also reserved.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE:
 1 Yr. Six Mo.
 By mail, postage paid... $6.00 $3.50
 By carrier... $7.00 $4.50
 Sunday edition only... $1.00 $.60
 Daily by carrier or mail less than three months, 60 cents per month.

TELEPHONES:
 Business Office... No. 51
 Editorial Rooms... No. 61

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice in Wilmington, N. C., under the act of congress of March 3, 1879.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1918.

TOP OF THE MORNIN'.

The Kingdom of heaven is at hand. But then that Kingdom always has been at hand for any who were simple enough to reach forth eager hands and take it.

The Kingdom is no doubt come night unto the world, but if the world will not clear its vision to discern it the coming may be all in vain. In the pressure of these great times the Spirit may be upon the threshold of our very souls, and thundering in our ears, and we shall be all unaware of it unless we can generate some spiritual response within ourselves.—Montague.

Hog killing weather is on the way.

We had better be mapping out Wilmington's 1919 program.

Chicago manufacturers of foodstuffs say there will soon be a drop in prices.

Time waits for neither war nor peace. War is nearly two weeks behind time.

If you haven't got anything else to do, you can get ready to tell 1918 goodbye.

"Women want a voice in the government." Oh, that's all right just so they don't insist on a hand in it.

If history repeats itself, it is to be hoped it will be a long time off till it repeats the last four years of it.

For they speak not peace but they devise deceitful matters against them that are quiet in the land.—Psalms, xxxiv, 20.

Well, after the new year begins, everybody would have reason to be glad if we shall have more business in government and less government in business.

The Charleston News and Courier says: "It is announced from Washington that Mr. Taft won't be one of the peace delegates. Most people already inferred as much." Mr. Taft knows he could not reasonably expect it of any self-respecting administration. He knows why.

The Baltimore Sun says: "Lord, what a monument the world owes to women." They deserve a monument that would reach beyond the skies, but inasmuch as they can't get it, we move that all women be put on the payroll with equal pay for equal service. The average woman would get more out of that than she would out of a monument.

Senator Penrose expresses the opinion that the League of Nations to Enforce Peace is "a novel idea, probably a vicious free-trade plot." It isn't a free-trade plot but inasmuch as it isn't a protective tariff plot to enrich tariff beneficiaries out of the pockets of the people, it can not possibly appeal to him. He knows a plot by which one class can get rich out of the pockets of the mass of the American people.

Senators in the United States may say unprincipled things about Herbert Hoover but he saved the Belgian people and they will build him a monument at their first opportunity. That shows the difference between a grateful people and a lot of partisan bonehead American politicians. The estimate which England places upon Hoover will far outweigh the sordid appreciation of smallbone politicians in the United States.

As we are still at war with the Russian bolsheviks, it is to be hoped that it is true that General Alexieff, former commander-in-chief of all Russian armies when Russia was an Entente belligerent, is marching on Moscow at the head of an army of 100,000 men, including a large Cossack force under command of General Deniken. They are operating under the all-Russian government at Omsk, and their object is to overthrow the bolsheviks.

The senate of the next congress, which begins its functions next year, consists of 49 republicans and 47 democrats. Senator LaFollette is included among the republicans and if he is refractory he will give the republicans trouble. However, National republican chairman Hays is more upset over the fact that seven progressive republicans are in revolt against making Senator Penrose chairman of the great senate finance committee, to which he is traditionally entitled by the rule of seniority. They insist that Penrose be sidetracked, and Chairman Hays has been hovering around Washington for a week endeavoring to secure a truce with the warring senators. We shall see whether the seven progressives will remain obdurate.

WHEN VENGEANCE IS RIGHTEOUS

We are unable to interpret the Word, "Vengeance is mine, I will repay, sayeth the Lord" so as to construe it into meaning that the Germans shall be saved from any direct, personal punishment for their maddening inhumanities by the payment of any indemnities, however huge.

When we read of the condition of the allied prisoners coming out of Germany since the armistice, we confess to berserker rage. We admit it is extreme, but we are almost on the point of saying that any man in America, England, France or Italy who would mitigate peace terms for Germany in the hope of destroying seeds for future wars should be shot at sunrise. Statesmanship of this kind is akin to cowardice. It is more yellow than cautious.

No peace terms with Germany will ever be just, even reasonably just, that do not call for the persons of the men responsible for the treatment of these prisoners, and for crimes against civilians, so that summary executions may take place. We recall the time when England implored her manhood to fight "for God and king and country." The manhood of the empire answered. Thousands of them were captured, particularly last spring. Now the remnants of those thousands stagger out of German prison hells, some to drop dead along the road to civilization; some to drop dead as they reach the allied lines; all of them mere bags of bones, dirty, filthy, covered with vermin and sores; all of them starving, all of them victims of the most brutal, inhuman treatment of the human mind can imagine.

During all these years England has fed and humanely treated Huns in her hands. France has done likewise; America and Italy also. Having called to their manhood to fight for God and country, shall these nations settle for this hellishness like a cashier cancels a note?

It will strengthen religion and civilization to so bring home to these devils the wrath of an outraged humanity that not in a thousand years shall a Hun dare to raise his hand against a human being.

Begin with the Kaiser and come down the list of those who are guilty of ordered and systematic cruelties.

THE RESIGNATION OF SECRETARY McADOO.

The resignation of the Hon. William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury and director general of railroads, announced from Washington on Friday evening, was a great surprise to the country. The surprise was no greater than the regret that President Wilson's ablest cabinet member should separate himself from the administration at a time when his vast abilities were needed by the country almost as much as during the past 18 months of the war period of the administration.

Mr. McAdoo resigned because he needed rest and because of the fact that he could not afford to serve longer and live in Washington on his salary. A matter of salary, however, should not have been allowed to stand between the government and so able, efficient and useful a man as he. That matter of salary certainly should long ago have been arranged, and the people will be surprised that it was not done long since in accordance with the magnitude of the service he rendered to the United States and its people.

McAdoo has served us at a serious financial loss to himself, indeed if his arduous service of six years has not actually impaired his health. At best he is not a man of great physical strength, although he is one of the most marvelous energy and remarkable alertness. It is safe to say that he has made the ablest secretary of the treasury since the foundation of the government, in all respects and under all the circumstances. He has shown his magnificent financial ability and has impressed the whole country with his vast capacity and the wonderful comprehensiveness of his grasp. The whole world must fully recognize the tremendous executive ability he has displayed in practically reorganizing the national financial system without a hitch and especially in his management of the war finances of the country during American participation in the world war.

No secretary of the treasury has ever been called upon to finance the American republic upon the enormous scale which has marked Mr. McAdoo's administration. His duties have been stupendous but he has been in every way equal to his gigantic task. His wisdom, ability, tactfulness and resourcefulness have added great strength to President Wilson's administration from the first to last.

Possibly no higher tribute could be paid to Secretary McAdoo than that contained in President Wilson's letter reluctantly accepting his resignation. Certainly Secretary McAdoo added to his already great distinction by his eminent service as secretary of the treasury, and it goes without saying that the country will sustain a loss in his retirement from the cabinet.

What is Mr. McAdoo to do with himself when he lays down the burden and honor of public life? The country will be curious to know that, but we will warrant that he has already assured himself of a business career of great scope and with far greater remuneration than he has received for the inconceivably valuable service he has so disinterestedly rendered to our nation.

HOW ABOUT PATRIOTIC INDIGNATION?

Somewhat or other, it is to be hoped the republican party as a whole will condemn the ill conceived and apparently malicious attacks on the president of the United States by three senators at the closing session of congress on Thursday last. We are prepared to believe that democrats as a whole would not countenance such baseless and disreputable charges as were made in a forum so grave and reputable as the United States senate, had democratic senators so unwisely referred to a republican president of the republic. The Charleston News and Courier thinks this of it:

"There is bitterness enough in the republican assaults on the president but there is very little brains. That is the saving feature of the situation. When senators get up in their places in the senate and solemnly assert that the president has taken charge of the cable lines so as to keep the American people in ignorance of what he is doing at the peace conference, a broad smile spreads over the face of the president. The thing is so ridiculous that the national sense of humor is instantly tickled."

Smiles! Patriotic men of all parties ought to be disgusted that such a thing should occur in the United States senate. Cataline was not any more boldly charged in the Roman senate than President Wilson was accused in the senate of a self-respecting nation like the American republic. If the people of America do not possess a sense of indignation instead of a sense of the absurd only we might well despair of the future of our nation. Pity it has such men as Senators Watson, Sherman and Kellogg in a place of such eminence as the American senate.

ARRANGING FOR THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

Rapid arrangements are being made at Versailles for the world peace conference that is to be held in the historic imperial palace there in the environs of Paris. Versailles really is in Paris, for it is where the trains arrive from the English channel ports, and when the trains are approaching it is "Paris" that is called out to the passengers. Upon arrival in France from the channel steamships, passengers journey 140 miles by rail and Versailles is their getting off place at the Gare French capital, now to be invested with new historic significance.

It is at Versailles that the world's peace conference is to meet, with President Wilson as one of the notable attendants. Versailles is daily making preparation for this great event. The deliberations are to be held in the Grand Trianon part of the famous Chateau of Versailles, once occupied by Marie Antoinette.

It is announced that the priceless tapestries and furniture, removed to a place of safety during the hostilities, are being replaced. The gardens are being restored and the camouflage coverings on the statues and fountains removed.

The waters of the grand canal, which also have been camouflaged in order to avert airplane raids, are being restored to their natural condition. "The Hall of Mirrors," where William I. proclaimed the German Empire and where the peace treaty doubtless will be signed, is one of the first places to be made ready to receive the plenipotentiaries.

The American representatives at the peace conference and their staffs will occupy a building on the Place de la Concorde, which has been the headquarters of the American Red Cross since June.

The delegates are going to be given an opportunity to visit the various departments of France and see for themselves some of the ravages of the Huns during their invasion of France, and from which our own North Carolina soldiers helped to drive the despoilers and bring to France the proud day of redemption. Yes, even our own Wilmington boys had a large share in the momentous events that are to have their climax in the peace treaty that is to be made at Versailles.

Better transportation and better mail service is what Wilmington ought to get as soon as it is gettable.

HORRIBLE FACTS OF HUN WAR PRISONS

Even Armistice Did Not Soften Inhuman Treatment.

Pitiable Wrecks of Manhood Staggering Out of Germany, Many Dying of Utter Exhaustion After Being Freed From Prison

(Special Star Correspondence.)
 New York, Nov. 23.—That the Germans never for one moment let up on their inhuman treatment of allied prisoners, not even when they saw that the end was near, is evidenced by a dispatch from British headquarters in France telling of the arrival of the first batch of released British prisoners.

Men who had been in the prime of life when they were taken prisoner only last March, were scarcely able to stagger across the allied lines and number of them dropped dead on the journey from sheer exhaustion.

The story of their harrowing conditions has just been described by an eye witness.

"Along the roads that lead to the allied lines from territory that is still in German hands there pass today pitiful processions of broken starving men—prisoners newly released from prison camps in Belgium. The sight of them makes one's heart ache. They are mere shadows of men in rags and tatters, stumbling along rough stone roads, their sunken eyes strained for the first glimpse of the allied lines. The Germans opened the doors of their cages on Thursday morning and told them they could go. They walked out free air like men in a dream, and were set upon highways that would have been to them a paradise of the allied armies. Empty handed, without great coats to protect them from bitter air, some of them indeed with nothing but a fragment of old tunic pinned across their wasted bodies, they have walked the weary road towards home scarcely able to keep upright. Some of them died upon the way, and their bodies lie in rough graves where they fell. Others barely kept body and soul together, until they came at last into the hands of their comrades within the lines. One such procession passed the outposts east of Courtrai this morning. The men who composed it bore little resemblance to British soldiers. They wore German caps and the horrible prison uniforms which made them look like German soldiers, and at first troops who received them could not believe they were their own people. They came from prison camp at Halle, in the province of Westphalia, had been employed in loading ammunition, chiefly bombs for aeroplanes which attacked towns behind the allied lines. All of them were taken prisoners during the fighting around Givry, in the month of March and April. These prisoners had only two baths in eight months. They were herded like cattle and fed far less. One boy of twenty might have been a lad of ten so shrunken was his body. Many of them were disfigured by untrimmed beards and ragged hair, and their faces and bodies were covered with sores. It is impossible to give an adequate picture of their shocking condition. The little column was taken first to a divisional rest camp and when the men had been medically examined they were sent to the nearest baths and then fed and given a clean change of clothes. They were several thousand allied prisoners released from camps in Belgium now on their way into our lines at various points. Kindly inhabitants are feeding them on their journey and doing what they can to alleviate their sufferings."

MORE PORTO RICANS DIE.

Bodies Sent to City Yesterday Morning—Southport News Notes.

(Special Star Correspondence.)
 Southport, Nov. 23.—Five more of the Porto Ricans who died in the bodies sent to Wilmington this morning on the steamer Norrison for interment. The 24th band accompanied them and they will be given a military burial.

Enzo Davila, an interpreter for the Porto Ricans at Port Caswell, will remain with his companions. Dr. Blackburn went to Porto Rico on the City of Savannah.

Three Porto Ricans who came here on the City of Savannah have employment in the city and are making good. Two of them are with Sergt. Garnett and one with Edward Davis.

The staunch fishing schooner Thomaston, Atlantic City, arrived in port lately and will engage in deep sea fishing. This boat was here last season and met with much success. Capt. Charley Hewett will probably purchase the fish and ship to northern markets.

Capt. Joe Finner, a former resident of this place and Wilmington, was greeting his many friends here this week. Before moving to New Bern Captain Finner was a local pilot for the harbor.

News has reached here that Dr. Marshall C. Guthrie of the public health service and family have left Panama for the states and are expected here in a few days.

George Keen of Wilmington has resumed work at Port Caswell after a lay-off for several weeks on account of sickness. His family came with him.

Capt. W. T. Willis, keeper of the Cape Fear coast guard station is quite sick at Morehead City with pneumonia and many are anxious about him. He has been at Morehead City over two weeks.

Announcement is made that Rev. Frank D. Dean of Wilmington, will hold services in St. Phillip's church here Sunday morning.

Born to Mrs. Mrs. W. S. Davis, on November 2nd a daughter. Mother and daughter are doing well and getting on nicely.

Capt. Joe Newton, of Wilmington, passed several hours last Saturday, 79,217 square miles in nine southern states will be released from quarantine made necessary on account of the prevalence of the cattle tick. This is declared to be the greatest accomplishment in a single year since the campaign began in 1906. The area released in North Carolina during the whole of the campaign of twelve years, is 29,674 square miles, leaving an area infected of 49,543 square miles. Seventy-nine per cent of what was infected area has been released. This is a good showing for the state and means much for its cattle growing industry. One of the things hard to understand is that there are portions of the state

HORRIBLE FACTS OF HUN WAR PRISONS

Even Armistice Did Not Soften Inhuman Treatment.

Pitiable Wrecks of Manhood Staggering Out of Germany, Many Dying of Utter Exhaustion After Being Freed From Prison

(Special Star Correspondence.)
 New York, Nov. 23.—That the Germans never for one moment let up on their inhuman treatment of allied prisoners, not even when they saw that the end was near, is evidenced by a dispatch from British headquarters in France telling of the arrival of the first batch of released British prisoners.

Men who had been in the prime of life when they were taken prisoner only last March, were scarcely able to stagger across the allied lines and number of them dropped dead on the journey from sheer exhaustion.

The story of their harrowing conditions has just been described by an eye witness.

"Along the roads that lead to the allied lines from territory that is still in German hands there pass today pitiful processions of broken starving men—prisoners newly released from prison camps in Belgium. The sight of them makes one's heart ache. They are mere shadows of men in rags and tatters, stumbling along rough stone roads, their sunken eyes strained for the first glimpse of the allied lines. The Germans opened the doors of their cages on Thursday morning and told them they could go. They walked out free air like men in a dream, and were set upon highways that would have been to them a paradise of the allied armies. Empty handed, without great coats to protect them from bitter air, some of them indeed with nothing but a fragment of old tunic pinned across their wasted bodies, they have walked the weary road towards home scarcely able to keep upright. Some of them died upon the way, and their bodies lie in rough graves where they fell. Others barely kept body and soul together, until they came at last into the hands of their comrades within the lines. One such procession passed the outposts east of Courtrai this morning. The men who composed it bore little resemblance to British soldiers. They wore German caps and the horrible prison uniforms which made them look like German soldiers, and at first troops who received them could not believe they were their own people. They came from prison camp at Halle, in the province of Westphalia, had been employed in loading ammunition, chiefly bombs for aeroplanes which attacked towns behind the allied lines. All of them were taken prisoners during the fighting around Givry, in the month of March and April. These prisoners had only two baths in eight months. They were herded like cattle and fed far less. One boy of twenty might have been a lad of ten so shrunken was his body. Many of them were disfigured by untrimmed beards and ragged hair, and their faces and bodies were covered with sores. It is impossible to give an adequate picture of their shocking condition. The little column was taken first to a divisional rest camp and when the men had been medically examined they were sent to the nearest baths and then fed and given a clean change of clothes. They were several thousand allied prisoners released from camps in Belgium now on their way into our lines at various points. Kindly inhabitants are feeding them on their journey and doing what they can to alleviate their sufferings."

MORE PORTO RICANS DIE.

Bodies Sent to City Yesterday Morning—Southport News Notes.

(Special Star Correspondence.)
 Southport, Nov. 23.—Five more of the Porto Ricans who died in the bodies sent to Wilmington this morning on the steamer Norrison for interment. The 24th band accompanied them and they will be given a military burial.

Enzo Davila, an interpreter for the Porto Ricans at Port Caswell, will remain with his companions. Dr. Blackburn went to Porto Rico on the City of Savannah.

Three Porto Ricans who came here on the City of Savannah have employment in the city and are making good. Two of them are with Sergt. Garnett and one with Edward Davis.

The staunch fishing schooner Thomaston, Atlantic City, arrived in port lately and will engage in deep sea fishing. This boat was here last season and met with much success. Capt. Charley Hewett will probably purchase the fish and ship to northern markets.

Capt. Joe Finner, a former resident of this place and Wilmington, was greeting his many friends here this week. Before moving to New Bern Captain Finner was a local pilot for the harbor.

News has reached here that Dr. Marshall C. Guthrie of the public health service and family have left Panama for the states and are expected here in a few days.

George Keen of Wilmington has resumed work at Port Caswell after a lay-off for several weeks on account of sickness. His family came with him.

Capt. W. T. Willis, keeper of the Cape Fear coast guard station is quite sick at Morehead City with pneumonia and many are anxious about him. He has been at Morehead City over two weeks.

Announcement is made that Rev. Frank D. Dean of Wilmington, will hold services in St. Phillip's church here Sunday morning.

Born to Mrs. Mrs. W. S. Davis, on November 2nd a daughter. Mother and daughter are doing well and getting on nicely.

Capt. Joe Newton, of Wilmington, passed several hours last Saturday, 79,217 square miles in nine southern states will be released from quarantine made necessary on account of the prevalence of the cattle tick. This is declared to be the greatest accomplishment in a single year since the campaign began in 1906. The area released in North Carolina during the whole of the campaign of twelve years, is 29,674 square miles, leaving an area infected of 49,543 square miles. Seventy-nine per cent of what was infected area has been released. This is a good showing for the state and means much for its cattle growing industry. One of the things hard to understand is that there are portions of the state

Great Sale of Dresses
AT G. DANNENBAUM'S

Beginning Tomorrow We Will Put on Sale our Entire Stock of Serge, Jersey and Satin Dresses

At Greatly Reduced Prices

Do not fail to take advantage of this opportunity and make your selections as early as possible.

WOOL JERSEY DRESSES

$25.00 Dresses to	$18.50	Satin and Crepe Dresses	$18.50
$29.50 Dresses to	$22.50	$25.00 Dresses to	$22.50

NO APPROVALS :: NO RETURNS

CURRENT COMMENT.

If Charleston is ever to lay the foundations of a trade with Latin-America now is the time when the thing must be done. Let us make no mistake as to that. For years we have talked about our possibilities to the south and at last in ways that we never dreamed of there is a real opportunity at hand. The commercial arrangements of our Latin-American neighbors are undergoing a radical transformation which must sweep in extent. This gives us our chance, and the best of it is that for the first time we shall be equipped in all respects to improve it. It is stated from Washington that plans are now being formulated rapidly for the immediate extension of the trade between the United States and south and central America. Charleston business interests should be fully informed as to all that is doing and alive to the improvement of every opening which may present itself for making this city one of the principal ports through which this trade is prosecuted. Once the stream of commerce between this country and Latin-America is started flowing through this port it will grow of itself. The important thing is to make a beginning. That will take brains and energy and it is for Charleston business men to supply both.—Charleston News and Courier.

FLORA MACDONALD NEWS.

College to Hear Miss Diete Howell of Tarboro, Accomplished Singer.

(Special Star Correspondence.)
 Red Springs, Nov. 23.—Mrs. C. P. McCler, of Tarboro, visited her daughters, who are among the students at Flora Macdonald college on her way back home from the Sand Hill fair at Pinehurst.

Quite a number of Red Springs and college folks attended the Sand Hill fair on Wednesday and Thursday and Rev. A. C. Bridgman, Rev. C. G. Vardell and Dr. J. L. McMillan spent Friday at Pinehurst attending a meeting of the board of trustees of Flora Macdonald college.

Miss Margaret Morton, of Oxford, went home last week on account of the death in France of her brother, Trassie Morton. She went with her aunt, Miss Margaret Wilson, of Dallas, Texas, who visited her here.

The college and town are to have the pleasure at an early date of hearing in concert one of the most talented young women, Miss Diete Howell, of Tarboro. Miss Howell is a singer who has made a reputation for herself in concert circles in New York and other places where art is appreciated.

MAJ. STEADMAN WILL TAKE GRANDDAUGHTER OUT WEST

Washington, Nov. 23.—Representative Charles M. Steadman will leave Washington within a week for New Mexico, where he will take his little granddaughter, Miss Katherine Palmer, of Greensboro, for treatment. She has been quite ill for many months and the change of climate is sought in hopes of recovery.

October Imports and Exports.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Both imports and exports decreased in October compared with preceding months of this year. Figures made public today by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce show October imports valued at $24,000,000 against $26,000,000 in September, and $231,000,000 in October 1917. Exports aggregated $503,000,000, compared with $550,000,000 in September of this year and $542,000,000 in October 1917.

NATURE PROVIDES THE INGREDIENTS

Argo-Phosphate, the new Herbal Remedy, Now Endorsed by Local People.

If the digestive organs are not properly performing the work which nature has assigned to them, then nutrition, which is absolutely essential to the recovery of other diseased parts, will be lacking and there can be no permanent relief. When bodily nutrition is normal, the stomach digests the food, the blood absorbs and carries the nourishment to the different parts of the body, causing the various organs to properly perform their functions.

Nature has provided a remedy in the ingredients of Argo-Phosphate, which is now being introduced here. It is purely vegetable and its vitalizing, corrective and reconstructive qualities are so pronounced that beneficial results are noticed from the first day. That this is true, it is only necessary to listen to the statements made daily by local people who have given Argo-Phosphate a fair trial and have benefited thereby.

It is dispensed by Robert R. Bellamy.

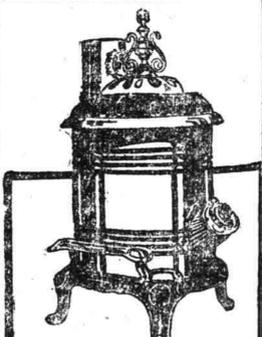

Women Get Postoffice.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Miss Julia A. Blackmon has been appointed postmistress at Haw River, Alamance county. Miss Lucy Hardee, daughter of Doctor P. R. Hardee, has been appointed postmistress at Stem, Granville county. She succeeds Postmaster A. Las Brinkley, who resigned.

Now is Best Time to Consult Them.

MADAM AND PROF. STANLEY
 Royal Astrologers, Life Readers.
 Who lift the veil of Futurity, as that you may peer in and view the Myriad Wonders of the Future.
 They give scientific advice on health, travel, position, advancement, speculation, love, courtship, marriage, separation, settle domestic difficulties, tell lovers when success, happiness or failure will follow the marriage vow, when to marry, when to marry, and how to win the man or woman of your choice.

CHARGES MODERATE.
 Remember The Stanleys are the only Graduate Astrologers in the South. Ten years in North Carolina. Parlors at Villa View, Wrightsville cars stop at door. Hours: 1 to 8 daily. (Including Sunday).

Morning Comfort
 Dress in a warm room—heated quickly and evenly with a guaranteed

Cole's Original
Wood Heater
 Built To Last

Only the heaviest and most durable metal enters into its construction. Extra heavy gauge lining from bottom to top inside of stove. It must be built right to remain airtight. Select your size and style now.

Holds fire 36 hours.

W. J. Bradshaw & Co., Inc.
 126-128 Princess St., Garrell Bldg.